Charles Allan, Esd. was afraid the judges of produce were not considered to have done their he should like to sit down with them on his lips. duty ; for while only one of the other party had been called up, it would appear they were severally to give account of their proceedings. They had to-day seen what farmers could do, when united for the furtherance of agriculture ; but the ladies of Eramosa appeared to be also united for the attainment of the same end ; and he did not know but that, on the present occasion, the grey mare had show herself the better horse. He had been exceedingly gratified with all he had to-day witnessed, but he insisted that the farmors deserved only a share of the praise, and that the ladies should have their due.

D. Stirton, Esq. said that not only had the farmers been unanimous in their proceedings all day, but they seemed to be equally so in their determination to have all the judges on their feet. In regard to the fall wheat, he might say there were three samples of nearly equal merit. It had been a favorab'e year for that grain, and Eramosa had shown better samples than he expected. The farmers were getting wiser from experience, and wore generally adopting Fall wheat, which was undoubtedly the best for Canada. The roots were not so good as he had seen. Green crops were of great advantage for cleaning and fertilizing the soil, and ought consequently to be cultivated in adequate proportion to other crops ; but neither potatoes nor turnips had this year been of superior quality. One part of the exhibition had ere now been so praised in the local prints, that he was sure the Queen of Eramosa must have influence with the editors. The flannels and cloth exhibited were both good ; and the butter-for which the township was famed-still improving. At the ploughing match he was sorry there were not ing matches were a sign of, and an incentive to good husbandry : he was sorry they were not more patrohized in Puslinch. The farmers of Eramosa no doubt found it to their advantage to get work done in a workman like manner. He thought it good policy to encourage the boys. Mr. Stirton sat down, requesting the chairman to call up the other judges of stock.

Mr. Broadfoot said Mr. Wright had spoken so fully and so well, that the other judges of stock had only to endorse his statement. The young sheep were very good-he was only sorry there It was stated that the sum taken at the gate ducattle shown were decidedly improved. The were so few. The young horses, both colts and fillies, were excellent. Some young Devon bulls he couldn't help saying that he much preferred the Durhams, both for their feeding and milking qualities.
