"I don't believe in man's tinkering with the work of God." Darrow, it appears, was in a mood for confession, that day at Boise, and his views on religion, as expressed to the Haywood jury, are illuminat-ing at this time in view of the prominent part he has essayed in the

And for the black man who looks into the black face of a wooden idol and prays to that idol to make him a better man, the profoundest respect. I have the profoundest respect. I know there is in him when he addresses his prayers to his wooden idol, the same holy sentiment and the same feeling that there is in the breast of a Christian when he raises his prayer to the Christian's God. Senator Borah's reply to Darrow also pertinent to the issues here in Dayton was a classic. He told of how as a boy, he had found a book on Ingersoll and was entranced until his ather took the book away. Then he turned to Napoleon.

"I came to the conclusion that Bonaparte was a greater man than Inger-soll," said the senator; "the greatest genius in war or statesmanship tha ver lived. I came to the history of his Egyptian campaign. I read how he took with him on that trip from Paris a number of philosophers, savants from the salons of Paris, learned men, wise men, men who were teaching in that day as some would vainly teach now, that there is noththere was no difference, as my eloquent friend now says, between the unlettered barbarian muttering at the Directors' Duties Clearly Defined by Recent Legislation, Ottawa Says.

Canadian Press Despatch. Ottawa, July 8 .- "The occurrences on which charges were launched under the bank act of 1913, against the former directors of the Home Bank of Canada, and upon which they were recently found not guilty by decision of the Ontario court of appeal, could not, in our opinion, take place under the safeguards provided in the new act of 1923, without early detection," it was stated at the department of finance, this morning, in commenting on statements covered the situation created by the made yesterday by Attorney-General recent acquittal of all Home Bank Nickle of Ontario, that no further criminal prosecutions would be conducted against the directors.

"It must be recollected," stated the department, "that the offences charged were alleged to have taken place prior to the coming into force of the new act, as the Home Bank failed on August 17, 1923.

SOVIETS BEHIND CHINESE TROUBLE

Missionary on Furlough in This City Tells of Eastern Turmoil.

"Bolshevists are behind all the trouble in China. Their agents have been in the country for years and have infected the student body with their doctrines," Mrs. W. J. Mortimore, a missionary-ou-furlough from the menaced district, told the Advertiser this morning. 'Cne can hardly blame the Chinese," she said, "for they have been under the heal of European power for so many years and have had to suffer many in-

The discourtesy of the foreigners living in the country was not imaginable. One could hardly grasp the fact that the natives of China were whipped or kicked aside by people of other nations, who were reaping the benefits of the country's nospitality No race was so patient as that of the Chinese, yet they were now awakening to national consciousness, realizing that they could no longer be downtrodden. The people do not want to be ruled by outsiders. Hard on Missionaries.

Because of the treatment the peo-ple received, the missionaries had a great deal to overcome, Mrs. Morti-mer stated. They were detested, and t was hard for them to carry their message of love to the people, when all about them persons from Christian countries were conveying to the minds a very different impression. Money seemed to be the big ques-ion in China. The economical condition of the country was in a very grave condition, and civil war was continually being waged between governors and would-be governors. An insight into the rulership of the country was also given by Mrs Mortimore. She told of robber chiefs army of followers and raid the seat of district. Some times he held his position for six week longer if no other chieftain descended Food Is Scarce.

The only way to power in China was through the army, she stated. Food was growing very scarce in the country when she left a year ago, and even at that time men were joining the army to save themselves from starvation. Taxes were outrageously high. The military governor thought nothing of demanding thousands of dollars from the poorer classes, and the sums they obtained were sent to the Hong-Kong-Shanghai bank at Shanghai. So much money had come into the bank that it was a matter of putting it in cold storage. The institution was flooded with currency, and instead of paying interest to the depositors they had to charge for storage. The taxes were also collected years in advance when it suited the governor to order such a measure. Chungking, where the fighting is growing more intensive, is situated on the Yangsi river, and all missionaries landing at Shanghai must pass through that city before they could reach their nexts in the nexts. sucker Interstate, property of the could reach their posts in the north and west of the Chengtu distrist, unless they took the alternative of an-other route by water, instead of the
