

M.A. ; President, Prof. F. T. Harrison, Phar.D. ; Secretary, Rev. G. B. Sage, B.D. ; Treasurer, W. Crawford, Esq.

An executive committee was formed, consisting of the officers and other elected members of the Auxiliary.

It was decided that the constitution about to be set forth for the government of auxiliaries should be followed, and that the Auxiliary should work in closest harmony with the General Executive of the C.C.M.A.

Two public meetings have been held during the year.

At several points in the diocese a local interest has been awakened in behalf of the aims and purposes of the C.C.M.A., which everywhere need only to be understood to be accepted by our best Church people. It is felt by all that this auxiliary will be much strengthened and blessed by having a missionary from its own ranks in the field. We are, however, thankful to state that candidates are in training, and willingly offer themselves to go wherever they may in the good providence of God be called.

The Baldwin Memorial Missionary Bursary has been held by Mr. G. P. Bentley, a student of Wycliffe College, who is preparing for foreign service under the C.C.M.A.

A ladies' candidates committee has been formed for the purpose of assisting the examining board in interviewing and approving ladies who offer for the foreign field.

Signs of increasing interest and conviction, thank God, are not wanting. A member of the Church of the Redeemer, Toronto, has offered $100 a year for ten years to support another missionary in the field. Another has done the same in Lindsay, while for the definite extension of the work of the Association a member of the committee has given the sum of $500 unconditionally, but with the expressed hope that earnest effort as unto the Lord and in the Lord's strength shall be made this year to increase the income by at least $5,000. After waiting upon God in regard to the matter the committee has pledged itself and the Association to this proposed advance effort all along the line.

Before passing on to speak of the work in the different fields the committee wish to report that it is proposed at once to appoint, wherever possible district secretaries of the Association in the different parts of the country for the purpose of furthering the objects of the C.C.M.A.

It is also proposed to make an immediate effort to double the circulation of the Gleaner, and largely increase the number of missionary boxes in use at the present time. The committee is also very anxious that a regular system of deputations should be arranged for, to visit and conduct meetings in the interest of the C.C.M.A. work in all places at all in sympathy with the aims and objects of the association. Some of these have already been arranged, and the new committee to be appointed this evening will be glad to receive communications for any places desiring such meetings to be held.

II. THE MISSION FIELD.

Turning, now, from the home work to the Mission Field, though the vastness of the need of the heathen and Mohammedan world stands out before us
