THE HERALD.
FREDERICTON, JULY 2, 1892.
LONEST-A POLICY.

The elimination of idlers, who undertook to close up the Merchants' bank because its manager closed out his account and "ran him in" for not retiring his notes when they came due, has published a pamphlet in which he says the local opposition must find a policy. If some one would only pay the funny fellows debts and get him out of the custody of the gaoler, so that he would not stick his head in if he went too far, we would advise him to start out in the wake of the vessel that took Dr. Stockton to England. If he could sail out into the middle of the Atlantic and find the place where the leader of the opposition leaned over the rail of the tossing majestic, and donated the contents of a sour stomach, and a soothing balm to the fishes of the sea, he might find a cleverer way to the lost policy.

THE TRADE CONGRESS AND SIR CHARLES TUPPER.

The trade congress has been in session in London during the week. Sir Charles Tupper was present, and undertook to take charge of the meeting and force his views upon the delegates, but met with a decisive rebuff which seems to have made him very angry. Sir John Lubbock had made a motion favoring a free trade union of Great Britain and the colonies, to which Sir Charles moved an amendment favoring differential duties for the colonies as against other nations. The amendment was strongly opposed by the English delegates, who held Sir Charles's idea up to ridicule. The sentiment of the mother country in regard to matters of trade and commerce, was no doubt adequately expressed by Sir Thos. Farrar, when in showing the impracticable nature of Sir Charles Tupper's scheme, he said: "Should Great Britain agree to give fifty million of American trade in order to secure a problematical eleven millions from Canada?" Sir Charles's amendment was lost by a vote of seventy-eight to thirty-four. There is but a small grain of comfort here for those Canadian protectionists who have the old flag at election time, and howl about the liberal policy of this country against the mother country.

THE BRITISH ELECTIONS.

The British parliament has been dissolved and the two great political parties are waging the fight of the century for supremacy. There is practically but one issue in the contest, and that is home rule, pure and simple. Every other interest has been subordinated, and every other question, great or small, has been for the time cast in the shadow and the people have been asked to go to the polls and say by their ballots whether Ireland is to have home rule or not. Indeed, so determined is Mr. Gladstone that this question shall be settled one way or the other before his life's work is ended, that he has hesitated his ultimatum to the electors in which he virtually stakes the destiny of his party on the decision of the people in regard to this burning question of the hour. In order that his opponents may not be able to say, during the progress of the campaign, as they have said, not without good reasons in the past, that his scheme of home rule is indefinite and immature, he has published an outline of his home rule scheme, and on its merits he has dared to stand or fall. No matter what one's personal convictions on the subject may be, there is something supremely grand in the sight of the greatest English statesman of his day, fighting the last great battle of his life for the cause which he considers just and right, and staking his own chances for success as well as that of the great party he leads on the result.

THE REPORT OF THE FARMER DELEGATE.

After a long delay the government has brought down the report of Mr. McQueen, the Scottish farmer delegate who visited the maritime provinces a year ago. Mr. McQueen was instructed to report upon the agricultural prospects of the maritime provinces, and their desirability as a field for emigrants from the mother country. It will be remembered that the government delayed bringing down the report, and it was then stated that its unfavorable and adverse criticism upon the trade policy of the government was the real cause of the delay. The following extract from the report speaks for itself.

"Farming has for a number of years (but more clearly since the McKinley bill came into operation) been on the downgrade and in a very depressed state. Nearly all the young men leaving the old folks on their farms and going to the States; the land consequently is badly farmed and getting run down. Houses and buildings in many instances are falling out of repair. Any number of farms can be purchased at very low prices, often for less than the houses and buildings on them cost. A large number of farms are heavily mortgaged. The output of coal is increasing very slowly and the iron industry is not developing as it ought to do. The census returns issued some months ago showed that the increase of population in the maritime provinces during the last ten years was small, not at all commensurate with the natural increase of population and the number of immigrants coming into the provinces.

