The first is really contained second, for the bank that loaned most to directors loaned to its president and other irectors in order that these latter might loan the money again on stocks. THE REAL EVIL THEN is loaning money on bank stocks, Two banks have been pointed out as being archoffenders in this respect, the difference being in the way of their offending, one ending the money through directors, the other through a machine or dummy corporation run in connection with the bank, The press and public generally have con-demned the practice; only two journals of any account have defended it; what the people want to know now is whether the practice is to be checked or whether it is to be allowed to extend. If it is not

BANKING SYSTEM WILL BE DEMORALIZED. The great evil is the loaning to brokers. People who o wn stock of a bank with which they keep an account, can most if not always arrange to draw against the stock, and anyone who holds good stock of any kind can give his note and get it discounted by giving the stock as collateral. Nor could any law prevent this. Therefore it is impossible to prevent banks loaning more or less money on their own stock. Still a prohibitory law no doubt prevents it a good deal, and if the banks were prevented from loaning to brokers it is not

When he went off for his vacation last summer it disappeared, and on his return reappeared with renewed vigor. He evidently took it with him to get some improvements made or to give it a rest. It is evidently a sort of private stock broking firm for wholesale stock gambling, composed of Federal bank officials. By manipulating Federal stock not long since (as was shown in The World) he sent it down about twenty per cent to the ruin of not a few (some, and no doubt most of whom, had been induced to go into the gambling through his example and operations) at the expense of Federal stockholders and to his own reputation, aggrandizement, and no doubt enrichment. Managers of atock companies, especially of banks who manipulate the stock of companies they are managers of, are worse than stock brokers. Manipulating stocks, especially by bank managers, should be made a criminal offence. The Federal bank manager has

DEMORALIZED THE WHOLE BANKING FRA-TERNITY. and is rapidly demoralizing the rest of the commercial community. It has long been reported and generally believed that by manipulating stocks and gambling in them he has made a good deal of money for the till it has reached alarming proportions and in this community a great deal of it is due celebrated a pontifical high mass, wearing to the cashier of the Federal bank and his with the deadly virus of stock gambling and learning the tricks of the trade. Unless they are taught that stock gambling and manipulating stocks not only don't pay but that it is positively dangerous, the present evil is nothing to what the future will bring. Every honorable bank manager in the country must deeply feel the injustice of the manager of the Federal bank being allowed to gain a reputation for shrewdness and financial ability and to enrich and ag-grandize himself by means that most all refrain from for honorable and commendable reasons. If he is permitted to carry on his operations or even not made an example of, other bank managers cannot be blamed for doing as he has done and no doubt many will. What will this result in? Will not most of our banks become simply gigantic stock jobbing institutions and the whole banking fraternity stock gamblers.

IT IS THE GOVERNMENT'S DUTY date. If it appears that the stockholders generally have been cognizant of their manager's operations it will be the government's bounden duty to deprive the bank of its charter. This will be a lesson that

The government must say what it is going to do about it. If it takes no action now the evil will steadily increase. But the bank shareholders must also take a stand. They must say whether they approve of the practices of their stock-jobbing direc

It is wrong not to expose this man and would be criminal to shield him especially since the Globe and Mail have defended him. Encouraged by them he puts a bold face on the matter, thinks he can dely public opinion and hopes to escape what he has richly merited. Not satisfied with an ample and even extravagant salary, he has under various subterfugges carried on his operations for several years. The deacons and sub-deacons of the mass were Rev Fathers Lynett and Hand, the chanters Vicar-General Laurent and Father Challan-dard of St Michael's college, the acolytes dard of St Michael's college, the acolytes and choristers being young men and boys of the Brothers' school. Mass commenced at 8 o'clock, there being a large attendance. His grace appeared to be in vigorous health. There was no sermon, as it is not usual. The choir at the request of the Archbishop sang in pure gregorian. The festival having fallen on Monday, the priests from the country could not attend. The pastoral festival will take place on Thursday next.

The bishop of Kingston will celebrate his third anniversary to-morrow. Bishop O'Mahony has gone on to Kingston to congratulate his lordship in the name of the archbishop as well as his own. The festivals are ordered by a rule of the church. They serve to remind the bishops of their duties and obligations and the people of theirs to-wards their chief pastors.

WYCLIFFE COLLEGE. Dean Baldwin Addresses the Students and Shows the Errors into Which Many

The authorities of Wycliffe college tool dvantage of the presence in the city of very rev. the Dean Baldwin of Montreal to secure him to address the students attending that institution. Tho' a very short notice was given of the meeting, quite a large number of the friends of the college assembled yesterday afternoon to hear him. He was introduced by the principal, Mr. Sheraton, and began by speaking of the bank manager along with a ring of brokers, dummy corporation, a limited amount of the chief subject. The system should be that Christ is the centre of the bible. He the stock away up and to make money out of it for the manipulators. This is why they handle the small banks. all eternity. He was the sum, the centre and the tetality of the christian religion. In your preaching, let Christ be the Friend of your sermon. Some drew a pretty picture of Him but no one was impressed. They your sermon. Some drew a pretty picture of Him, but no one was impressed They did not preach Him as a friend. He then explained, by quoting several examples, the effect a friend has on persons in trouble and how easily their heart is won by him. The great defect in the preaching of many was that they did not preach Christ as a sympathizing friend, "a man of sorrows and acquainted with griefs." If this was not done the sermons became as cold as the icebergs of the Arctic regions. He exhorted them when they stood up to preach not to endeavor to make their hearers philanthropists or philosophers but the philanthropists or philosophers but the sons and daughters of the living God, and to remember that the people they address are not blocks of wood or stone but living work of the spirit in its true light. A work of the spirit in its true light. A preacher may preach Christ and yet nothing results. This was because He was not brought in contact with those who are spiritually dead. They must know Him as the seal, unction and pledge. If they would preach Him with power they must look to themselves and see that He dwells in them. They must seek to be subservient to the spirit, for if they be high and haughty the Lord will leave them to themselves. The word of God should be the centre of all their studies and he bid them to beware of rationalism on the one side and Romanism on the other. He closed by saying that from the deepest recesses of his heart he wished the college to prosper and expand.

The address was listened to attentively

throughout and he was heartily applauded by the students at the close.
