THE PRICE OF GAS.
The annual meeting of the Consumers' Gas Company was held on Monday, Oct. 30. The city corporation, representing gas consumers, has certain statutory rights in the administration of the company's affairs. No one was at the meeting, however, to represent the city, and an auditor, whom the city has authority to appoint to investigate the company's affairs. It was even with difficulty that The World was able to secure a copy of the annual report. No one at the City Hall appears to be paying slightest attention to business, although every gas consumer has a direct financial interest in the profits of the company. The annual report is a brief document. The public are let into the company's secrets, but sufficient figures are given to show that gas consumers are entitled to a reduction in the price of gas. The report states that the company's receipts for the year were $691,500. After the total expenses for the year are deducted from the receipts, there is a balance of $295,556. Out of this sum $170,000 goes for dividends, being 10 per cent. on $1,700,000. The balance is accounted for as follows: Depreciation of plant, $50,000; profit and loss, $51,944. The items of expense in the statement are as follows: $250,000. So that, if the company has done with its large receipts. Three miles of mains have been laid during the year, and a large purifying house erected. Part of the money for these extensions was, we are told, for the rest of the year. The interest is that the rest was paid out of current receipts. At any rate, the items submitted are vague and indefinite, and seem designed to hide, instead of reveal, the true state of affairs. Notwithstanding all this, the company admits a profit for the year of $81,944. The increase in the price of gas to 90 cents has greatly increased the consumption and the revenue. The profits are now so large that the company does not know what to do with them. By statute it is prevented from distributing more than 10 per cent. to the shareholders. Under the statute gas consumers are entitled to a reduction in the price of gas when the surplus warrants it. The surplus last year, after every conceivable charge had been made against the revenue, was $81,944. This surplus in reduced rates. If the price of gas had been 80 cents, that is, 10 cents less than the existing rate, the income on the output of last year would have been $77,000 less than what was actually received. This estimate is based on the assumption that the consumption at 80 cents would be the same as at 90 cents. But the consumption at 80 cents would have been larger than at 90, so that the difference would have been considerably less than $77,000. The company has had the benefit of the surplus for 100 years. It has charged 80 cents last year, its receipts would have paid all charges, including 10 per cent. dividend, and left a surplus of anywhere up to $31,000.

The public should have 80-cent gas last year and 70-cent gas this year. They are entitled to it by law. The Consumers' Gas Company is betraying a trust that the people, through the Legislature, imposed in them. The Mayor and Council are negligent in their duty and are not doing their best to protect the public. The surplus last year warrants an immediate reduction of 10 cents at least. There is such a plethora of money and assets in the hands of the company that it does not know what to do with it. In order to increase the surplus, it has put down the price of gas. This is a most unbusinesslike action. The surplus is not a profit, but a loss. The company is declaring dividends a year in advance. This is little short of robbery. It is never intended that the surplus should be used for any such purpose. This surplus belongs, legally and morally, to the gas consumers of Toronto. The shareholders have no right to declare the profits of the year 1898 as dividends of the year 1899. The year 1898 was a year of the consumers, and it should be paid out to them in the shape of lower charges for gas. If the people of Toronto were justly dealt by they would not be charged more than 80 cents for gas. Last year's surplus alone calls for a reduction of more than 10 cents. Every citizen hitherto has put the company in a better position financially. It would not suffer one iota by reducing the price yearly by 10 cents until the rate yielded the largest income was reached. This rate is 80 cents. The neighborhood of 80 cents, and rather below than above that figure.

The company, as we all know, has defied the courts in the past. So glaring, however, is its betrayal of its trust that the public, at the present time, feel that the City Council, if it acted with determination, could shame the company into doing its duty. We trust the Mayor and aldermen will assert the rights of the people and demand an immediate and substantial reduction in the price of gas.

THE UNIVERSITY QUESTION.
The World has received a letter from a gentleman connected with Trinity College, regretting the attitude of the University towards the college. He says that he "reflected" upon either Trinity or Queen's. What he said was that from the point of view of efficiency for the money spent, the educational standpoint, it would be much better to have one university, and not three. We made no reflections, therefore, but gave, as we considered, substantial reasons for further consolidation. The consolidation of Victoria has been of immense benefit to the Methodist body, and has enabled them to centre their energies on true church work and the education of their ministers in theology alone.

