

German Syrup

We have selected two or three lines from letters freshly received from parents who have given German Syrup to their children in the emergencies of Croup. You will credit these because they come from good, substantial people, happy in finding what so many families lack - a medicine containing no evil drug, which mother can administer with confidence to the little ones in their most critical hours, safe and sure that it will carry them through.

The Scott Act Ballot.

The ballot to be used on 23rd inst. in Northumberland, in the election for the re-creation of the Scott Act, is on the same principle as that used in elections of members of the House of Commons. It contains spaces for marking with a cross by the voter, and for the act, the upper space in this election to be marked by those who oppose and wish the repeal of the Act. The words "against the act" will be printed in red, and every voter who desires the stamping out of the demerit which Scott Act poison is now doing to night and day, where young and old men and women have been permitted to drink in secret at all hours of the night and practice even worse vices, should place a cross in the space at the end of the words "against the act."

Death of the Bishop of Fredericton - Metropolitan of Canada.

The death of Rt. Rev. Dr. John Medley, Bishop of Fredericton and Metropolitan Bishop of Canada, took place at his residence, Bishopot, Fredericton, on Friday last. News of the event, though expected for several weeks, was received with unreserved expressions of regret by all classes, and especially by members of the Church of England, by whom the deceased prelate was greatly beloved and esteemed.

A long and useful life has closed. On the 19th of December next Rt. Rev. John Medley, Bishop of Fredericton and Metropolitan of Canada, would enter his eighty-third year. His lordship occupied a high position in the Church of England, and that the same are conducted with honesty, fairness, and candour towards all parties, and we authorize the company to use this certificate, with fac-simile of our signatures attached, in its advertisements.

When Bishop Medley entered upon his Episcopal career, he was the prime mover in the formation of the Diocese of New Brunswick, which was organized in 1853. He was in 1858 elected Bishop of the diocese, and in 1878 he became vicar of St. Thomas, Exeter (where Rev. Maurice Strabey now is), and a rector of the Cathedral there. In 1845 the Diocese of Fredericton was set apart from that of Nova Scotia and the Bishop of Fredericton was appointed to the diocese.

By the death of the Metropolitan not only an able man, a resident of this Province for forty years, but a man who was a pillar of the Church of England in this Province, died. He was a man of simple life, but he had a fine sense of duty. No thought of double dealing, of concealing his ideas of covering his eyes, or of deceiving his mind. With many phases of reform he had no sympathy; for many modern organizations and modern purposes he had little respect. The Bishop of Fredericton, in his own person, was a model of the man of simple life, and his life was a lesson to his people. His public affairs he took so very active part. His patient of creation as Bishop gave him a high position in the eyes of his people.

The Scott Act Question.

Somebody ought to put an extinguisher on the constructive delinquency of certain Scott Act advocates who persist in comparing that act with the divine law against theft. It is the fashion with them to argue that people get drunk and peck the devil, notwithstanding the Scott Act and the divine and statute law against stealing. They thus place the faulty and ineffective Ottawa enactment on a par with the law handed down from Sinai, and, in that way, seek to make the former respectable by bringing the other into contempt. All the same, however, fanaticism will continue to mix gold and evil together to the confusion of the one with the other, until the standards of living truth are confounded in the rubbish and sophistries of the party who imagine they have a mission to reform the world according to their own crude notions.