"The question naturally arises: What is the cause of this depression, and can I recommend brother farmers, laborers or artisans to emigrate to the maritime provinces?"

"In answer to the first question, from my own observation and from all I could hear and learn, it is from all of better trade relations with the United States, the natural market for their surplus produce. Some say, 'You have nothing to do with this question, it is out of your province and touching on politics.' But I hold that it is so closely associated with our mission and the object of our report that we are bound to bring it forward.

"In answer to the second question, as to recommending emigrants to go to the maritime provinces, until there is unrestricted reciprocity with the United States so that the farmers shall have a better market and be able to command higher prices for their produce, I must decidedly say, No. I went to the provinces unbiased and unprejudiced and have endeavored to give an honest and just report."

Hon. HONORS.—Fred R. Taylor, of Rothbury, who won high honors at the recent N. B. matriculation examination is a nephew of Mrs. J. R. Gardiner of Gibson.

THE BAPTIST ASSOCIATION.

Considerable Important Work Done—Reports Submitted.

The N. B. Baptist association held a session on Saturday afternoon and after reading of minutes adjourned, giving place to the N. B. minister's immunity association. The board of management brought in its report which was adopted. Officers were elected as follows: Rev. W. E. McIntyre, president; Havelock Coy, secretary; A. H. P. Randolph, treasurer, and a board of directors. After other routine business was transacted, the meeting adjourned.

The evening session was opened by prayer by Rev. S. McCrack, of the Messenger and Visitor. Report on home missionaries was then read as follows:

Some sixty-two fields have been assisted in maintaining ministerial labor during the convention year, many of those for the whole year, others for part of the year. The reports received show 620 added to the churches by baptism, 138 by letter. Three churches have been organized on the coast where we had no place before. In the case of one of these churches five stations have been opened up so that an entirely new field has been organized.

The expenditure for the year will probably be about $3,000. At the present time we need about $3,000 to bring us out clear of debt.

The following fields in the N. B. west association have been supplied and assisted all the year: Nashwan, Cardigan, Rockland, Florenceville, Aberdeen, Andover, Tobique and St. Francis. Repeated attempts were made to settle men on the Canterbury and Queensbury fields, but without success till a few weeks ago, when a young man was sent to the Queensbury field whom it is hoped will remain with them a year; and the Canterbury group is filled by an efficient student supply. A young man has lately been sent to the Wakefield, Simonds, Avondale and Bloomfield churches in the expectation of having those churches worked as a group. The New Jerusalem and Wickham churches are at present cared for by a worthy young man in connection with Greenwich Hill church. Brother Young, general missionary, has spent considerable time during the year in labor among the weak churches of the association.

An attempt has been made by the secretary of home missions to group Grand Lake 1 and 2 and Bangs churches under the pastoral care of one man, but without success. An attempt at the same time was made by our secretary to group the little church at Wiggins Cove with Mill Cove, but without success.

Your committee would suggest that the association recommend to the churches groups of churches where considered expedient by the secretary and request them to be willing at least to give it a fair trial, as it has been found to work so well in many instances.

This we think upon the whole may be regarded as the best year in the history of our work. The relatively introduced to employ but few men for short missions is working well, and as we have more men settled over fields than ever before.

Signed on behalf of committee, M. P. King, J. W. A. Young.

The secretary of the home mission board, speaking on the work of that institution, said that the work of home missions is that of preaching the gospel to the poor of our own land. As this is the work, it should be the work of the denomination inasmuch as Christ gave evidence of his Messiahship, that to the poor the gospel is preached. Further, the law of Christ requires that they who are strong ought to bear the burdens of the weak. The different churches of the three provinces constitute a family of about 200 members or groups of churches. About one third of this number are dependent or need the help of the denomination. This help they may receive through the Home Mission board. To render the help they need the board should have $1,000 per year, whereas it has only $800.

