THE CENSUS OF THE DOMINION OF CANADA.

The St. John Sun has the following: The census authorities at Ottawa have verified the returns sent in, authorize the announcement that the population of the Dominion by Provinces is as follows:

Table with 2 columns: Province/Territory and Population. Includes Ontario, Quebec, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Is., and British Columbia and the North-West Territories.

The figures for British Columbia and the North-West Territories are estimated, the returns not being all in.

The total population of the Dominion is 4,350,933. As against, in 1871, 3,485,761.

Increase in 10 years 865,172

The census taken in 1871 included returns only from the old Provinces - Ontario, Quebec, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia. The present returns include the Provinces of British Columbia, Manitoba and Prince Edward Island, and the Territories of the North-West. The increase of population (865,172) has therefore been made up as follows:

Table showing population increases for Ontario, Quebec, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, and the Dominion as a whole.

The increase of population in the older Provinces alone is as follows:

Table showing population increases for Ontario, Quebec, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, and the Dominion as a whole.

As regards the newer Provinces, the comparison stands as follows:

Table showing population for P. E. Island and Manitoba in 1871 and 1881.

The increase in these two Provinces is therefore:

Table showing population for P. E. Island and Manitoba in 1871 and 1881.

The population of Van Couver Island, forming a portion of the Province of British Columbia, was placed in 1871 at 6,000 permanent white resident, besides miners, and 16,000 Indians. We cannot at the moment of writing lay our hand on an estimate of the population of the mainland portion of the present Province of British Columbia, in 1871; and it is impossible to state what the population of the territory lying between Manitoba and the Rocky Mountains was at that time. The present population of all the country west of Manitoba, to and including the Pacific Coast, is now estimated at 160,000, and this, we imagine, is well within the actual population.

The population of the Dominion, as taken in 1881, therefore stands as follows:

Table with 3 columns: Province/Territory, 1871, 1881. Includes Ontario, Quebec, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, P. E. Island, Manitoba, B. Columbia and the N. W. T.

The Dominion in 1881 4,350,933. The Dominion in 1871 3,485,761. Total gain from all sources 865,172

The census of 1861 and 1871 may be compared, as regards the older Provinces, as follows:

Table with 3 columns: Province, 1861, 1871. Includes Ontario, Quebec, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, The Four Provinces.

The increase, therefore, was as follows:

Table with 3 columns: Province, 1861, 1871. Includes Ontario, Quebec, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, The Four Provinces.

It will be seen that while in the last decade Ontario has gained somewhat in her percentage of 1871, Quebec has almost retained hers, Nova Scotia has fallen back somewhat, and the four Provinces taken together have increased theirs from 12 4/5 per cent. to 15 3/4 per cent. As regards the numerical increase over the twenty years, it stands as follows: - Ontario, that added 224,760 to her population between 1861 and 1871, has gained 292,609 between 1871 and 1881; Quebec, which added only 79,950 in the former decade, has gained 166,953 in the latter; New Brunswick, which gained 33,547 in the former, gained 30,535 in the latter; Nova Scotia, which added 56,943 in the former decade, gained 52,785 in the latter. The four Provinces, which increased 395,200 in the former (61 to '71), have gained 547,882 in the latter ('71 to '81).

In twenty years, then, Ontario has added to her population 517,369; Quebec, 246,023; New Brunswick, 60,082; Nova Scotia, 109,728; the four original Provinces of the Dominion showing an increase of 933,282, hard on to a million of souls - or 26 1/2 per cent on the population of 1861.
