RECIPROCITY

The following are some of the exports of Canada to the United States last year, in which the former is interested. This is from the unverified statement issued by the department of trade and commerce for the year ending March 31st, and may be accepted as approximately correct:

Cattle	465,070
Horses	49,116
Sheep	261,830
Other Animals	183,190
Barley	49,361
Beans	40,024
Buckwheat	38,012
Corn	2,943
Oats	47,468
Peas	334,224
Rye	45,309
Wheat	238,556
Brans	1,467,077
Cereal foods	8,834
Oatmeal	2,002
Other breadstuffs	114,068
Fertilizers	28,939
Flax seed	379,721
Apples	50,149
Berries	82,814
Berries preserved	12,541
Other fruits	28,108
Hay	1,449,960
Hides and skins	4,504,750
Milk and cream	1,731,393
Butter	91,313
Cheese	36,034
Eggs	9,927
Bacon	11,943
Poultry	9,772
Clover seed	1,100,709
Flax seed	3,065,911
Grass seed	191,490
Other seeds	43,977
Potatoes	13,835
Other vegetables	448,846

Those who assert, like Mr. Crockett, that we import very largely from the United States, have a habit of adding in such items as the following, without directing special attention to them:

Raw cotton (free)	$11,749,302
Breadstuffs (free)	6,901,178
Fruits (free)	4,723,342

There are other items on the free list which bulk largely, and which would not be at all affected by reciprocity. Naturally, between two countries joining each other across a continent, there must be an interchange of natural products. Of those which we import from the United States many do not come into competition with our own, as in the case of early vegetables and fruits in the St. John market every year. It would be a benefit to have the duty removed. There are some items such as eggs and cured meats, of which we imported more from the United States last year than we exported to that country, but the list of products which we export is far longer than that of those which we import, and under reciprocity there would be a large increase in the volume of these exports. Whoever takes the trade returns for the last year and looks them over carefully does not need to be told that reciprocity will be a good thing for the Canadian farmer.

SOME TRADE FIGURES

Without reciprocity Canada's trade with the United States in the last year increased from $336,652,587 to $404,137,940, an increase of $67,485,353.

In the same period Canada's trade with the United Kingdom increased from $244,964,407 to $247,041,879, or $2,137,472.

It will be noted that the total trade of this country with the United States for the year was $404,137,940, compared with $244,964,407 with the United Kingdom. Our imports from the United States were $284,834,739, and our exports to that country only $119,303,201. Our exports to the United Kingdom, on the other hand, were $137,138,711, compared with imports of $106,885,168.

Under reciprocity we would not export less to the United Kingdom, and at the same time our exports to the United States would increase. The change would lead to a general increase in the trade of the country.

It is an interesting fact that of the imports from the United States last year settlers' effects totalled a value of $9,019,073. This is an item that will not jar the loyalty of even the most ardent imperialist. Indeed, though our trade with the United States has increased from $111,022,413 in 1897 to $404,137,940 in 1911 we do not find that the coronation celebration was one whit less enthusiastic than the observance of great imperial events of years ago. Our trade with the United Kingdom has a little more than doubled since 1897; and with the United States it has increased almost four-fold. In the very nature of things there must be a large trade between these neighboring countries. As Canada grows its trade must grow both with its neighbor and the mother country. The growth of trade under reciprocity will not injuriously affect our relations with the mother country any more than has the growth since 1897 without reciprocity. It will increase the prosperity of Canada, and so strengthen the empire.

MR. HATHWAYS SUGGESTION

In a communication to the Times today Mr. W. Frank Hatheway outlines a plan by which he believes a large section of city lands along the Manawagoshish road could be converted into a model settlement for working people, each of whom would own his own house and garden.

The plan of the Lancaster lands which Mr. Hatheway sends to the Times shows that there is a section of about 200 acres, extending from the Manawagoshish road to South Bay, that is virtually unoccupied. There are reserved roads through it, and it could very easily be provided with a water supply, as the Spruce Lake water main passes through it. It is within easy reach of Fairville, and not far from several manufacturing establishments, many of whose employees probably live in rented houses.

This has reference to only a small portion of a very large area of land, much of the larger area being under lease, which is owned by the city. Whether Mr. Hatheway's plan commends itself to the city council or not, care should be taken to keep speculators off this property; and if the city is to grow in that direction there should be a well defined town plan. No hasty action should be taken in the matter. The citizens should take an interest in this question, as they are the owners of the property. St. John will not stand still, but is on the eve of an expansion that will affect the west as well as the east side of the harbor and river.

