The Store that Saves You Money!

Ten Strong Reasons why you should Buy Your Furniture FROM THE

C. L. MARCH CO., LIMITED, Corner of Water and Springdale Streets.

- 1st—We produce our own lumber which goes into the Furniture and saves considerable cost.
- 2nd—We have the Surface Oak finish for our Furniture, which is the only thing of its kind in the country.
- 3rd—We import our own Coverings for our Parlor Suites, thus saving two duties, as most all the imported Suites come from Canada and the United States, and they have to import their coverings from France or some of the European countries, and pay duty into Canada or the States. We avoid the second duty by getting the Covering ourselves and having the frames made here.
- 4th—We have our Springs made from the wire by the only Weaver in the country; also the Oxford or Copper Wire Spring by machines too.
- 5th—We have our Mattresses made by machinery in our own building, the only machine of its kind in the country. It can produce 50 against 10 by hand, thus saving considerable in cost.
- 6th—We are producing the Excelsior or Wood Fibre and cutting the cost in two, which will mean considerable saving in the making of Mattresses.
- 7th—We are also Selling Agents for the celebrated Ideal Beds and Springs, and sell at factory price.
- 8th—We also have the COMBINATION LATH and SPRING BED, the only thing of its kind in the country.
- 9th—Having the factory in the same building, we can handle all sizes all repairing; in fact you can choose your own Coverings for Parlor Suites, Mattresses, etc., and have it made to order.
- 10th—Our motto (last but not least) is to sell at the lowest possible prices, and despite the serious advance in prices all round, we are, where possible, reducing the prices, WHICH SHOULD APPEAL TO EVERY HOUSEKEEPER when in need of Furniture and Furnishings, as we now by arrangement work from the "Tree to the Home," thus cutting out all middlemen's profits.

Calumet Miners Bury Their Dead.

Calumet, Mich., Dec. 27.—The Western Federation of Miners buried its dead to-day. Fifty-nine bodies, including those of forty-four children, were carried through the streets to-day, down a winding country highway, and laid in graves in a snow-enveloped cemetery in sight of Lake Superior. Thousands of saddened miners formed the escort of the funeral parties, and passed between other thousands who, as spectators testified as to the grief that has oppressed the community since seventy-two men, women and children were killed in the Christmas Eve panic in Italian Hall.

The supply of hearses was inadequate and there were only fourteen of these vehicles in the van. Then came three undertakers' waggons and an automobile truck, the latter carrying three coffins. These vehicles contained the adult victims and the older children. Beside one marched eight women who acted as pall-bearers, for a member of the Women's Auxiliary of the Western Federation.

It was this women's organization which was distributing gifts of candy, shoes, caps and mittens, to the children of the strikers when the panic broke out.

Behind the hearses was a section of the procession which brought tears and sobs from the onlookers. Thirty-nine white coffins, their size testifying to the short life of the little forms within, were carried by relays of strikers. Four men bore each coffin and as their arms grew weary or feet stumbled on the slippery roadway companions relieved them of their burdens.

Fifty singers chanted hymns in the wake of the children carriers. Most of these men were English miners, who had learned in Cornwall to chant Christmas carols in the streets, and years ago brought this old custom to the copper country. To-day, however, they did not sing songs of a new life born. "Jesus, Lover of My Soul," "Rock of Ages," and "Nearer My God to Thee" came from throats filled with emotion, but the harmonies were full and rich.

As the singers turned into Pine Street, which leads to the cemetery road, the open ranks of marchers wheeled into line. Ishpeming and Negaunee came first, followed by a brass band and the members of the copper country locals.

The cemetery is in two sections. One is consecrated to the dead of the Roman Catholic faith, the other to those belonging to Protestant denominations. In the former three trenches had been excavated, and in these twenty-five bodies were laid.

