SUDDEN DEATH OF MR. HARRY BEATON.

Well-Known Business Man Succumbs to Paralysis.

Mr. Harry Beaton died last night at the family residence, Park avenue. He had been ill only about 24 hours, having been in fairly good health until Wednesday morning, when he suffered a paralytic stroke. Two years ago he was stricken with paralysis, but recovered from it and had almost regained his former health. His unexpected death will be sincerely regretted by very many friends, whose esteem he had gained in many years of business and social life. Mr. Beaton was a successful hatter and furrier for a long period, but for the past two years or more he had lived in retirement. He was an ardent supporter of athletic sports, and was especially devoted to curling. The surviving family are a widow and one son, the latter being a student in the office of Moore & Henry, architects.

—WANTS COUNTY HEALTH OFFICERS.

At the Ontario Health Officers' Convention just concluded at Brantford, Dr. F. H. Constable McCarthy, of Stratford, has written Detective Northgreaves to the effect that James Wilson, of Stratford, will make no effort to get his 15-year-old son, Lawrence, out of jail here, where the boy is confined on a charge of vagrancy. Young Wilson followed the circus until Monday, when he decided to leave it. He was found by Detective Northgreaves outside the city limits, sleeping on two boards, after an imaginative milkman had mistaken him for a corpse. The clerk Wilson says he has no money to get the boy out of jail, and if the latter has got into trouble, the father says he must take the consequences.

Mrs. Laing was the youngest of five daughters of the late John Jennings, who was one of the early settlers in London. She was pre-deceased by three of her sisters—Mrs. A. G. Smyth, Mrs. John B. Mr. Edward Humphrey, of Hamilton Road Methodist Church, leaves on Monday next for Calgary to do mission work there in connection with the Manitoba conference. Wednesday evening he was tendered a farewell by the congregation and presented with a sum of money. The pastor of the church, Rev. S. J. Alder, presided over the gathering on the church lawn, and following the presentation short addresses were made by Messrs. Geo. Samwell, E. Phoenix and Reg. Webb, who expressed regret at Mr. Humphrey's departure, but bidden him God-speed. Recitations were given by Miss Mossop and Miss Webb, and Mr. Ernest Phoenix sang "The Dream of Pauline." Mr. Humphrey has just returned from Ada College, Ohio, and expected to resume his studies there, but has been pressed to enter the mission field in the Northwest.

A SUCCESSOR APPOINTED.

A few days ago The Advertiser announced that Mr. A. J. Brenton, local manager of the Gurney-Oxford branch store in this city, had received the appointment of Toronto manager of the Gurney-Tilden Company, of Hamilton. A successor has been appointed to Mr. Brenton, and the old saying of "Still in the family" is illustrated by Mr. F. G. Brenton, a brother, securing the position. No doubt the Gurney-Oxford Company had in view the capabilities of Mr. F. G. Brenton, believing that if one brother had made the business in this city a prosperous one, no reason existed why another member of the family should not be equally successful. Mr. F. G. Brenton is a well-known young business man, having for several years been with Mr. A. Westman, hardware merchant. The farmers in the surrounding country are well acquainted with him, and this added to his experience should naturally increase the sales of the well-known Gurney-Oxford stores. Mr. A. J. Brenton retires at the end of this week and will leave for Toronto about July 8.

A SHAM BATTLE ON THE HEIGHTS

The Affair Was a Lesson in Entrenchment Work.

The District Officer Commanding Criticized the Tactics Employed and Offered Suggestions.

A successfully arranged and instructive sham battle was fought on Carling's Heights yesterday afternoon. It was intended that it should be a practical lesson in the gentle art of making enemies' fire ineffective by a skillful use of trenches, to which end the officers had been instructing the men for several days.

The seat of the engagement was the brow of the hill, and to the 16th Battery and the 29th and 30th Regiments, under Col. Hegler, and made all their approaches on the hill by the way of Elizabeth street. The guns on both sides were very well covered, and did effective work. The sham battle also gave the members of the Army Medical Corps an opportunity to put their training into practical use. Numbers of men were appointed to act as wounded soldiers, who were quickly removed to the hospital, where their supposed injuries were dressed, and their places filled. Both Col. Hegler and Col. White used whatever tactics as to them seemed best.

The battle was viewed by Col. Peters, who subsequently addressed the officers. He considered that the attacking party was very well extended, and the men were brought up under a cover which was, unexpectedly, somewhat to the surprise of the defense. The trouble, however, was that they did not make use of the streets to the east, all coming by the way of Elizabeth street, and some of the officers marching their men coolly into the open instead of promptly taking cover, and crawling into the position they wished to occupy. The artillery on the attack left their horses in limber in the open, where they must of necessity have been enfiladed in a few minutes. There was a great defect, and again, the attacking party, who had good cover at a comparatively close range, were not satisfied, but advanced partly in the open under a sailing fire. The effect of all this was that the attacking force became too much bunched up and their attack was not effective. The first part of the attack was also spoiled by the men not opening fire on the defending force while they were entrenching themselves. The attacking party (two companies of the 30th Regiment, under Capt. Head), did their work splendidly. The artillery of the defending party also did excellent work, as they had no infantry opposed to them. The latter being all bunched up on the left of the attack, the artillery from their position could almost have enfiladed them. The defending forces had clearly the better part of the argument.

THEY STILL WANT TAR MACADAM.

Dundas Street Ratepayers Do Not Favor the Expensive Asphalt.

The members of the board of works and ratepayers on Dundas street, between Wellington and Waterloo met again yesterday, and the latter once more declared in favor of tar macadam as a permanent pavement for that block, basing their claim for it upon the belief that it is a good pavement and a cheap pavement, while asphalt is a costly pavement, and none too satisfactory. Mr. Warren, of the Barber Asphalt Company, of Buffalo, answered this last contention by saying that it was the city's own fault, because the asphalt was soaked with water so much.

The ratepayers wanted to know what share of the expense the city would pay, and found that the board were not inclined to increase the uncontrollable expenditure, except for a first-class pavement.

The city engineer reported that asphalt would cost $20 per square yard; brick, $2 60 and tar macadam, $2 each to have a ten-year guarantee. The citizens present put in figures from Warren Bros. at $1 60 per square yard, and from L. P. Marden & Co. at $1 25 and $1 40, the latter figure to include an under layer of St. Marys stone.

The matter was laid over for another week.

Engineer Graydon advised the granting of the street railway company's request to be allowed to lay double tracks on Railway street. Action was deferred.

There were no new tenders for the laying of cement curbs. A former tenderer put in a lower figure, but it was not considered proper to accept this and the contracts to the Marden and Silica-Barytic Companies were reaffirmed.
