

ably due to the milder climate and to the lack of necessity for severe exertion in order to obtain food." The Flatheads, the Haidas, the Mitkas and the Chinooks, comprise the chief divisions, and though in earlier pioneer days by assimilating the too-flagrant vices of the white man, they become greatly degraded, they have of late years been open to Christianizing influences.

Shall we not study this Indian Problem prayerfully and sympathetically?

We owe it to them.
