BRITISH COLUMBIA BUSINESS
REVIEW.

Vancouver, Nov. 25.—Perhaps the most important trade announcement of the week is that the shingle trust has been discontinued. Last spring all the larger mills combined. All orders received were filled by the combine manager, Mr. Scott of Westminster. The orders were divided according to capacity, good prices were obtained. All the mills were kept busy and no surplus stocks were accumulated. The produce of the combine mills, however, induced many others to go into the business. Most of these recently started. There were small concerns and were not taken under the combine. These concerns, however, cut under the combine price, and demoralized the market and the trust went to pieces. British Columbia mill lines have agreed that the distribution system will be discontinued by the companies. The system was the cause of a long standing complaint from the jobber, who believed they were unfairly discriminated against. The Yukon telegraph system is now being sufficiently enlarged so that in fair working order it will be within another year before the wire is widespread sufficiently to make the line safe from falling trees. The belief that all business offering can be disposed of with fair receipt, the holiday trade is already beginning to make itself felt. Jobbers are already booking orders for cranberry, holly goods. In the local market cured meats and lard are still sagging off in price. Manitoba wheat is in demand. Potatoes are still suffering in price from the effects of 12 carloads of overripe potatoes having been sent to the market. California grapes cannot be quoted this week as they have arrived in an overripe condition and due to the lateness of the season and have had to be sacrificed in some cases at 40 cents a box. The market is very unsatisfactory to handle. Numerous firms ordered large lots, each finding on the arrival of the steamer with the oranges that other firms had ordered as largely as they. The consequences of this is that oranges were a drug on the market, being very perishable. Some of the smaller firms got their oranges from their own hands at 40 cents a box, which is the lowest price they have ever reached since they were handled here.