The work has been blessed, and during the last twelve years upwards of 6,000 have been added to the churches through the efforts of the missionaries, supported in whole or part by the Board. Thirty-three churches have been organized by the efforts of these missions during the time named.

The year now drawing to a close has been a very prosperous one, over 750 have been brought into the churches. All the missions fields of the association are at present supplied by laborers, and our hope is that most, if not all, will remain on the fields for some time.

All departments of our work are dependent on the home mission work. If the denomination is to become strong to carry on the foreign mission work, it must push on the home mission work. As we can make our weak churches strong and multiply the number of the churches we become strong in every department of our work.

J. W. S. Young, general home secretary for the Maritime provinces, followed.

Monday morning's session opened with prayer by Rev. W. J. Stewart. Revs. B. H. Thomas and T. Todd were elected members of the N. B. educational society. Rev. Dr. Day submitted report of committee on temperance.

The Rev. S. D. Irvine then introduced the following resolution: Resolved, that the Western Baptist Association of N. B. express its opinion that the proposed system of giving Dominion Government grants to various denominations on a per capita basis for mission work among the North-West Indians is unwise and unsound as an economic principle and should not be carried into effect. Holding as we do, the principle of entire separation of Church from State, we hereby urge upon the notice of the Dominion Government the danger of aiding Christian bodies into a jealous conflict over their respective rights and claims for mission schools. This resolution was received, discussed and adopted unanimously.

A resolution respecting the outfit of public money for special teaching in schools, especially in reference to the Bathurst schools, was adopted.

The afternoon session was an interesting one. Rev. Mr. Thomas read a paper on the sphere of pastoral labors. There were reports on Sunday schools and foreign missions.

After a very pleasant evening session the convention closed to meet next year at Jacksonville, Carleton Co. Rev. Mr. Crawley will preach the associational sermon.

The air in the vicinity of the Post-office is resonant with the joyous voices of children and the tread of impatient feet from three to five, six and eight o'clock every Monday and Thursday afternoon as the weary people wait patiently for Her Majesty's tardy mail-carrier. This tardy delivery of the mail is a great inconvenience to the community and a perfect nuisance to the post-master.

CANTERBURY STATION.

June 28.—The ice cream social given by the members of the Episcopal church here on Saturday, 11th June, was a great success. A very large crowd attended and enjoyed themselves. The managing committee, R. Scott and E. London, spared no pains to make it a success. The social was held on the beautiful grounds adjoining the rectory. The tables were set in the open air. These were under the management of Mrs. R. H. Scott and Mrs. John Glew who must have been pleased at the complimentary remarks made in regard to the appearance of the tables. A hand stand was erected near by and excellent music was furnished by the Woodstock cornet band orchestra led by prof. Barry. One of the principal attractions for the large crowd that attended, was the fine line of sports which were arranged for the afternoon. Prizes were given in all the contests and were won by the following: 150 yards foot race, Wallace Smith; 100 yards, Adam McPherson; 100 yards foot race, boys, Barney Grant; thirty yards race (girls under twelve years) Miss May Grant; high jump, Fraser Yenes; three standing jumps, James Morrisey. We wish to thank the ladies of the other denominations who very materially assisted us both in cooking and in attending the social; and also the gentlemen in St. John and St. Stephen for the many handsome presents.

The Kickapoo Indian medicine company have been here for the past two weeks advertising the Indian remedies. Their concerts were well attended and a large quantity of medicine sold. A number of valuable prizes were given away. That for the best essay on the Indian tribes of the west, their habits and customs, was taken by Miss Mary C. Gies.

The road machine, which was purchased by the government to be used in the parishes of Canterbury and North Lake and which was regarded by some as only capable of working on sandy ground, and by some was said to only spoil the roads, has been in operation for a few days in this parish and has demonstrated to those most opposed to it, that the machine is a success and that a large amount of road can be made much cheaper than by the old method. Every one who has seen the machine in operation, or has traveled over the well turfed stretches of road which have been built in such a short time, are much pleased with it and are only sorry that it had not been in operation here for a past ten years. The machine is in charge of J. W. Dickinson, a competent man and good worker.

