A STEAMSHIP'S DREADFUL FATE

At Gibraltar-Hundreds of Immigrants Drowned Like Rats-A Captain Under Arrest.

GIBRALTAR, March 17.-The British steamship Utopin, from Italian ports bound to New York, with 700 Italian emigrants abourd, collided to-day with the British ironclad Rodney anchored in Gibraltar Bay, and sank soon afterward off Ragged Staff. A southwest gale was blowing at the time of the collision. Many women and children were drowned. A large number, c inging to the rigging. have been rescued by boats from the channel squadron. Intense excitement prevailed on shore. On entering the bay the Utopia, before colliding with the Rodney, ran into the British iron clad Anson. The Utopia sank within a few minutes. Beats were immediately lowered from the British iron clads and also from the Swedish man-of-war Freya. These boats resented 180 persons, who are now on board the various vessels. Many others who were rescued are lodged in Government buildings on shore. The erew of the Utopia were saved, but over 200 passengers perished. The Utopn, belonged to the Anchor Line's Mediterranean fleet. She took cargo at Trieste and Fiume, ports of Austro-Hungary. and steerage passengers at Catavia, Sicily and Naples. She was commanded by Captain Mitchell. She sailed hence for Mediterranean ports on January 16. She was an iron, bark-rigged vessel, measuring 2,731 lons gross, was 350 feet long, 35 the men had tied to themselves each his feet beam, and of 29 feet depth of hold, wife or child, hoping to be able to float She was launched at Glasgow in 1874. Suddenly the strong gale, combined with the current, swept the ill-fated vessel across the bows of the Anson, and in a moment her hull was pierced and cut by the run of clear of the ironclad drifted about before wind and sea. The rapid inrush of water through the dent in her side caused her to settle down in five minutes from the time of the first impact. The shricks () the Utopia's passengers and crew could be plainly heard above the roaring of the gale. The sea was so heavy that the boats of the rescuers could not with safety approach, the wreek, so they were compelled to lie to Jeeward, where they picked up the people as they were swept from the decks. As the Utopia's bow-settled, a terrib'e scene was witnessed from the boats. These still on board the sinking steamer made a sudden rush en masse to the forerigging struggling for their lives and vainly seeking places of refuge. Twenty minutes later the foreeastle was submerged, and a large number of persons gathered there, who had not dated to leap overboard with the hope of being rescued by the boats, and who had failed in their efforts to ascend the rigging, were carried away by the waves. The rescuers, blinded by the wind and rain, saw nothing but a confused struggling mass of human beings entangled with wreekage. Both the British and the Swedish sailors did plucky and vigorous work. While a steam pinnace belonging to the British ironclad Immortalite was engaged in the rescue, her screw fouled, and she became helpless and drifted on the rocks. Some came to the surface again for a few moments before sinking finally into their watery tomb, others were able to cling to pieces of wreckage, floating spars, cars, guardings, hatch-ways, boats, life belts, etc., and thus keep themselves above water until rescued by the war ship's boats. NEW YOUR, March 19.-The Pacnell envoys got a gratifying reception at the Cooper Union to-night. The hall was jammed and the platform crowded by scores of prominent Irishmen and women wearing green ribbons, who joined in a series of rousing cheers for the guests of the evening. A streamer over the platform read, "Trefand Stands by Parnell and an Absolutely Independent National Party," Michael Breslin was elected chaliman and introduced J. J. O'Kelly. The crow i cheered, swinging hats and handkerchiefs for five manutes. Mr. O'Kelly's speech was frequently interrupted by choors and favorable comments. He said; - "I am here to ask use the cause of freacid the sympathy that has regime that are jest the apartment solding violently. The coneral wish be come directed with religious experiments. From this very platform I spoke when here before, and then I declared myself an independent Irish Nationalist and a follower of Charles S. Parnell. (Cheers for Parnell.) At this juncture Mrs. Parnell entered the hall and the audience rose en masse and cheered her for tally five minutes. Mr Redmond continued:—I am still an independent Irish representative, sustained by no English opinion, but influenced by what the people of tny country wish me to do. The Irish party knew everything concerned in the divorce case when they elected Parnell the leader before the newspapers said anything about It Mention of Healy's and McCarthy's names drew a chorus of hissostand eries of "Judas." The speaker read from speeches by McCarthy and Healy were worthy ofconfidence. Neither Healy not his precious new beader dare appeal be fore the people of Dublin, whom they have so grossly outruged. "Are Parnell's sixteen years of matchless services to be forgation?" ("Never, never.") The very hypocritical men who are fighting Parnell will soon have the light of public criticism thrown in on them, and those men, you will find, are not fit to clean Parnell's boots. We are willing to leave to the people the question as to who has been the most faithful to the cause of Ireland. Resolutions endorsing Parnell and his followers were altopted with a ringing "aye." Mr. Harrison, M.P., was findisposed but spoke briefly. An appeal was made for funds, and Branch No, 8 of the Irish National Longue handed over the $500 in its treasury. Other subscriptions were announced. Seven baskets

