

328 ATTEMPT TO REACH THE NORTH POLE.

a ship might have sailed to the latitude of 82° almost without touching a piece of ice; and it was the general opinion among us, that, by the end of that month, it would probably have been no very difficult matter to reach the parallel of 83° , about the meridian of the Seven Islands.

THE END.