The Root amendment to the reciprocity bill has been defeated in the United States senate.

The Bank of New Brunswick will open a branch in Montreal in September. This valued St. John institution is pursuing a progressive policy.

If Madero is elected president of Mexico next October he will look into the affairs of foreign companies that have secured special concessions. Promoters and investors will please sit up and take notice.

The safety board does well to recommend that King Square be specially lighted on the evenings of band concerts. There is something to be said in favor of the special lighting for every fine night during the tourist season.

Ald. C. T. Jones is a good judge of hay, and when he says hay is sometimes cut at the five stations that is only fit for bedding, the matter should not be allowed to drop. The city pays for good hay, and the director should see that the order is filled. It should not be necessary to invoke the aid of the S. P. C. A. in such a matter, for the horse is worthy of his hay.

Mr. Borden continues to assure the people of the west that he will force the trade agreement with the United States. He did not pursue such a desperate course in connection with other trade agreements which were really treaties, and which parliament cheerfully endorsed without an appeal to the people.

WHY CONSERVATIVE LEADER IS STRONG FOR RECIPROCITY

Speech by Hon. Mr. Haultain of Saskatchewan—Gets Down to Fact That Agreement Finds New Market for Our Products

The following is a report of a portion of the speech of Hon. Mr. Haultain, Conservative leader in the Saskatchewan legislature, in favor of reciprocity:

"Having in mind the fact that reciprocity with the United States was a policy which represented not only a step forward but a policy which seemed to be approved even in the earlier ages of government in Canada, even before they had what might be termed responsible government; having that in view he must confess that when the reciprocity agreement was first spoken of he had taken only one view and that was that the agreement was a move in the right direction. He was quite free to say, after reading a great many speeches that had been made in other places, that he saw no necessity to change his first impression."

"The point about the agreement which appealed to him was that it provided another market for the farmers and fishermen and other producers of foodstuffs

MISERABLE WITH STOMACH TROUBLE

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" BRINGS THE HAPPINESS OF HEALTH

"Fruit-a-tives" cures Stomach Trouble because it cures the Liver, Kidneys, Bowels and Stomach. Indigestion, etc., is usually the result of the stomach trouble. The bowels are irregular—the food is not properly digested—the skin is sallow—and consequently the blood is impure. It is impure blood that makes bad digestion. "Fruit-a-tives" purifies the blood by making all the vital organs active and healthy—which in turn purifies the stomach. Take "Fruit-a-tives" if you want to get rid of all Stomach Troubles and faults of Digestion.

throughout the whole dominion. The great question was that affecting foodstuffs. "If one thing appealed to him more than another it was the fact that eventually the northern part of the continent—and that applied particularly to Saskatchewan—was going to be the largest producer of food for the whole of the continent. Any holding that was not given to the food producer for the whole of the continent was rapidly ceasing to be an exporting country. It would become less and less so as far as food products were concerned. Eventually the United States would have to come to Canada for foodstuffs and give them everything that was going to be given at the present time. There was an old saying that what was given was given twice. The inevitable destiny for Saskatchewan was to be a food producer for the whole of the continent and the sooner it was able to establish that trade relation the better. "There was only one thing to be done. If a thing was right they must go straight on in the direction in which it led without regard to tradition, politics, or anything else. He believed the west required the proposed change. If it was good for the West and not bad for the whole of the Dominion, why should they not support it?"

COURAGE

Because I hold it shameful to despond, Because I hold it shameful to be blind me with burning tears, but look beyond Its tumult and its strife;

Because I lift my head above the mist, Where the sun shines and the brood breezes blow, By every ray and every rainbow kissed That God's love doth bestow;

Think you I find no bitterness at all? No burden to be borne, like Christian's pack? Think you there are no ready tears to shed Because I keep them back?

Why should I hug life's ills with cold reserve To curse myself and all who love me?

Not! A thousand times more good than I deserve God gives me every day.

And each one of these rebellious tears Kept hushed back, he makes a rainbow shine. Grateful I take his slightest gift, no fears Nor any doubts are mine.

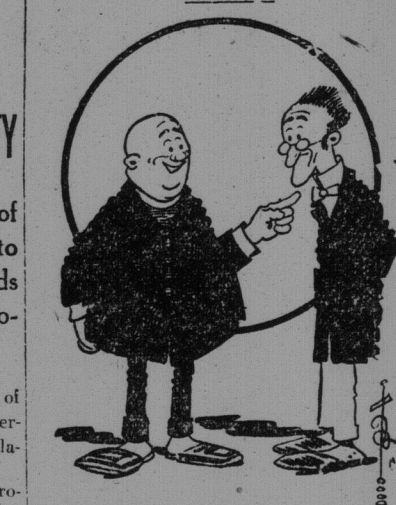

Dark skies must clear, and when the clouds are past, One golden day redeems a weary year; Patient I listen, sure that sweet at last Will sound his voice of cheer.

