

TRAMP SHRINERS AT THE BANQUET.

A Most Enjoyable Occasion With Talent Galore in Evidence.

Toothsome Viands, Sparkling Wines, and a Flood of Eloquence Contribute to the Passing of a Pleasant Evening.

Saturday night at the Regina hotel the Tramp Shriners and Knights Templar met in social session, and not a thing occurred to mar the wholesome pleasure of the occasion.

The dining-room was comfortably filled with guests and the social features of the evening were lead by Governor Ogilvie who presided and was master of ceremonies.

Mr. McDonald delivered an address with timely allusions and local skits.

Col. McCook begged to be excused from making a speech and concluded with a story.

Captain Jack Crawford, as usual was timely and popular and recited "Hood's Children," to the satisfaction of all.

The governor, in announcing the next number took occasion to speak appropriately upon the late war and the consequent closer bond of friendship between the two English-speaking nations.

Mr. D. W. Semple made the hit of the evening with humorous allusions to the pilgrimage of his brother masons.

In introducing the Newman children the governor told another of his excellent stories and was applauded to the echo.

The Newman boys, Willie and George obliged with song and dance, in costume, and then came little Margie.

Colonel Davis addressed the gathering and spoke very feelingly of the loved ones at home and how we all deserved the very best at the hands of the country in return for this long deprivation of our families.

Margie asked the governor and the latter asked Captain Jack to oblige with one of his humorous stories, and the captain responded with "Metalliferous Murphy" and a miner's parody upon Hamlet's soliloquy.

William Bard spoke of "absent families" and asked that all join in singing "Nearer my God to Thee," and offer up a few words of silent prayer for the absent dear ones.

Mr. Joy was appropriate in politics and fraternal remarks and then Captain Jack suggested the purchase of tickets to little Margie's benefit on Tuesday night.

Mr. Perkins made a few remarks on the evening and proposed D. W. Semple as chairman of the next meeting, to occur on the first Saturday in January.

The motion was seconded and carried unanimously, though it is believed that many voted twice in rapid succession.

BOYLE & SLAVIN.

In accepting "Little Willie" created much amusement and told another story. Messrs. Couch, Bannon, Langley, William, Sargent, Perkins, Newman, Gillson, McPherson, Trennel, Benson, Rogers and Nemo all spoke when called upon.

The governor wound up the festivities with the "King's Picture" and the happy evening was concluded with "Auld Lang Syne," all present joining in the singing.

Friday Benefit.

On Friday night there will be a benefit performance at the Monte Carlo, the object being the relief of the poor and distressed people of Dawson. The program shows a delightful collection of varied talent for that evening with Governor Ogilvie to deliver the address.

Manager Alcock guarantees every one who attends the grand skating carnival a splendid evening's enjoyment. Remember the night, Thursday, Dec. 22.

PERSONALS.

Mr. John Manning of the Northern is slightly indisposed, but he indefatigably keeps at his post of duty.

Erud. W. Martin, formerly of Victoria, B. C., and well-known there, is in charge of the cuisine of the Pullman Cafe during the day.

Wm. Carter, employed in Ash & Manning's establishment, gave us a call with a request for coal oil as he has to read the paper and yet there is so little daylight now-a-days.

Messrs. Wm. Thomas and Thomas Barry are contemplating a trip over the ice shortly. They intend trying the experiment of not taking sleds nor dogs and carrying a light robe a piece upon their backs.

We learn that Frank J. Dunleavy, late organizer of the Miners Association, has taken the lecture platform in Canada, and is telling the people down there what he found and saw in government circles under the old regime.

Every one wonders at the unusual happy and carefree around Casey Moran these days. Easily accounted for, however, when it is known that on last Saturday evening Mr. Moran led upon his arm pretty Miss Katie Vaughn to the residence of Rev. Bowen, rector of St. Paul's church, who pronounced upon them the beautiful marriage ceremony of the Episcopal church. Congratulations to the happy groom and bride.

Dawson is becoming more or less of a way station. Every couple of days a party from the lower river calls at Dawson and again leaves for the outside on various missions bent.

On Thursday there arrived a party from Eagle City consisting of Thomas McElahon, the postmaster of that burg; A. J. Cody, U. S. customs inspector; Charles Lundberg, assistant inspector.

On Tuesday there arrived Captain J. E. Sweeney, of the Alaska Co-operative company, accompanied by David Porter who intends returning to Eagle at once.

The Pullman's Specialty.

In almost every particular the Pullman excels and in no department more than in the bar where Captain J. K. Howard presides, and if ever a cocktail that fills with delight the taste of the epicure is to be had, the captain can produce it. None but bottle goods are used at the Pullman, no bulk goods being on sale, thus guaranteeing quality to those who patronize it.

THE MELBOURNE.

Dawson's Swell Hotel a Model of Style and Elegance.

Were it not for the exterior being built of logs, one would well imagine themselves within the extravagantly finished and furnished apartments of one of New York's famous hostels, when in Biel's Hotel Melbourne.

Conveniently located at the corner of Second Avenue and Third Street, directly in the centre of the business portion of Dawson. At the entrance is the large and spacious office, which when fully completed will be the most ample in the city.

The second and third floors are of course the important features of the hotel, consisting of 19 rooms, and all furnished in the most elaborate fashion. The Nugget man was shown a suite of rooms which would fairly rival the Waldorf Astoria. Richly carpeted with gilt curtain poles, elegant plush portieres, the floor covered with large wolverine rugs; easy chairs and handsome bed-room suites, were items of ease and elegance which would invite the visitor to almost languishing idleness.

The furnishings were all selected and placed by Mrs. Nellie Humphreys, a lady of charming manner and most perfect good taste, and the hotel portion is in her hands. The hotel is already well filled, and no more comfortable place is in the entire northwest.

Annunciators and electric bells connect every room with the office, and the building is lighted brilliantly with acetylene gas, a private plant supplying the illuminator.

Mr. Robert Biel has long catered to the public as hotel proprietor and to their love of amusement as theatrical manager understands precisely what is required and spares no expense in any undertaking in which he engages. The Melbourne is the latest evidence of his enterprise and liberality.
