Underwood

Accurate alignment is an essential of good typewriting; not merely good alignment, but permanently good alignment.

The Underwood has a guide which compels every character to appear in exactly the right position.

The principle of this guide is fully protected by our patents. Other typewriter manufacturers have been working over-time in the endeavor to circumvent us in the matter of a guide—without success.

Without it their machines must continue to occupy their present position—of inferiority. Write for catalogues.
