The Menace of Coakerism.

ARTICLE IX.

In my previous reviews of what Coakerism means to Newfoundland and the misfortunes that followed in the wake of this menace, I had that notwithstanding the many hostile criticisms of the Government press, I am still going strong and cannot refrain from continuing for the benefit of Telegram readers who are not aware of the autocrats misdeeds as well as to those who might have forgotten the many as recorded since he assumed the position of dictator.

The Union was to be an influence in the Colony for the public good, not seeking the benefit of its members only, but aiming to uplift the whole people; not desiring to grasp the reins of exclusive power, and the profits of place for itself, but to control for the general good, by benevolent influence the actions with corruptly receiving money from the Reid Company, while Colonial Secretary. You have read how Mr. Squires, in the Legislative Council, declared, at or about the same time, that "Coaker is untrustworthy, sets self-interest before the welfare of the country, is an offence to honest men and true—a stumbling block in the way of the success of patriotic effort, and an example of perjury, misdeeds and self-seeking politics." You have read, too how Mr. Coaker endeavored to have Mr. Squires dismissed from the Legislative Council, for misconduct in public office. And you know that Mr. Squires established his paper, the Star, to destroy Mr. Coaker as a public man. Those of you who are members of the F.P.U. are aware that, at the Catalina Convention in 1918, Mr. Coaker procured the adoption of resolution demanding a public enquiry into the alleged misconduct of Mr. Squires—an enquiry which has never been held.

In view of these things said by themselves about each other—and not one of them withdrawn to this moment—is it not an insult to your intelligence to ask you to support Mr. Coaker and his colleagues under the leadership of Mr. Squires? Is it not especially an insult to every intelligent voter.

"My dark Rosaleen"—that exquisite translation from the Gaelic—embodies the fervid rhythm and soulful cadences so expressive of the Celtic temperament. Matthew Arnold calls it "the reaction against the despotism of fact." Forget your worries and spend an Irish St. Patrick's night at the College Hall. Everybody is going.—mar15.21

The Author of the "Ingoldsby Legends."

In the parish register to Ashford, Kent, under the date of March 15, 1813, stands the first entry made by the Rev. R. H. Barham, a name now familiar to the English-speaking world as the author of inimitable "Ingoldsby Legends of North and Middlesex."

A Canterbury man by birth and ancestry, Barham had left the old cathedral city at an early age to be educated in London, and was only now returning to his native country. During the eight years he spent at Ashford, Westwell and Snargate, he laid the foundation of that wonderful series of humorous legends unequalled by any Anglo-Saxon author. When their publication was commenced in "Bentley's Miscellany" (then edited by Charles Dickens), under the title of "Family Legends," few suspected their author to be a clergyman of the Established Church. A competent genealogist, an accomplished antiquary, a polished man of letters, it would have seemed that the Rev. R. H. Barham might have edited ponderous tomes on history or theology than produce this.

He died in 1880 and was buried in his own church—St. Mary Magdalene, Old Fish Street Hill, London.

Strong Array of Screen Players.

IN LATEST CARTER DEHAVEN FILM.

An unusual array of well known screen players were engaged by Lloyd Ingraham to support Mr. and Mrs. Carter DeHaven in the First National attraction, "The Girl in the Taxi," a screen version of the famous musical comedy stage success of the same name, which is at the Nickel Theatre to-night. Out of the entire group of players at least two have appeared as stars in their own right.

King Baggott, screen hero of over 300 plays, is seen in the role of Major Frederick Smith. Grace Cunard, the well known heroine of countless serial productions, has the part of Marietta, the wife of a jealous policeman. Other members of the cast who have appeared to advantage in numerous picture plays include Otis Harlan, Tom McGuire, Margaret Campbell, Lincoln Plumer, Freya Sterling and John Gough.

"The Girl in the Taxi" was written by Stanislaus Strang and adapted for the screen by Robert McGowan.

Lady Allardye Inspects Girl Guides.

On Tuesday afternoon the Spencer College Guides had the pleasure of being inspected by Lady Allardye, Island Commissioner, accompanied by Miss V. H. Allardye and Captain Goodfellow. The Wolf Cubs formed a Guard of Honour and four companies of Guides, and thirty-five Brownies were drawn up in the Assembly Hall in charge of Capt. Nash. After the inspection Lady Allardye gave an inspiring address to them all and reminded the Wolf Cubs that they must do credit to their training when they joined the Scouts or the C.L.B. After congratulating the Guides warmly on their progress Lady Allardye quoted the words of an English statesman emphasizing the importance of Faith, Hope, Love and Work and explained that these words embodied the Guides promise. Captain Nash proposed a very hearty vote of thanks to Lady Allardye, and the Guides gave three cheers. After the singing of the National Anthem and the hoisting of the flag, the Companies were dismissed.

Newfoundlander in Movie Story.

Surrounded by Notable Screen Celebrities.

"The Sea Riders," which has been announced by the Majestic for screening next week, is produced by the Maritime Motion Picture Co., Ltd. at their studios in Sydney, Nova Scotia.

A number of scenes were shot on the Nfld. coast. One of the main reasons why this picture will be well patronised is because a large number of our people are stockholders in the Company, and naturally everybody will want to see how their money is being used.

The leading female role is portrayed by Miss Betty Bouton, a winsome little California beauty, who it will be remembered appeared opposite Douglas Fairbanks in "The Mud-die" and "When the Clouds Roll By," seen at this theatre some time ago.

The male lead is taken by Edward Phillips, who it will also be remembered played such an appealing role in "Just Around the Corner" a Cosmopolitan Special, which was also shown at the Majestic. The character role is in the capable hands of a Newfoundlander, Michael Brennan, who makes his initial appearance on the silver sheet, and that his own countrymen will give him a big ovation goes without saying. The story is said to be "Censor-Proof," having received the highest possible credentials from the various Boards of Censors of Canada and the United States.

An excellent way in which to utilize the last bit of chopped meat is to make a biscuit dough, spread it lightly with butter. Roll like a jelly roll and bake in a hot oven. Serve with tomato sauce.

Coming Events Cast Their Shadows Before!

There was a cartoon in Tuesday night's Mail which was very much to the point. It was entitled "There's an end to all things," and showed a shape, a la Squires, comfortably seated on a divan smoking one of his own dor de cabages. On the other end of the lounge was an ordinary human being, looking very sad and disconsolate and he is depicted as saying "Every year 'tis the same thing"—evidently having in mind the burden of facing nearly another twelve months of Coaker-Squires-Collishaw regime. It represented January and comprised scene 1.

Scene 2 was entitled February, and showed Squires leaning on and attempting to crush the poor electorate, at the same time remarking "This is the most comfortable place I know!" The little fellow retorts with "Every day in every way I'm getting madder and madder!"

The third scene is simply described M-A-R-C-H, and shows the little electorate follow ordering Squires off the premises much to the latter's surprise and disgust.

And this is just a happy augury of what will happen on polling day when the intelligent electors of this little island of ours will say to the present bunch of "Incapables" known as the Government:—"January-February-March-and March they will,

for the electorate of Newfoundland are determined to a man to vote for BENNETT & BETTER TIMES.

You've heard of the "road-de-luxe"—well, come and hear a recitation-de-luxe from St. John's premier reciter? Who is he? Wait and see! Don't forget to book early at the Royal Stationery for the Gaelic League Concert.
