Sussex, Oct. 28—Miss Agnes Morton, the trained nurse who has been seriously ill at her home, Penobsquis, since the death of Norval Gross last week, is considerably better. At one time fears about her recovery were entertained. Two doctors were in attendance for some days. Her collapse was due to the self-sacrifice of the nurse in attempting to save the life of her patient, the late Mr. Gross. For days and nights together she was at For days and nights together she was at his bedside almost constantly, going without sleep or rest almost entirely. There was considerable excitement at the Normal school this morning, occasioned by the appearance at the opening exercises of a student of the university. He went there to witness the exercises, but his presence seems to have been objectionable to Principal Crocket, and he ordered him to move out. The student refused to budge an inch, and a messenger was dispatched for Policeman Wright. When the student heard the officer coming up the stairs he quietly moved across the hall to the Sloyd school and at once became deeply interested in the many productions in wood to be seen there. As I went up the frontier way
I heard the wondering people say,
"Our land is wide and richer far
Than all the golden Indies are.
Our fathers' lives are past and spanned,
Our fathers' glorious swords are sheathed,
Then shall we fling away the land
The God of Hosts to them bequeathed?"
From sea to sea, in sun and snow,
The answer thundered southward, "No!"

As I stood on the frontier way
I heard the indignant people say,
"Who fought and bled to save our rights
At Chateauguay and Queenston Heights?
Who is it fills each silent grave

THOUSANDS CELEBRATE

REVOLVERS AND RAZORS

Boston, Oct. 29—William A. Pierce, editor and publisher of the Police News, last evening was arrested charged with criminally libelling William H. Rothwell, better known as "Young Corbett," the champion feather weight puglist of America.

The arrest of Pierce closely followed a scene at the Criterion Club on Tuesday evening, previous to the boxing match between Young Corbett and Hughey Murphy, during which revolvers and razors are said to have been drawn by the belligerants.

It appears that a recent issue of the Police News contained a reference to ment.

are said to have been drawn by the belligerants.

It appears that a recent issue of the Police News contained a reference to Young Corbett, which incensed him. Before the bout beeween Corbett and Murphy at the Criterion Club on Tuesday night, Pierce and a friend started to leave the clubroom for a moment, when a man said to be a close friend to Corbett is alleged to have struck Pierce a stinging blow from behind, which landed apon Pierce's jaw and almost "put him out of business."

It is said that the man who accompanied Pierce, or a bystander who saw the assault, quickly struck Pierce's assailant and knocked him down and that at this point others jumped in and a general mix-up resulted, during which there was great excitement and much shouting, lasting for some minutes.

During the general fight, it is said, the nives and one man drew a razor and hased Pierce's assailants into a dressing room, where they locked themselves to escape further attack. This ended the general fight though there was considerable savage talk during the remainder of the show. The incident was then generally believed to be closed.

But promptly resterday morning Young corbett, accompanied by a Bostoman riend, hurried to the municipal court and presented his charge of libel against Pierce to one of the judges. As a result a warrant charging Pierce with "Maliciously writing and publishing certain false and defamatory libels, intended to injure William H. Rothwell of New York city,"