YORK MILLS.

June 24.—There was quite a large number of friends gathered Wednesday at the residence of George Brown to witness the marriage of his eldest daughter Annie to James Patterson of Tweedside. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. A. McLean. Over seventy guests were invited. A few of them were prevented from coming by the rain. An abundance of good things were provided for the occasion.

The bride received quite a number of presents.

A public examination was held in the school house. The pupils were examined in the different branches as high as Grade V and acquitted themselves with credit both to themselves and their teacher. There was quite a number of visitors present. The afternoon closed with recitations and compositions by the members of the 5th class. A farewell letter to the teacher was read by Maggie Kelly, as follows:

Dear Friends,

It appears that the task of writing a farewell letter to the teacher has been allotted to me. In behalf of the children (my schoolmates) I must say we are all very sorry that she thinks of leaving us. She has been very kind to us, very patient with us when we were inattentive, or unable to study, and although I know we have often tried her temper and patience, and our carelessness, she has always been kind to us during the time she has been with us. We know that she has worked for our good and has not wearied in well-doing. She desires us to thank the people to whom her kindness to her during the three terms she has been with us and hopes that the friendships formed may long remain unbroken. Dear schoolmates I bid you farewell for a short time but in our pleasant occupation let us not forget the kind counsel of our teacher. Dear teacher we bid you farewell and may you be happy and successful, in whatever path you may choose, is the sincere wish of your scholars,

Maggie M. Kelly.

Miss Thomas has resigned her position as teacher at York Mills. She has been painstaking and diligent throughout, and the parents as well as the children are sorry to lose her.

The York Wollen Mills are closed for the present.

FREDERICTON JUNCTION.

June 26.—A very sad accident occurred Saturday afternoon. Havelock Dinsmore while attempting to cross the track at the Junction, was struck by the gravel train and carried several yards. He received some severe injuries, but under the skillful treatment of Dr. A. J. Murray, he is recovering slowly.

Dad Mullin, who lives a few miles from Fredericton Junction, while attempting to get on his horse's back the other morning, was seized by the horse who threw him up in the air, and seized him the second time by the arm. He was found in an unconscious state. Help was summoned at once and a few days after his arm had to be taken off at the elbow. It was a very sad accident, and as the horse is inclined to be cross at different times, we think that something should be done with it at once.

Willie Alexander and wife, of Woodstock, spent Sunday with us.

The teachers of our school are working very hard now preparing for the grading examination. The examination in the advanced department commenced on Monday. Judging from the look of things that the young ladies have at night, we think that they are studying very hard. We wish them every success.

The public examination was held on Friday, 22d. A large number of visitors were present. The questions were answered promptly and correctly and we are safe in saying that the efforts of S. D. Alexander during the last year have not been in vain.

The pupils on Sunday was occupied by Rev. Gideon Swin, of Carleton county.

William Mackay has just put in a crew peeling bark.

Mr. Anderson, M.P.P., has made a visit through from Canterbury to Forest City and has started the road machine which is doing good work. The inhabitants feel very proud of the government and think the machine will be a great benefit in the next election.

An English detective has arrived at Quebec and is engaged looking up Cream alias. Neil's record, an account of which will be found on our first page. From his record in Quebec he expresses the opinion that the charge of poisoning girls in London, for which Cream is now under arrest, will be prosecuted with fresh vigor, the crimes undoubtedly brought home to Neil. The case is exciting much interest all over the province and every day fresh evidence of the man's depravity is turning up.

Cyr has two horses harnessed, each of which weighed over 1,200 pounds brought and attached by straps to either arm. The animals were then whipped up each in his different direction. Though they strained themselves under the lashings of the whip Cyr kept his arms folded. The horses could not extend them. On one occasion one of the horses, a large grey, the stronger of the two, drew both Cyr and the other horse after it, but did not make the strong man lose his grip.
