IF you can keep your head when all about you
Are losing theirs, and blaming it on you,
If you can trust yourself when all men doubt you,
But make allowance for their doubting too;
If you can wait and not be tired by waiting,
Or being hated, don't give way to hating,
And yet don't look too good, nor talk too wise,
If you can dream and not make dreams your master,
If you can think and not make thoughts your aim,
If you can meet with triumph and disaster
And treat those two imposters just the same;
If you can bear to hear the truth you've spoken
Twisted by knaves to make a trap for fools,
Or watch the things you gave your life to, broken,
And stoop and build them up with worn-out tools;
If you can make one heap of all your winnings
And risk it on one turn of pitch and toss,
And lose and start again at your beginnings,
And never breathe a word about your loss;
If you can force your heart and nerve and sinew
To serve your turn long after they are gone,
And so hold on when there is nothing in you
Except the will which says to them: "Hold on";
If you can talk with crowds and keep your virtue,
Or walk with kings, nor lose the common touch,
If neither foes nor loving friends can hurt you,
If all men count with you, but none too much;
If you can fill the unforfeiting minute
With sixty seconds worth of distance run,
Yours is the earth and everything that's in it,
And which is yours—you'll be a man—my son!"

—Rudyard Kipling.

Mme. Melba received a great ovation at Covent Garden last week, the occasion being the twenty-fifth anniversary of her first appearance in London. The singer was recalled eight or ten times at the close of the first act. The flowers which were showered upon her, filled the stage.

With her accustomed graciousness, the prima donna responded again and again with, "thank you, thanks from the bottom of my heart."

The Gilbert and Sullivan Opera Company revival of "Iolanthe" has literally taken New York by storm. In fact many of the newspaper authorities insist that this is "undoubtedly the best of the revivals made by the Company. The great surprise about "Iolanthe" is that it was supposed to be weak as compared to the other Gilbert & Sullivan pieces received by this company. The Mikado, "Pirates of Penzance," "Pinafore," and "Patience," and instead, it has turned out to be one of the very best of them all.

Indeed it is any criterion, Iolanthe must rank with "Pinafore" and "The Mikado," and distinctly above either "Patience" or "The Pirates." Although "Iolanthe" attained a substantial success when it was first produced in 1882, and though there have been numerous revivals of the work since that time, the piece was commonly rated as one of the less important achievements of the two famous collaborators.—Toronto Saturday Night.

St. Andrew's Reception.

At the reception and pre-communion service at St. Andrew's Presbyterian church last night, the attendance was large. The pastor, Rev. W. Gordon, M.A., B.D., presided. Twenty were received into fellowship, twelve by certificate and eight by profession of faith.

DAILY FASHION HINT.

The draped skirt is worn by everybody. It is new, it is graceful, and it is suitable for all materials, as it is not exaggerated. The skirt has three gores and closes at the side of the front, where it is slightly draped. In the back there is a wide panel in box pleat effect. All soft cotton fabrics, rayon, pongee and such like and wool mixtures are especially fitted for making in this style.

The skirt pattern, No. 6227, is cut in sizes 22 to 30 inches waist measure. Full skirt size requires 2½ yards of 44 inch material.

This pattern can be obtained by sending 10 cents to the office of this paper.

A most delightful surprise was that given by the employees of the E. B. Crompton Co., Thursday evening, when about twenty of the girls of Miss Dalton's department took possession of the home of Miss McCone, 42 Colborne street, to present Miss Dalton, who is severing her connection with the above firm, with whom she has been a valued employee for several years, with a cut glass water set. Miss Reider read the address, while Miss Margaret Zinn made the presentation. Words fail to convey the surprise of Miss Dalton and the joy with which she received the girls from her heart for their kindness and the beautiful gift.

A very pleasant time was spent last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Raynor, 28 Mt. Pleasant Street, when about 25 young people gathered to enjoy a social time with their friend Mr. Wm. Dewar of Winnipeg, formerly of West Brantford. The regular choir and orchestra practice was held at first, then games and music were indulged in. The serving of refreshments brought the evening to a close.

