KLONDIKE NUGGET.

MAKING GOOD SHOWING.

It is worthy of note that Sulphur creek is coming rapidly to the front as a producer. For several years Sulphur has labored under a burden of distrust among mining men.

The situation is merely illustrative of the history of numerous other portions of the district. The lower end of Bonanza creek which was walked over in the early days and left lying unrecorded as being of no value from a mining standpoint is now yielding handsomely and giving employment to a large number of men.

Decreased cost of operation has had a great deal to do with bringing about this change on the creeks named, but the spirit of keeping everlastingly at it is also largely responsible.

The recent impetus that has been given to work on Sulphur creek is particularly gratifying to this paper as the Nugget was among those who held firmly to the belief that with proper and systematic development the creek would be found to average well with the other producers of the district.

EMOTIONAL CRANKS.

Journalists of the emotional order are lending themselves to an endeavor to weave a chain of romanticism about the career of outlaw Tracy. Some of them have even gone to the length of asserting that Tracy's record of half a dozen men killed in cold blood is sufficient to entitle him to freedom. Such doctrines are little less than criminal. They are the product of minds distinctly perverted and tend to produce a most unwholesome effect upon public morals.

tional cranks who are accustomed to present bouquets to notorious criminals will not have an opportunity of making exhibitions of themselves in connection with Tracy.

The morning joke as was anticipated entirely avoids the questions propounded to it by the Nugget last evening. The joke is now endeavoring to cover its tracks and deflect public attention from the issue by accusations that attacks are being made upon Gov. Ross while the latter is lying ill. No one regrets the governor's condition any more earnestly or sincerely than does the Nugget. The sympathy of this paper for Mr. Ross has been amply and properly expressed and the news of his improved condition has been received by this paper with the most profound satisfaction.

Moreover, the criticisms that have been urged in this paper have been directed at the Yukon council as a whole and have applied to the governor only as being the executive head of that body.

The unfortunate affliction that has overtaken Mr. Ross does not in any way counteract the influence of ill advised legislation which has been passed by the territorial council, nor does it furnish a substantial reason for suppressing honest and fair criticism of actions and policies in which the governor has exercised a directing influence.

The facts in the case remain identically as they have been stated in this paper, and as long as they do so remain, the Nugget will reserve the privilege of presenting and maintaining its views. The contributions which have been made to the discussion by the morning joke are characteristically weak, and as a matter of fact have been given more attention than they deserve.

Beans Were High.

A good story is going the rounds at the expense of the late Fred Harvey, whose railroad lunch rooms have made his name familiar to travelers. It may be old to some readers but it will bear a second reading. We do not know where the story originated, but it is altogether too good not to pass along.

This decision was that until the meeting of the bituminous coal miners, to be held on July 17, became known, the coal operators in the agreement will hold their present stock of coal and that which they will receive next week, and not sell any in the open market.

The operators say they are impelled to protect themselves because of the scarcity of soft coal in or near New York, which the consultation disclosed yesterday.
