Which is Your Choice?

Sloppy, leaky wooden troughs,
or clean, durable Concrete?

Wooden drinking troughs are about as reliable as the weather.

They are short-lived and require replacing every few years—not to mention continual patching to keep them in repair.

The best of wood cannot withstand, for long, constant dampness and soaking. Its tendency to rapid decay soon shows itself in leaks and stagnant pools of water around trough.

Contrast with this the durability, cleanliness and well-ordered appearance of Concrete.

Which?

The dampness which destroys lumber only intensifies the strength and hardness of Concrete.

You can impair a wooden trough with comparatively little use; but it takes a powerful explosive to put a Concrete water tank out of business.

How Indians Are Named.

Recently a long list of Indian names published at the Shoshone Indian reservation disclosed that there exist among them Dirty Face, Touch-on-the-Ground, One Toe Gone, Mrs. Silk Underwear, Mrs. Shakespeare, and so on. It is a general assumption that the Indians are themselves responsible for these names, whereas, as a matter of fact, the names are given them by white officers on the reservation. It is not always easy to ascertain what the Indian is called in his own language, and especially so when a recording clerk is in a hurry. So he puts down Indian names by an idea that comes to his mind and usually from some characteristic conspicuousness in the Indian in mind, and the more absurd the characteristic the more available it seems. And the Indian is absolutely content. He has no sense of humor anyway, and so he goes on living out his life under the nomenclature the whites have provided for him.—Boston Advertiser.

A Duel With Scythes.

Two young Swiss named Desmos and Quennos, cousins and rivals in love, quarreled while making hay at the village of Conthey, canton of Valais, and fought a duel with scythes, the other harkmakers being afraid to approach them. Quennos received a severe gash in the thigh, but the duel continued until Desmos, in swinging his scythe, overbalanced and fell upon the sharp blade. He was transfixed and died within a few minutes.—Geneva Cor. London Express.

Long Lived Belgian Women.
It is interesting to note that longevity among Belgian women is remarkable and that their length of life is superior to that of male Belgians. While Brussels has sixty-five old men of eighty-five to ninety years of age and only ten male nonagenarians, she possesses no fewer than 184 women whose ages are between eighty-five and ninety, thirty between ninety and ninety-five years and six of over ninety-five years of age.—Lady's Pictorial.

New Heart Stimulant.
A new heart stimulant is being produced at the Johns Hopkins Medical school, and it has been given the scientific name bufofin. It is much more powerful than digitalis and is obtained by "milking" the secretion from the glands located behind the ears of the bufo agui, the largest of the tropical toads found in Central and South America. The poison—for the fluid is a poison—is squeezed from the glands with the forceps.

PAIN, LIKE THE POOR, ARE ALWAYS WITH US.—That position of man's life which is not made up of pleasure is largely composed of pain, and to be free from pain is a pleasure. Simple remedies are always the best in treating bodily pain, and a safe, sure and simple remedy is Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil. You cannot do wrong in giving it trial when required.

MUZZLES ON DOGS.

They Kept Hydrophobia Out of England For Twenty Years.

A peculiarly forceful argument in favor of muzzles to prevent dogs from biting has just developed in England, where, after twenty years' immunity from hydrophobia, a case of that dreaded disease has been reported. Robert Bowers, who had charge of a pack of foxhounds in Wiltshire, was bitten on the hand by a fox at the end of the run at the close of last season. The bite was not considered serious at the time. The wound quickly healed, and Mr. Bowers soon forgot the incident.

A few days ago he developed symptoms of hydrophobia and died in agony.

Since the eighties there has been a law in England compelling the muzzling of dogs and the quarantining for three months of all dogs entering the country. Unpopular as that law was and still is, it has undoubtedly been productive of much good. During the past twenty years, with the exception of the case of Mr. Bowers, there has not been a case of hydrophobia in that country. The disease was considered to have been completely stamped out. It is held that if the fox that bit Mr. Bowers was suffering from hydrophobia it could only have been infected through being bitten by a dog. The muzzling laws are being enforced more strictly than ever now.—New York World.

A Monument and a Squabble.
In the course of its deliberations at Lisbon in June, 1908, the international telegraphic congress voted to erect at Berne, Switzerland, a monument to commemorate the founding of the telegraphic union, at a cost of 170,000 francs, the competing sculptors to receive prizes to the amount of 20,000 francs. About 100 plans were submitted, and the jury awarded the first prize and the contract to Giuseppe Romagnoli. A protest has now been entered by three members of the jury, whose "artistic conscience" would not allow them to endorse the verdict of the majority, and a letter from Berne says that the matter has been made "further interesting by the fact that there is an exhibition at the local riding academy of the various designs and models, where the citizens may see for themselves and vote as to which one they would have for their city."

China's New Coast Light.
One of the finest coast lights in the world, for its size, has been erected by the Chinese Imperial maritime customs at Chilan rock, about eighty miles north of Hongkong. The work of installation has been going on for about two years. Some idea of its power may be gained when it is stated that it can be clearly observed at a distance of twenty-four miles. The illuminating apparatus is group flashing of the first order, showing three white lightning flashes in quick succession every two seconds. The approximate power of the flash is 400,000 candles.

Heated Carpets.
A patent has been taken out lately in Germany in connection with running fine wires through a carpet in parallel lines connected with an ordinary electric light current. The wires become warm, and in larger sizes of carpets the temperature can be regulated at will. After the current is turned off the carpet remains warm for two or three hours, and a small foot rug may in this way be placed hot in a carriage in winter and keep the feet warm without additional current during an ordinary drive.

Lifting the Limit.
President Taft once worked as a reporter for a Cincinnati newspaper for $12 a week. Recently he was offered by a magazine $2 a word if he would write an article for the publication. He declined the proposition.—Popular Magazine.

A lady writes: "I was enabled to remove the corns, root and branch, by the use of Holloway's Corn Cure." Others who have tried it have the same experience.

At a meeting of the Wyoming Hockey Club the following officers were elected: Hon. Pres., Dr. Kidd; Pres., W. Dawson; Vice Pres., J. E. Anderson; Manager, A. Blittain; Captain, P. Weatherill; Sec. Treas., H. Joyce; Executive Committee, Pye, Robb and Homer Brown.

THEY WAKE THE TORPID ENERGIES.
Machinery not properly supervised and left to run itself, very soon shows fault in its working. It is the same with the digestive organs. Unregulated from time they are likely to become torpid and throw the whole system out of gear. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills were made to meet such cases. They restore to the full the flagging faculties, and bring into order all parts of the mechanism.
