

And the radiance of the summer sun flooded the landscape with beauty and light, but in the hearts of those who were wedded that day was a more refulgent glory than even the midsummer brilliance outside—the light of love!