

THE DEPARTURE OF THE SWALLOW:

And is the swallow gone? So the freed spirit flies!
 Who beheld it? From the surrounding clay
 Which way said it? It steals away,
 Farewell bids it none? Like the swallow from the skies.

No mortal eye saw it go Whither?—wherefore doth it go?
 But who doth hear? 'Tis all unknown:
 Its summer cheer We feel alone
 As it sitteth to and fro? That a void is left below.

Even from poison may nectar be taken; even from a child, gentleness of speech; even from a fox, prudent conduct.

From every quarter, therefore, must be selected women bright as gems, knowledge, virtue, purity, gentle speech, and various liberal arts.

Single to each man born; single he dies; single he receives the reward of his good, and single the punishment of his evil deeds.

Kindred retire with averted faces; but his virtue accompanies his soul.

Continually therefore, by degrees, let him collect virtue, for the sake of securing an inseparable companion, since, with virtue for his guide, he will traverse a gloom, how hard to be traversed!

Step by step one goes very far. To advance by degrees is in general the most secure, as well as most successful mode of proceeding.