The congregation of Trinity church in Eagle Place are making arrangements to tender a reception to their popular pastor, Rev. George Latimer, who was recently ordained at Windsor, and now enters into full charge of the thriving parish. The event will probably take place in the school room of the church on Tuesday evening of next week.

in tea may mean to you flavor or strength or fragrant richness. Red Rose Tea is blended with such nicety that it is the combination of all three points of merit. Will you try a package.

AN ENTERTAINMENT BY ST. LUKE'S BOYS

Splendid Work Was Praised By Visitors at Concert.

St. Luke Boy Knights gave a very unique entertainment last evening that furnished wholesome amusement for the large number who were present.

Songs, recitations, physical and pyramid military work, old fashioned games, and a number of speeches, made up the program, which was concluded by an elaborate display of fireworks, in which all the boys took part.

Prof. Hutt, who gave a most interesting talk on the cadet movement. He said that there were a great many people who did not understand the movement and therefore was opposed to it. But when we considered that such men as Ven. Archdeacon Cody, Rev. Miner Gordon, Principal of Queen's University, Rev. Crawford Brown, Maurice Hutton, James L. Hughes, with numerous other clergymen and men occupying prominent positions in our country supported the movement, men like these must have strong grounds before they would advocate the movement. Some of the general advantages of cadet training were: It provides excellent setting up for boys physically. Boys whose teachers, parents and physicians have tried earnestly to train to sit up and to stand properly without success, in most cases respond at once to drill and become new physical types. It trains them to be prompt, efficient, obedient and intelligent. It reveals, law to a boy, that as a restraining force merely, but as a guiding force. In many parts of Canada large numbers of foreign boys are making their homes. There is no better process by which they can be made proud of their new country, their flag and their King, and develop them into the cadet movement. It trains boys to co-operate one with another, and to be neat and clean in their habits and careful of their language. That work which the present Minister of Militia, Colonel Hughes, had started among the boys of Canada, and the immense camps that were being held annually could not help but raise the standard of the boys of Canada, both morally and physically. St. Luke's Boy Knights had acquired a high character for their good work, and the behaviour of the boys. Their rules, though strict, had not kept boys from joining. They had able, efficient and faithful officers. It was contemplated to enlarge on the present work, and in order to do so they needed the support and encouragement, not only of the parents, but of the citizens generally. St. Luke's Boy Knights had not always received the support they should have, and their work had certainly been productive of a great deal of good, and with proper support and encouragement, the work of the future would be made far more successful.

The programme was: Song, Earl Matthews; dialogue, W. Mills and Hugh McDonald; physical work by class of boys; song, Charles Bourne; song, Henry Rogers; military drill, squad; fencing, exhibition, H. Rogers and E. Vansickle; Keep the Pot Abolishing, 6 boys; wrestling on horse back, C. Snowden, A. Vansickle; address, Prof. Hutt; Chicken Fighting, H. McDonald, Earl Johnson; recitation, Herbert Cockshutt; duet, E. Matthews and H. Rogers.

PRESENTATION TO MISS DALTON

The proceeds of the same donated to Del Orcutt, Brantford, a plucky third baseman, who signed from the team owing health and unfortunately to go under an operation in future. Del has a host of fans in the city and many of them ed tickets for the game, to business engagements were able to attend.

To get back to the game was corn in Egypt, abundance. How the twelve Leon ones up the twelve fat ones. Two fat runs.

Ivers played in extreme pain. He was suffering from a swollen thumb, which gave him pain.

The Sox favored the audience.

There was nothing doing in the stands, who were quietly looking for a nice, tureen tea.

The Sox upset their card in the third and scored one. After Tesch had died at the net, he was out a hunt, and so two base hit by Brundage.

Away they went again in Wagner walked, Ivers sing, stole third and Gabby wigg to second. Brundage fanned sent Wagner home with and Coose did likewise for The Sixth.
