GAMBLING DEN

Have the Chinese proprietors of the various chuck-a-luck and other gambling joints hired white men to act as throwersout and to protect them in agents as soon as the latter make a game? This, says the Vancouver police are asking themselves, as a result of an experience in a raid last night when a plain clothes policeman, who had seized a Chinaman as soon as the alarm was given, was attacked by two white men and forced to reinquish his grasp, allowing the Oriental to make an escape. Revolvers. and a novel grating made of pipe were ers of No. 49 Pender street employed ast night in their resistance to the

According to the usual custom, offi ers were sent in plain clothes to get inside the room and co-operate with the police attacking from the outside. When Officers McGregor and Toynbee, who had the task, got in they found that the Chinaman handling the cards was ensconced in a doorway, with an fron grating made of pipe lengths in front of him, reaching from the ceiling almost down to the table on which the chuck-a-luck game was played. He and another Chinaman acting as a lookout also possessed a revolver At the first electric alarm the lights went out and the two Chinamen made hardly quick enough getting through the doorway behind him, and Mcthe grating. Despite the struggle of undoubtedly have been successful in the other officers had not two of the white men suddenly jumped upon him in the darkness. One of them grasped ened himself upon the policeman's back. With three men working was forced to let go his grip on th Chinaman, who promptly scurried away through one of the half-dozen arrested all the white men in sight. They numbered six. Four stoutly barred doors were broken down before the constables could gain an entrance, and the query has been raised as to how it is that the city officials allow these doors to exist. An inspection of the Chinese quarters at frequent intervals and the destruction of all such contrivances, it is considered, would greatly aid the
