IRISH COMPENSATION BILL.

Lively Discussion in the House of Commons.

MR. CLADSTONE'S LAST AMENDINENT,

The Measure Passed Through Committee.

SPLIT IN THE IRISH RANKS.

LONDON, July 13. Mr. Parnell and his immediate followers came into sollision with the majority of the Irish members, who are supported by bers, over the clause of the Irish Distress bill on Monday night. The struggle was protracted until daybreak on Tuesday morning, when the Government surrendered at discretion, in view of the determined hostility of Mr. Parnell and his sixteen supporterst Thirty one Irish members voted with the Government, Mr. Parnell's attitude is strongly denounced by Home Rule memb se of Liberal proclivities. No further opposition was offered to the pro-gress of the bill, which passed through the Committee atoge.

London, Judy 13.—The Times understands that hady Butdett-Courts, who has been negotiating for an estate in Ireland, relinquished her intention in consequence of the unsatisfactory relations between landlord and tenant likely to-arise from Mr. Forster's bill. After Mr. Gladstone's statement in House last night the Irish members almost ananimously expressed opposition o the amendment to the compensation oill. He then gave notice of an amendent which remover to a great extent the bjection to the Atterney-General's clause, which will be withdrawn.

MP. GLADSTONE'S AMENDMENT. The Times, commenting on Mr. Gladestone's amendment to Mr. Forster's Com-pensation for Disturbance bill, says:— It is apparent these strange sudden modifications It is apparent these strange sudden modifications of the bill recommended to Parliament on the ground of urgancy will not tend to impress either House with the conviction that the measure is one which must be passed instantly, and at any cost and risk. The public and Parliament, and more especially the House of Lords, will conclude that Ministers cannot be very sure of their footing when they offer three different proposals. The Attorney-General's proposal has been thrown overboard as unexpectedly as it was produced. Mr. Gladstone's amendment, which will be substituted for it, takes away the means provided for the land-mendment, which will be substituted for t, takes away the means provided for the land-ords to protest themselves from penal conse-quences The bill leaves everything to be deter-nined by the County Court Judge.