John O'Connor, of Tipperary, was the fourth speaker and was warmly welcomed. He said he saw around inlin old friends from the hill-sides of frehand and men with whom he had served terms in prison. He gave the lie to those who said Parnell was degrading Home Rule. The Irish people will never submit to the dictation of an English chief, Gladstone, It Funcif retires it will be in favor of an Irish chief. The speaker defended Parnell's course in revealing his conversation with Gladstone. Parnell cannot be got rid of in Irish polities, despite McCarthy's assertion to that effect in an American newspaper. Mr. O'Connor scored Gladstone severely for his refusal to treat with the Irish Parliamentary Party as long as Parnell was its leader. Parnell's opponents, he said, are supported by English money. Mr. O'Connor closed with a stirring appeal to the patriotism of all Irish Americans to support their old champion.

There were calls for Mrs. Parnell, who made a vigorous speech, reminding her hearers of the faithful services of har son to Ireland, and declaring that he was to be credited with the safety of Ireland to-day. She felt for Ireland as if it were her own home, and she closed by reciting a bit of familiar poetry, "Our Country Ever, Rightor Wrong."

The collections for the evening amounted to $1,238, of which $1,53 was taken up at the door, At a former meeting in New York before the split in the party $30,000 was collected, which is in the hands of Eugene Kelly awaiting the termination of the factional fight. The anti-ence to-night numbered about 3,000.

A Useless Alliance.

ROME, March 22.—Desputches received Carsley's by the Foreign Office from St. Petersburg convey very unwelcome informa-tion pointing to the conclusion of a formal treaty of alliance between France and Russia. Until recently the Czar has resisted all attempts of going beyond an entente with France. The draft of a treaty prepared in Paris in 1887 and approved by M. De Giers, the Grand Dukes Nicholas and Vaclimir and the other chiefs of the Imperial council on the part of Russia, and which was then rejected by the Czar, but was again presented when after the last elections in France had confirmed the permanency of the from Paris, Berlin and London. republican form of government in that country, and was again rejected, has event of such immense international importance as this cannot be kept secret, it is expected M. De Glers, minister of foreign affairs, will cause some informal notification to small the control of the ome informal notification to reach the Governments of the Dreibund. As corollary of the alliance the Czar, it is stated, has signed a decree bestowing on Press President Carnot the Grand Cordon of the Order of St. Andrew, the highest Russian decoration, and one limited to members of the Imperial family. This decoration has hitherto been conferred as an exceptional honor on sovereigns nearly connected with the Russian throne. If the Foreign Office here has any precise knowledge regarding the terms of the reported Russo-French convention highly placed officials have not been allowed to share it. The honor conforred on President Carnot is the open talk of the diplomatic circle. The an-nouncement that it had been conferred has been telegraphed here under the sanction of the St. Petersburg authorities. No open despatch can be obtained regarding the conclusion of the treaty.