On the Protestant side of the burial place two large graves received twenty-eight bodies. The other six were laid in family plots. Only brief addresses were delivered in the cemetery. Eugene A. McNally, a local attorney, eulogized the dead in English, and George Strezich, of St. Louis, Frank Aultman, of Negaunee, and other federation leaders delivered addresses in Austrian, Finnish and Croatian.

Cascarets' Relieve Sick, Sour Stomach

Move acids, gases and clogged-up waste from Stomach, Liver, Bowels—Cure Indigestion.

Get a 10-cent box now.

That awful sourness, belching of acid and foul gases; that pain in the pit of the stomach, the heartburn, nervousness, nausea, bloating after eating, dizziness and sick headache, means a disordered stomach, which cannot be regulated until you remove the cause. It isn't your stomach's fault. Your stomach is as good as any.

Try Cascarets; they immediately cleanse the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry off the constipated waste matter and poison from the bowels. Then your stomach trouble is ended. A Cascaret to-night will straighten you out by morning—a 10-cent box from any drug store will keep your stomach sweet; liver and bowels regular for months. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a good, gentle cleansing too.

Police Search for Missing Radium.

Particle Half the Size of a Pin's Head Has Been Stolen From Chicago Hospital.

Chicago, Jan. 1.—Search to-day by police and hospital authorities failed to disclose any clue to thirty-five milligrams of radium believed to have been lost or stolen several days ago while being used in the treatment of a cancer patient.

Unless the person having the precious particle of radium—it is half the size of a pin's head and is worth $4,500—in his possession knows how to protect himself from it, it may kill him, according to hospital physicians. If instead of being stolen it is mislaid, it will declare its presence by its influences on whatever substances are around it.

The speck of radium was imported from France by Saint Luke's Hospital. It was kept in a platinum capsule an 8th of an inch in diameter and three quarters of an inch long. Its last appearance known to the hospital staff was when the capsule was placed in an incision in the arm of a woman patient. After several treatments it was found that the capsule was inactive. The capsule was opened and it was found that the radium was gone.

It would be impossible to tell the missing bit of radium.

It was said a record was kept of every particle known to exist in the world and this piece is on that register. No respectable physician, laboratory experts says, would purchase a piece of radium from an unknown source.

The Nickel's Big Bill Delights Thousands.

The Nickel Theatre gave a splendid bill last evening. Thousands attended in the afternoon and evening, the total being one of the largest since the Nickel opened here. During the night it was not an easy matter to get seats. The programme contained no less than six different subjects, each of which was watched with the greatest interest. The pictures were entitled "Strange places and people in New York," "A Simple Maid," "Poison Ivy," "A Leap Year Proposal," "The Country Boy" and "The Clay Industry." Mr. Cameron, who is now appearing for the last week, made another great hit in his popular song, "The Scientific Man." For eighteen weeks he has been singing at the Nickel and has had wonderful success. There seems to be no end to his repertoire of comic songs. To-night he will sing "A thing he had never done before," and to-morrow "There's an Exhibition." The great tenor Charles F. Tingle, and Carolyn Williams, the Welsh soloist, will arrive in the city shortly.

Mr. Kleley also has some superlative feature films which will be given in the near future.

Healthy and Unhail by Lighting.

Gas, it may be said, vitates the atmosphere. True. But it also helps to purify it. Its purifying power is greater than its vitating power. Electricity does not vitiate, nor does it purify. Hear what three eminent men have said:—

Much evidence has lately been adduced to show that gas is more useful than the electric light in promoting efficient ventilation of air. It is for this amongst other reasons, that gas is being frequently substituted for the electric light. The latest example is, perhaps, the Society of Medical Officers of Health, which has recently installed gas on its premises, after experience with the electric light.—Dr. Jamieson B. Hurry.

He would merely add that no member who had experience of their meeting room under the old conditions could deny the improvement that had taken place since gas had been substituted for the electric light and the new system of heating and ventilation had been installed.—Dr. Reginald Duffield, before the Society of Medical Officers of Health.

