BUTTER VERSUS WHEAT

Those who urge the adoption of mixed farming in Western Canada should be interested in the fact that dairying in the great wheat Province of Saskatchewan has increased at a more rapid rate during the past three years than grain growing. The Co-operative Creameries of Saskatchewan, operated by the Dairy Branch of the Provincial Department of Agriculture during the summer months, recently made the following statement, showing the output of butter for every season since 1913:

	1913	1914	1915
May	90,857	139,567	183,163
June	169,066	215,339	314,927
July	254,321	322,778	514,938
August	266,919	304,394	383,407
September	126,722	170,364	303,337

Total lbs. 791,985 1,063,342 1,439,772
Increase 56 Per Cent.

These figures, it may be observed, show that the output for the five months in 1915 has been increased over the same period of last year by 56 per cent., and by 167 per cent. over the same period in 1913. One of the principal growing markets for Saskatchewan Government butter is British Columbia, where the product from New Zealand has been driven out steadily by the superior and less expensive importations from the Canadian prairie.

A comparison with the industry of grain growing shows that dairying in Saskatchewan is making far more rapid gains than are being made in grain crops. The acreage in grain within the bounds of Saskatchewan this year amounted to 19,543,795, compared with 3,912,464 acres in 1914, and 5,632,235 acres in 1913. Thus, while the figures for dairying show increases of 55 and 107 per cent., those pertaining to grain growing reflect an increase in 19.5 of no more than 3.9 per cent. over 1913, and only 6.3 per cent. over 1914.

The Market Problem

Of course, the problem of marketing the rapidly increasing dairy products of Saskatchewan or any other Western Province is one that must engage the attention of producer and distributor alike. However, in the period of recovery which will follow the war, Canada is sure to adhere to the policy of encouraging home industries, which has prevailed for over a generation. There is no doubt, too, that the policy of the people will be more and more to patronize the products made by their fellow citizens. National economy will make this course compulsory, and the result will be that American manufacturers, instead of supplying the Canadian market from United States, will have to come over to Canada with branch factories. These will employ Canadian men and women, who, in turn, will be in the market for farm products of every description. Thus we see the interrelation of town and country. As long as Canada adheres to her existing trade policy, farmers in all parts of Canada will have no difficulty in finding an ever available market for all the food products they can grow.

The "Vancouver Sun" urges that a "New National Policy" is needed in Canada.

The object of this policy would be to place on our vacant arable lands a part of the population which now finds it difficult to make a living in the city. There is no doubt that there is room for millions of farmers on the available agricultural lands in this country. It is also true that the problem of seasonal unemployment could be solved to some extent by the successful transfer of city dwellers to the country. It is scarcely accurate, however, to call such a movement a "New National Policy." The National Policy, in the economic sense of the term, aimed at securing a perfect balance between the city and country. The city was to manufacture what the country needed and the country was to produce what the city needed. It is of little use transferring the great numbers of city dwellers to farm lands unless they are certain of a market for the articles they can produce. Industrial cities are the best markets for farm produce. The National Policy never contemplated stripping country districts in order to swell city districts, because a large rural population is needed to absorb manufactured goods. It will be desirable for many years to encourage settlement on our vacant agricultural land and to bring it under cultivation, but it would be more accurate to say that this was only a continuation of the National Policy than to herald it as a "New National Policy."

GET THE HABIT OF NOT WASTING.

(New York Mail)

A child's natural view of a dime is that it is a little piece of silver, likely to slip through the hole in one's pocket unless spent at the first opportunity. It is potential exchange for several pieces of candy or a toy, or a trip to the movies. To keep it is to hazard it to accidental loss or parental seizure, for many American parents have no confidence in a child's guardianship of money. They give money to their children for spending purposes only, or not at all. If the child has money to spend, he keeps on spending when he grows and earns. Spending has become a habit. A child who never has had money to spend indulges as soon as he is able, in a fever of spending which generally burns during the rest of his life. The most desired thing in life—except by the youth—is youth. The thing most dreaded—except by the young—is debt. But youth runs to the arms of debt at the first chance, unless he has been taught the horrors of paying for dead horses. Youth is too confident. Debt becomes a habit with him, when thrift should just as well have been his habit. The importance of teaching a child is not so much in the bit of money he will accumulate. The great thing is giving him the habit of not wasting, or keeping out of debt. It will influence his whole life. He will learn the value of time as well as of money, but it lacks the thrift that should eliminate waste of all kinds, whether of time, of material or of human life. The dime you give to the Dimes and Dollars fund may start on the road to thrift some child whose later life would otherwise be a constant struggle with debt.

FURTHER SHIPMENTS OF SOCKS IMPERATIVE.

Mr. J. G. Colmer, the London Secretary of the Canadian War Contingent Association, the Great Canadian Society that has done so much for the well being of the troops in the field, has informed the National Service Committee in a recent cable that there is a great danger of a shortage of socks.

Mr. Colmer gauges the shortage from the steady increase of requisitions from officers in the field, with whom he is in touch, and in the interests of the soldier's comfort and efficiency, further shipments of socks from Canada are immediately imperative. The women of Canada have shown amazing generosity and energy in supplying socks, but the great and increasing need must urge their knitting needles to fresh efforts.

Socks and other field comforts can be contributed through any national organized woman's society, or they can be sent direct to the shipping point, Reids Wharf, St. John, N. B. They should be addressed to the Canadian War Contingent Association and plainly labelled "Field Comforts."

Cash contributions should be sent to Mrs. Bruce, Treasurer, National Service Committee, 77 King Street, East Toronto.

Leander S. Morse, school inspector for Digby and Annapolis, died at the Waverley Hotel, Digby, early on Sunday morning. He was 72 years of age and had been ill for some time. He spent Christmas with his daughter in New York and returned home ill, accompanied by Mrs. Morse. He leaves a widow, formerly Miss Tupper, of Bridgetown; two sons; Frank, in New York, and William, in California; and one daughter; Mrs. J. Waldo Smith, of New York, who was in Digby at the time of his death. The funeral took place in Bridgetown this afternoon.

MINE EXPLODED BY THE BRITISH.

London, Feb. 22—The British official statement, issued tonight on the campaign in the west, reads:

"The enemy last night sprang a mine east of Givenchy; we suffered no casualties. Poperinghe was shelled by the enemy during the night.

"This morning we sprang a mine near the Hohenzollern re-doubt; our troops occupy the near tip of the crater.

"Our artillery bombarded the enemy trenches near Maricourt, Oivillers and Ypres-Comines canal. Hostile artillery shelled our positions northwest of Ypres; using many lacrymatous shells. Our trenches north of Ypres, between the Pilkelm road and the Ypres canal, were also bombarded.

"One of our aeroplanes was hit by an anti-aircraft shell, practically severing the pilot's leg. He managed, however, to land his machine safely in the aerodrome, without injury to his observer."

"What makes your hair so white?" said little Clara to her grandpa, as she sat on the old gentleman's knee.

"I am very old, dear," was the reply. Then he added, with a fine disregard for truth; "I was in the ark, you know!"

The little lady looked at him with renewed interest.

"Were you really?" she asked. "Are you Noah?"

"No."

"Then are you Shem?"

"No."

"Ham, then?"

"No, I'm not Ham."

"Then you're Japheth!"

Smilingly, the old gentleman shook his snowy head, greatly enjoying the joke.

"Then, grandpa," said Clara, her childish tones strong and decided, "your a beast!"