Then vex me not with chiding, let me be. I must be glad and grateful to the end. I must not let your cold and darkness—me The powers of light befriended.—Celia Thaxter.

Mr. Grimes—Indeed?

Deacon—Yes, I'm going to preach on the subject of economy.

Residents of Buffalo, whose slumbers have been interrupted by the loud cawing of roosters, have raised such an outcry against the poultry raisers of that city that the Buffalo Poultry Club has submitted to the board of aldermen a plan for the establishment of a public rooster boarding farm outside the city limits. It is estimated that 80,000 persons in Buffalo are raising chickens.

POLICE CHIEFS MEET IN OTTAWA

Chief Clark, on the benefit of the co-operation of the chief constables in the work of the association, which was working for the good of society and the safety of the public. "We are working together," he said, "to introduce and accomplish reform, to advance and promote the best of the police system of Canada, working with a determination of making this association a success, and we require the assistance of all good citizens towards that end."

The business of the session was then proceeded with. In his address as president, Chief Clark said in part:

"We are permitted again to come together to hold our seventh annual convention of the Chief Constables Association of Canada. During our last session at Vancouver, we were kindly invited to convene this year in this beautiful and hospitable city of Ottawa, the administrative capital of the Dominion of Canada."

"We have left our homes and business to meet, mingle and talk with each other, to exchange views and extend friendly greetings that we may become better acquainted, better prepared to perform our duties and responsibilities placed upon us—pleasant breaks in the official cares—and productive of beneficial results to our respective cities. The association meetings have thus far been successful, some practical action has been taken in many things that have been good for the police in the larger cities. The association meetings have thus far been successful, some practical action has been taken in many things that have been good for the police in the larger cities. The association meetings have thus far been successful, some practical action has been taken in many things that have been good for the police in the larger cities."

"There is no class of men engaged in any line of business against whom there are so many hands raised. That being the case, let us eliminate all personalities, and let us be ever ready to aid and assist a fellow officer, no matter from whence he comes, so long as he is in good standing in the association and of good report. There now prevails, I am glad to say, a more enthusiastic co-operation between those charged with the protection of life and property than formerly. This has been brought about by a personal acquaintance at the conventions and a social acquaintance at the dinners which have been made professionally. This makes true efforts along these lines should be encouraged by every city in Canada."

Co-operation
We, unlike any other department of our cities, cannot get along successfully in our business without assistance of the police of other cities. (Criminals move quickly from place to place, and from scenes of their operations, and it is necessary to have the good will of the officers of the city that the criminal has sought refuge in. You appeal as a personal friend and fellow member of the association, this feeling of good fellowship having been made possible by these annual gatherings. Police departments of today are entirely different organizations to what they were several years ago, times and necessities have made the change, and we must keep pace with the demand."

Since our last meeting arrangements for important police subjects will be read, and I request that you will all take part in the discussions following reading of the same.

ON OVERDOING IT

"The tendency of the age," says a modern philosopher, "is to overdo everything." The same thought has occurred to the writer many scores of times, when, after swallowing a very moderate allowance of some sauce, he has been left with a palate apparently given over to an endless stinging and burning sensation, calculated to make a man forever the user of any sauce whatever.

Have you ever been served that way? Ever suffered that way? Ever vowed eternal abstinence from sauces? Forget the suffering, break the vow and try H. P. Sauce, a truly delicious composition. Neither too thick nor too thin, too hot nor too cold, to savor nor too sour. This sauce, which has been christened "H. P." in honor of the House of Parliament, is to be procured of all grocers, and it is in every respect a relation of what perfect sauce should be.

We have a French manufacture, the Midland Vinegar Company of England, the largest and most successful vinegar works in the world, that this most delicious and delicious addition to your table is prepared from the choicest Oriental fruits and spices blended with pure malt vinegar by a secret process."

We gladly accept the Midland Vinegar Company's enthusiastic praise of their "process" H. P. is a blend so deliciously blended that no one flavor predominates aggressively over the others, and so skillfully combined that never separates, there is no sediment, and therefore requires no shaking.

It is imperative when buying, to look for the letters H. P. and a picture of the British Houses of Parliament on the label for a sauce as good as this will often be imitated, though never in the opinion of the writer, equaled.
