Private Louis Collins of Somerset Street Sends Interesting Letter Home

Mrs. T. Oscar Collins, 26 Somerset street, has received an interesting letter from her son, Private Louis, of No. 1 Construction battalion, who was recently in England on leave of absence. The letter in part is as follows: "Just a few lines to let you know that I am well and enjoying myself in London. I have just come from sight-seeing. Thursday I was through the parliament buildings; Friday to see Westminster Abbey. There are parts of that building six and seven hundred years old and statues of Kings and Queens as far back as 1200; Saturday I was down to see Buckingham Palace and watching them changing the guards at St. James. On Monday I went down to see a boxing match between two soldiers, one was a colored fellow and the other was a sergeant, who fought a draw with a champion of the world. So you see that I have done pretty well so far."

The young soldier, who has been a long time at the front, evidently enjoyed his well-earned furlough. He also wrote relative to a hope of securing a transfer of his brother Jack to his battalion, so that they might be together.

HOME FOR REST

Wounded French Soldier in City En Route to St. Pierre

Private Angus Lapair of the French colonial army, attracted considerable attention as he stepped off the Boston train at noon today in a uniform of light blue as worn by regular French forces. He arrived in New York a few days ago from France and is enroute to his home in St. Pierre Island.

To a Times reporter he told an interesting tale of the work of the French soldiers against the Germans. He said he left home at the outbreak of the war and sailed for France, where he joined an infantry unit. He was with the French forces for several months around Champagne and during one of the big drives launched against the Germans, when he was struck in the leg with a bullet and was removed to a hospital in Paris. After remaining there for a month and a half he rejoined his regiment and later went with his unit to the Somme, where he remained until three weeks ago, when he was granted a furlough.

"I am glad to get back home to see my folks and also to get a rest," he said, "for we had a hard time of it during the early days of the campaign. Conditions are better today and while it will always be hard, it is not in it with the first few months."

Private Lapair is the proud possessor of a medal given to him by French military authorities for gallantry displayed in action. He said he received it for assisting a wounded companion during a counter attack on the Germans, when he was shot down. He carried him back to a French trench despite a terrific bombardment of high explosive shells, hand grenades and machine gun fire.

KILLED BY TRAIN AND FRIGHTFULLY MANGLED

Quebec, Feb. 14.—J. B. Plamondon, traveling purchaser for the local firm of Edouard & Sons, of St. John, was killed and horribly mangled this morning when he rolled under a Quebec Central train that was attempting to board on his way to St. Herdine. He was well known throughout the province. Every bone in his body was crushed, and one arm was found along side the truck, while the lower part of a leg was recovered under the truck of a car.

NEW CHARGE IN CHINESE CASE

Alleged Threat Against Witness in Court Leads to New Arrest.

Something of a sensation was caused in the police court room this morning when one of the Chinese taken in the raid of last Sunday night started to make threats against a Chinese who is detained at police headquarters as the "star witness" in the alleged gambling case against twenty-five of his nationality. Just as the case against the Chinese was being laid over until next Monday, May Foy started to make threatening signs at the witness who was inside the rail.

Selective brags asked the witness what was being said. He was informed that Foy was making threatening remarks in Chinese and said "his bunch would kill you (meaning the detained witness) when you get out yourself."

With this Detective Briggs and Dunham rushed after the man, caught hold of him and, taking him through the court, put him down stairs. Information was laid and now Foy is occupying a cell on a charge of using threatening language.

The charge of gambling was to have been taken up this morning against the twenty-five Chinese and also a charge of selling liquor against the proprietor, but owing to the difficulty in getting the Chinese to understand English it was decided to adjourn the case until Monday morning at 10:30 o'clock when an interpreter will be secured.

Daniel Mullin, K.C., has been engaged to look after the interests of the Chinese. There are now only five not out on a deposit. Nearly all the others were present this morning.

The Chinese detained as a witness in the case and the one who laid the information to the police is said to be going to Montreal.

The Man In The Street

After the general elections are over the government party may be able to understand how Kaiser Wilhelm feels when he recalls his predictions of an early victory.

The fact that a voluntarily called election should be sufficient grounds for conviction on the charge of attempted suicide.

The opposition party is sincerely grateful to the government convention which selected the city ticket last evening. The fight might have been more strenuous if they had selected a strong ticket.

A government supporter estimated last Friday that the opposition was sure of eighteen seats, so far. After last evening's convention he probably added four more.

Government voters claim they will be able to elect one member of their ticket in St. John county. Hon. Mr. Baxter is wondering which one they mean.

Commissioner Wigmore has a reputation as a sagacious politician; he added to it yesterday when he refused to take a chance on the government ticket.

What T. Daisy Tells.

Ex-Commissioner Potts must have "They love me not," was his remark "They love me," he murmured when he was elected a commissioner.

"They love me not," was his remark after the last city election.

"They love me," he chuckled when he was nominated last night.

"They love me not," will be his sorrowful but final verdict on the night of February 24.

The government candidates will receive today the official notice that they have been selected by the city convention. Other persons also will receive cunic valentines.

Valentine's Day might be a good occasion for President Wilson to express his real sentiments regarding Germany.

St. John folk like the looks of the new units which arrived last night. We modestly hope the sentiment is reciprocated.

They say the 228th has six hockey teams. Will it be the first or the sixth which the St. John city team will challenge?

PHILIP KENNEDY DROWNED AT SPOKANE

Fell From Bridge on Which He Was Engineer—Parents and Wife Belonged Here

Richard P. Hatchford of Peters street received word yesterday that his nephew, Philip Kennedy, had been the victim of a fatality at Spokane, Washington, U.S.A. From the particulars it is understood that Mr. Kennedy, who was a bridge engineer, was about his work as usual while attending to his duties on a bridge under construction, took a mis-step, fell into the running waters below and was drowned. The body had not been recovered although the accident took place on Jan. 29.

Mr. Kennedy was about thirty-five years of age and leaves his wife and two children. He was born in Boston but his parents were both natives of St. John. His father John Kennedy, moved to St. Martins and his mother, a St. John girl, will be better known to the older St. John folk as Margaret Hatchford. They moved to the United States some little time after their marriage here.

It is in England.

Mrs. M. Kelly of 38 St. Patrick street, has received a cablegram from her son, John E. Kelly, wireless operator on a transport ship, announcing his safe arrival in England.