Our correspondent also claims that a better education is given in a small college than in a large one. The moral at the small college is better than at the large university, and that high-class university equipment is of little use to the bulk of students. We take issue with him on these points, and for the reason that the facts are against him. The best men are coming from the large universities.

College life, we sincerely believe, is as clean in cities as in the smaller places, and if not all university students get the benefit of the high-class equipment in the large institutions, certainly all the best scientific men of the day get their training there, and the real, genuine work of universities and the work that does most to the cause of civilization and the cement of the life of the masses is done by the comparatively few highly-trained scientific men who come from the great centres of learning.

We wish to repeat that The World desires to judge public issues in this country large by a national standpoint, and not from a denominational or local point of view. We believe that the national life of a country can be greatly aided by its university life, provided that university life is not hampered by local or denominational issues. The national life of England is greatly aided by its two great universities, and the universities of Germany are essentially a part of the State and of the people; and so it ought to be in this country. We have our universities play a similar part.

Our correspondent falls altogether to discuss the question of efficiency. We have yet to be informed how any church in this country, struggling to maintain its position in a hostile world, can be efficient as to many people as possible, can afford to divert any of its energy, any of its men, or any of its money, into the work of teaching languages and science when this work is already better done by the State.

LET THE PEOPLE DECIDE.
Public opinion is undoubtedly in favor of an amalgamation of the Public and High School Boards of this city. Interested parties, however, have been successful in preventing the will of the people being carried out. We believe the High School officials are, more than anyone else, responsible for the defeat of the project in the past. What must be done now is to submit the question to the people. Fifty of the most progressive cities and towns in Ontario have united their school boards, and are perfectly satisfied with the results. If we had a united board in Toronto, the Council would appoint a certain number of members, and thereby secure a measure of control over the expenditure, which the Council at present does not exercise. But the principal argument in favor of amalgamation is that it would eliminate the friction that is constantly arising between the two boards.

Let the officials step aside and allow the people to pronounce on the question. We trust the Council will accept the suggestion of the Public School Board, and arrange to have a vote taken on the question of amalgamation at the January elections.

Separate School Board.
The members of the Separate School Board smiled good naturedly last night when Secretary John Hall read a letter from the Trades and Labor Council, which stated that the board was not keeping abreast of the times in failing to provide text books for the pupils. The board's reply will be to the effect that all the money that can be spared is appropriated, and deserving scholars are given the preference.

The report of the inspector showed that the attendance for the month of October was the largest in the history of the schools. The registered number was 4105, the highest 3869, and the average 3508. Accounts totaling $1347.00 were submitted and passed. Trustee D. A. Carey asked the Sites and Buildings Committee to visit St. Mary's school and examine the steam pipes, which he claimed were not in good order.

Pitch-In on the M. C. R.
St. Thomas, Nov. 7.—A pitch-in occurred on the M.C.R. at Fargo at 6:45 o'clock this morning. Conductor Peter Lowry's extra west bound freight was pulling into the yard when the "Conductor" was hit by the Phoenix's west bound freight crashed into the rear of it. The caboose and three coal cars were derailed and badly demolished. Two other cars were also badly damaged. No person was hurt. The accident was due to the heavy fog. No. 15 express was delayed one hour and forty minutes in consequence of the accident.

Adams Gets a Bigger Job.

A Miracle of Modern Days.
The Awful Agony Endured by a Toronto Man.

Fell From a Wall Forty-Five Feet High—His Terrible Injuries and Their Results—Thirteen Years of Anguish Indescribable Brought to a Close.

It is often said that the days of miracles are past, but to close observers of the events that are daily occurring around us, it sometimes seems as if this were not the case. The narrative recorded below, every detail of which is fully proved by dozens of witnesses, goes to show that what every body says is impossible sometimes happens, nevertheless.

George Roberts of 82 Armstrong-avenue, Toronto, has lived in Canada for eighteen years, having come here from Thurbridge, Wiltshire, England, where his father was an undertaker to a landed proprietor. Mr. Roberts soon established himself here, and did well. He entered the building trade, and White bricklayers and building contractors, who, some years ago, were given the brick-work contract of converting the Adelaide-street Roller Skating Rink into the present Toronto Opera House. One day while at work on top of the wall of the structure, Mr. Roberts missed his footing, and fell forty-five feet to the ground, alighting squarely on his feet. The fall would have resulted in instant death in ninety-nine out of a hundred, but strange to relate, Mr. Roberts was not killed. He was terribly injured, though, broken bones, dislocated ankles, his left foot was dislocated, and severe internal injuries were received. The shock to his nervous system was frightful, and the doctors who attended him stated that they wondered he could survive it. For six months he lay in the hospital, at otherwise the struggle would have been too terrible to continue. Every cent that could be spared was spent on medical treatment and medicine. But all was in vain. Relief seemed entirely out of reach. Now, what a miracle! In 1886, Mr. Roberts lives Laura Sheehan, whose case created such widespread interest in Toronto, and was fully reported in the Toronto Star and News of Oct. 21 last. Mr. Roberts was a witness of the marvellous effect of Dr. Arnold's English Tonic Pills in his case, and he decided to try them himself in the hope that they might give him at least a measure of relief from his terrible pain. Accordingly, he bought a supply of the pills, and began to take them. He began to feel better, and his strength began to return. In a few days he was able to get up, and in a few more he was able to walk. He was again a man, able to do a good day's work, and enjoy life. Thanks to Dr. Arnold's English Tonic Pills.

WHAT IT MEANS.
He does not pretend that Dr. Arnold's English Tonic Pills have caused new bones to grow in his legs or caused the dislocated bones of the foot to return to their place. But they did kill the germs that had gained an entrance into his blood, settled in his joints and at the points at which the tended by the most skilful medical men of the city, who had caused all the awful agony which had blighted his life for thirteen long years. The researches of eminent specialists have proved that rheumatism is caused by a certain species of germ, which reproduces at an amazingly rapid rate, and which, when it enters the blood, attacks the joints, muscles and tissues, where the ravages it works are terrible. The germs cause the blood to become thick and sticky, and the blood is then unable to flow freely through the vessels. The result is that the joints and muscles become stiff and painful, and the patient is unable to move. Dr. Arnold's English Tonic Pills kill the germs, destroy the poison (toxins) they create and cause the blood to become thin and pure. The result is that the joints resume their natural condition and duties, and the patient is able to move. This is what they did for Mr. Roberts; this is what they will do for all other sufferers from similar conditions.

CORROBORATION.
The Sheehan family, who brought Dr. Arnold's English Tonic Pills to Mr. Roberts' notice, endorses his statements as to their wonderful effect. So, too, does Mr. Henry Hill, grocer, 1100 Dundas-street, who knows Mr. Roberts for years, and who is amazed at his recovery. George Adams, a Cressman, who sold Mr. Roberts' pills, and who is head clerk in Mr. Meyer's drug store, Bathurst and Bloor-street, also endorses his statements as to the wonderful effect of the pills. He says that he has never had such a heavy demand for any other pills as he has had for Dr. Arnold's. Everyone who has tried the pills reports the most satisfactory results. Dr. Arnold's English Tonic Pills, at all drug stores, 25c a small box, 75c a large box. Sent on receipt of price by The Arnold Chemical Co., Limited, Canada Life Building, 42 King-street west, Toronto.

A Further Dividend Coming.
The liquidator of the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company appeared before the Ontario Court yesterday morning for an interim passing of accounts from Dec. 10, 1897, to Nov. 1, 1898, inclusive. The amount in all to almost $1,000,000. The matter was adjourned until Friday next, when the liquidator will appear. A lot of assets of the company have been disposed of. It is understood that a further dividend is to be declared.

A Hot Discussion Promised.
There will likely be a warm discussion at the next meeting of the Variety Club, which is to be held in a resolution asking students to place themselves on record in favour of the use of intoxicating liquors at any of the University functions.
