

Summer Resorts

On the line of the CANADIAN PACIFIC RAILWAY.

The St. J. St. J. St. J.

Laurentians

The Wonderful Mountain-Lake Region of Quebec or opened up new and virgin fields of sport, and in no place can the lover of the rod well spend a week or two with more glorious certainties of an excellent catch. The scenery along the route is of a varied and most interesting character, including forests, lakes, rivers and mountains, not one of which is uninteresting, and on account of which this district has so aptly been termed the Switzerland of America. The great Horseshoe Curve in the mountains is a worthy rival of that of the famous Pennsylvania in the splendors of scenic beauty it reveals. The charms of this vast region are now becoming known to the lovers of nature and of outdoor life; its healthfulness is proverbial. The pure mountain air, laden with the balmy odors of cedar and spruce, the cool, sparkling lakes, added to the freshness and charm of nature, make this whole region one of incomparable beauty, and just the place one seeks for rest.

It is only 20 miles to Ste. Therese, where the railway through the Laurentians branches off to the north, and thirteen miles further on is St. Jerome, from which another branch leads to Ste. Julienne, past New Glasgow, prettily situated on the side of a mountain and in the valley below, near the waterfalls of a mountain stream. There are two hotels and excellent facilities for camping amidst the most delightful environments. Above the falls is good fly trout fishing, and in Lac L'Archigan, about eleven miles away, there are speckled and grey trout, while in the lakes a few miles further north bass are plentiful. Between St. Jerome and New Glasgow is Ste. Sophie, where there is excellent trout fishing, and to which place sportsmen are attracted in the fall of the year by the capital woodcock shooting on the flat lands.

Shawbridge, nine miles from St. Jerome on the Labelle branch, and forty-two from Montreal, is the gateway to the lake district of St. Angelique, a region little known to tourists and where there is good camping, boating and fishing. Two miles further on the Moatfort Junction Railway leads off to another virgin field,

THE Laurentian Hills, the illimitable wilderness which stretches away to Hudson's Bay, are within a few hours' ride of Montreal.

In this vast region is a labyrinth of lakes and streams, forming a perfect network of water stretches which teem with fish of different species, and in some parts of the country large and small game are also plentiful. Until within a few years this vast territory was very difficult of access and but little explored, and was in fact almost a terra incognita. The completion of the Labelle branch of the Canadian Pacific Railway has made easy of access these Laurentian lakes and streams, and in no place can the lover of the rod well spend a week or two with more glorious certainties of an excellent catch. The scenery along the route is of a varied and most interesting character, including forests, lakes, rivers and mountains, not one of which is uninteresting, and on account of which this district has so aptly been termed the Switzerland of America. The great Horseshoe Curve in the mountains is a worthy rival of that of the famous Pennsylvania in the splendors of scenic beauty it reveals. The charms of this vast region are now becoming known to the lovers of nature and of outdoor life; its healthfulness is proverbial. The pure mountain air, laden with the balmy odors of cedar and spruce, the cool, sparkling lakes, added to the freshness and charm of nature, make this whole region one of incomparable beauty, and just the place one seeks for rest.

It is only 20 miles to Ste. Therese, where the railway through the Laurentians branches off to the north, and thirteen miles further on is St. Jerome, from which another branch leads to Ste. Julienne, past New Glasgow, prettily situated on the side of a mountain and in the valley below, near the waterfalls of a mountain stream. There are two hotels and excellent facilities for camping amidst the most delightful environments. Above the falls is good fly trout fishing, and in Lac L'Archigan, about eleven miles away, there are speckled and grey trout, while in the lakes a few miles further north bass are plentiful. Between St. Jerome and New Glasgow is Ste. Sophie, where there is excellent trout fishing, and to which place sportsmen are attracted in the fall of the year by the capital woodcock shooting on the flat lands.

Shawbridge, nine miles from St. Jerome on the Labelle branch, and forty-two from Montreal, is the gateway to the lake district of St. Angelique, a region little known to tourists and where there is good camping, boating and fishing. Two miles further on the Moatfort Junction Railway leads off to another virgin field,