I have in my mind's eye, at the moment, a hall which, in the old days, was lighted by gas, and in which a large audience could, with comfort, sit through an hour's lecture, or with pleasure through a three hours' dinner, but which with the march of civilization, had its illumination changed from gas to electricity, the latter been employed with all the latest refinements to effect the lighting under the best conditions, with the result that any large gathering within its walls leads to a state little short of apoplexy.—Vivian B. Lewes, Professor of Chemistry at the Royal Naval College, Greenwich.—nov.6,ed

There is a pretty blouse called the riding blouse. It is of heavy white china silk, has a deep shoulder yoke, a line of gathers across the front and a line of large pearl buttons. The sleeves are long, with narrow turnover cuff. Under the turn-over collar is a mannish cravat run through, with a scarfpin. This is strictly a house blouse and for morning wear on the street.

ROYAL Baking Powder Absolutely Pure

There is a remarkable interest in Home Baking and Cooking throughout the land.

This is a most encouraging indication that the battle against impure, improper food is going to be won.

The credit for the victory will belong to the women of the country.

Home cooking has the backing of science and the approval of fashion. It adds to housekeeping a pride; to our food, healthfulness.

It is acknowledged by experts, and by the women who know, that the best cooking in the world to-day is with the aid of Royal Baking Powder.

Statues.

By GEORGE FITCH.

When a sculptor wishes to make a portrait of a man he seats the victim on a pedestal and asks him to look pleasant for six months while he models him in clay. When a good negative has been secured, the sculptor takes a two-ton block of marble and trims it down until it resembles the original—that is, until it resembles the sitter as he would look if he had fallen into a flour bin.

Carving a statue from marble is very difficult work. If the sculptor carelessly cuts off an ear while absorbed in thought, he cannot put it back. He has to throw away that block of marble and get another.

Very few sculptors can afford to do this because the marble comes from Italy and costs about as much as much as winter eggs. The great cost of marble has kept many a man out of the sculpture business.

When we walk through the capitol at Washington and gaze upon the statues in that noble but long-suffering building, we cannot help wishing that the price of marble might be much higher.

The ancient Greeks spent most of their time carving statues from marble, and from those which survived, we get the idea that about a yard of cheesecloth did the entire Greek nation for clothes. No one objects to the absence of coats and vests on the work of the old Greek sculptors, but when a modern sculptor reproduces George Washington, clad in a long flowing table cloth, or Abraham Lincoln, draped in a bed sheet, it is time to object. This sort of thing may compromise us with posterity.

Statues are very plentiful in Europe, especially in Rome, where a man can hardly spade up his spring garden without unearthing a 2,000-year-old goddess. A group of handsome and athletic marble statues is a fine thing with which to decorate a public square, and every man should strive to so live that when he dies a grateful city will hire a sculptor to carve him in marble, seated on a Roman chair with Antiquity and Posterity, both extremely good looking, twining their arms about him and Memory, clad in marble portieres, sitting in his lap.

"What a small bottle of Stafford's Essence of Ginger Wine can do." From the 10th of this month up to the 24th we sold 1,000 bottles of Essence of Ginger Wine.

This is an average of 66 bottles a day. One 10 cent bottle of this Essence of Ginger Wine makes 3 quarts. 3 quarts makes 120 ounces. A wineglassful holds 2 ounces.

Therefore you obtain 60 glasses of Ginger Wine from one little 10 cent bottle of the Essence, so that by our having sold 1,000 bottles we have provided 60,000 drinks for persons supposing that only one drink had been taken by every person. This is utterly "impossible" we mean (one drink for each person) because once a person having taken one drink noting in this world would prevent them from having 5 or 6 more.

The reason is simple. "They know a good drink when they taste it." The sales for Stafford's Essence of Ginger Wine has exceeded all other previous years, just the same as:—

"Stafford's Liniment," Stafford's Prescription "A" and Stafford's "Phorated Cough Cure" have done.—dec.26,11
