HUMOROUS.

"What is marriage?" One woman the more and one man the less." The prisoner being asked whether he struck the man in the heat of passion, replied: "No, I struck him in the pit of the stomach."

If your son has no brains, don't send him to college. You cannot make a palace out of a shanty by putting a French roof on it.

"Why am I made a sandwich?" said young Snobson plaintively, as a lady sat down either side of him in the horse car. "Because we are better bred than you are," said one of the damsels sweetly; and Snobson mustard courage to squeeze out to the platform.—Boston Commercial Bul-

"John, what odor is that?" "Cloves, love." "But that other?" "Allspice, my beloved," "But isn't there another?" "Yes, apples, belovedest." "Just one more." "Raisins, my most belovedest." "Well, John, if you'd only drink just a little brandy now I think you'd make a good mince pie."

When Marshal Narvaez, it is related, was on his death bed, his confessor asked him if he freely forgave all his enemies. "I have no enemies," replied the dying Marshal proudly. "Every one must have made enemies in the course of his ife," suggested the priest, mildly. "Oh, of course," replied the Marshal, "I have had a great number of enemies in my time, but I have none now. I had them all shot!"

Popular Quotations:—"This is a pretty pickle," as the Nihilist said when he found himself wheeling a barrow of salt in the mine of Siberia.—"Sweetness is light," as Mr. Matthew Arnold cried when he put his pearly teeth through the penny puff.—"There's a chiel among us takin' notes," as the banker told the detective whom he sent to look after his clerks.

A sad looking man went into a Burl-A sad looking man went into a Buriington drug store. "Can you give me," he asked, "something that will drive from my mind the thoughts of sorrow and bitter recollections?" And the druggist nodded and put him up a little dose of quinine, and wormwood, and rhubarb, and epsom salts and a dash of castor oil and gave it to him, and for six months the man couldn't think of anything in the and gave it to finit, and for six man couldn't think of anything in the world except new schemes for getting the taste out of his mouth.—Burlington Hawk-

An absent-minded man, travelling with his wife in a railroad car, left her side to get a drink. When he returned he dropped into a seat immediately in front of his better-half, beside an unprotected female, over whose head the snows of about thirty-eight winters had passed. His wife was looking out the car window at the scenery, and didn't notice his awful blunder. Presently, without turning his head, he impatiently remarked, "Jane, how often have I told you not to starch my shirts so infernally stiff?" The ancient female, whose forward name happened to female, whose forward name happened to be Jane, screamed, "Monster!" and fain-ed on the spot, and the absent-minded man looked uncomfortably warm as he changed

Webster and Crockett.

David Crockett soon after his arrival in the city of Washington listened to a speech from Daniel Webster, and shortly afterwards meeting him in the capital, accosted him thus:

"Is this Mr. Webster?"

"Yes, sir,"
"The great Mr. Webster of Massa-chusetts?"

"I am Mr. Webster, of Mass."
"Well, sir," continued Mr. Crockett, "I I dont think so. I heard your speech, and understood every word you said!"

In a Coal-Hole.

Mr. John Puffins, who lives in a respectable street on the East Side, was a few nights since the victim of a laughable incident.

It appears that two neighboring ladies had gone out to some place of amusement, leaving in charge of their house a female servant, whose particular penchant ment, leaving in charge of their loads a female servant, whose particular penchant was the holding conversations on the door-steps with one of the decieving sex. While thus pleasantly engaged, on the night in question, the door suddenly closed, and the key being inside, all the efforts of the coquetting maid and her flirting admirer to enter the house were unavailing. In despair the girl at last determined to go to her mother's house, leaving her mistresses to enter the domicile as they could.

In due time the ladies arrived, and knocked, and knocked, but of course unavailingly. At length Mr. Puffins, learning the nature of their "fix," offered to assist them; but in vain he tried to force the door. At last he discovered that the assist them; but in vain he tried to force the door. At last he discovered that the coal-grid was loose, and a bright idea struck him that by his entry thus through the cellar he might be able to house his fair friends. He lifted up the grid and gently slid his body through the black and unearthly orifice. A load of coals had that day been got in, and our fat friend could go thus far but no farther. The bystanders, who were collecting fast, now tried to pull him out by main force, but EVERY LADY IN LONDON in vain. At last, by the elevation of a small boy to the window a pane was broken, and the window unfastened, and an entree thus effected.

The gallant gentleman was the ladies' first care, and the coals were shovelled from beneath his feet, in the hope that he might descend, but alas! his extreme pin-guidity rendered him immovable and there he remained in the semi-earthly and semi-heavenly position usually ascribed to Mahammed's coffins. The case now bemanammed's colins. The case now became serious; another attempt was made to pull the sufferer upwards, and after frightful exertions in screwing in his waist, etc., he was at length hauled out, breathless and bathed in perspiration. We hope the next time his "vaulting ambition" is so conspicuous his rotundity may not hin-der his being hauled over the coals.

Messrs. Crawford & Co.

I avail myself of this present opportunity of penning you a few lines to let you know how I like your machine. I like it better than any I have seen or worked with. That is the IX L MACHINE. I has such LIGHT DRAFF—I do really believe it cannot be surpassed in doing good work, and it has NO SIDE DRAFT, that is one thing I like. I like its splendid DURABILITY. I have tried it on the roughest of ground, on mowing and reaping. I also cut one field of Peas and Weeds that a great many said no machine could cut. I cut it clean, so they all around here say it could not be beat, and it was no heavier on the horses than if I was cutting grass. I don't think any machine can be made to beat it, for it is no trouble for a span of light horses to work it all day and it cuts so clean and even, and is so easily adjusted. It works well in down grain. I recommend it to every farmer.

Geo. W. Chandler. I have been an inveterate stammerer for 40 years. I am now 45 years old. I never saw a worse stammerer than I was. I have tried all sorts of cures, but without success, until Tuesday last, I placed myself under Professor Sutherland's treatment, and now, after only two days' treatment, I am entirely cured. I can now talk and read with perfect ease, and I know that I will never stammer again. My address is belaware P. O., Ont. ANDREW COLVIN.
