YESTERDAY'S LATE MESSAGES

TANK SHIP BLOWS UP.
BATH, Maine, Sept. 19.
The motor tank ship Solitaire, has been blown up off the Florida Coast. A message from a member of the crew said all were saved but the radio operator.

GERMANS TO ATTEND INTERPARLIAMENTARY UNION.
BERLIN, Sept. 19.
Thirty members of the German Reichstag will take part in the 23rd Conference of the Interparliamentary Union. Most of them left Bremen today.

BRITISH DELEGATES LEAVE.
LONDON, Sept. 19.
The majority of the British delegates of the Interparliamentary Union in Ottawa and Washington left today for Southampton to embark on the liner Caronia. The delegation includes over thirty members.

BARRENTINE LONG OVERDUE.
SEATTLE, Sept. 19.
Advices received here to-day stated that the four-masted American barkentine, Phyllis, which left Seattle, July 1924, for England via Bellingham, Washington, Australia, with 25 persons aboard, had not arrived. She was last reported on June 19, leaving St. Helena.

SNOW AND EARTHQUAKE IN MONTANA.
HELENA, Mont., Sept. 20.
Snow and earthquakes were experienced here on Saturday. A short tremor was felt at 3:45 p.m., stopping clocks. The quake followed a snow storm when three inches fell here and heavy falls were reported elsewhere.

AGAIN VENTURES OVER THE FALLS.
NIAGARA FALLS, Sept. 20.
Bobby Leach, 66 years old, the only man ever to go over Niagara Falls in a barrel and live, will make a parachute leap from an airplane over the Falls on Sunday, October 11.

Hethpool Replaces Sable I.

ON BOSTON ROUTE.
The steamer Hethpool, purchased in England by Ferguson and Company, Limited, for their Halifax-St. John's-Boston service to replace the steamer Sable I, which is to open a new service to be inaugurated by the company on September 24, between Halifax, Charlottetown, North Sydney, and the west coast of Newfoundland, arrived in port last night after a record run of ten days from Newcastle-on-Tyne.

The steamer was purchased from the Tyne-Tess Shipping Company, of Newcastle, England, and has been thoroughly reconditioned, and has been newly furnished throughout. The steamer has good accommodations for 100 first and 70 second-class passengers, and has a speed of fourteen knots. Her length is 269 feet over all, and she has a cargo capacity of 76,000 cubic feet. The Hethpool is a good looking craft, and her interior finishings are especially pleasing. The steamer will be open for public inspection on Thursday.

The Hethpool was brought to Halifax by Captain Hackland, and Captain Murley, now of the Sable I, will have charge of her on the Boston service. She will leave Halifax on Saturday of this week for Boston.

On September 24 the Sable I will open the new service from Halifax to Charlottetown, North Sydney and west coast of Newfoundland, while the steamer Skipper will continue on the service between Halifax, North Sydney, St. Pierre and the south coast of Newfoundland, her next sailing from Halifax being on September 30. The sailing of the three steamers will be every fourteen days from Halifax.—Morning Chronicle, Sept. 16.

A Sidelight on History

An interesting piece of secret history, which explains how the German naval signal codes came into the hands of the British Admiralty, has just been revealed.

When the German cruiser Magdeburg struck a mine near the island of Odenholm, off the Estonian coast, the crew abandoned the ship and surrendered. But it was noticed by some Russians that one of the German officers jumped overboard.

This was noticed the Russians' curiosity, the spot was noted, and a diver was sent down. He recovered the body of the officer, and it was then found that the latter had secured to his person a number of secret German naval codes.

A copy of these codes was supplied to the British Admiralty, but the Germans, unaware that they had fallen into hostile hands, continued to use them. It is stated that the possession of these German codes was of considerable value to the British Fleet during the battle of July 4.

Sleeping Pacific

Volcanoes May Wake Again

Tacoma, Wash., Sept. 1.—(Associated Press)—Ice-crowned volcanic cones along the Pacific Coast generally are presumed to be dead. Scientists, however, agree that they are not merely burned-out shells, but it is entirely possible that one or more of them might erupt at any time.

Mount Ranier and Mount Baker in Washington, Mount Hood in Oregon and Mount Shasta and Lassen-Peak in California are individuals in a great series of volcanoes that extends in a circle for 10,000 miles or more around the North Pacific ocean in both North America and Asia. There was a time, in the opinion of the scientists, when these peaks were in violent eruption at the same time, so that a chain of fire bounds the Pacific Coast, for the five peaks are so close together that any one in eruption could be observed from its nearest neighbors.

Since 1914 Lassen has been in frequent eruption and it is regarded as scientifically established that not one of the volcanoes can be called dead. All except Lassen have been quiet for several thousand years, in the opinion of expert reckoning.

During the past century there have been several minor eruptions from Mount Ranier, the mightiest of the five volcanoes. It has been hundreds of years since the great peak blew off a half mile of its top and scattered volcanic ash over large areas of water now in Washington.

Frequent Tremors.

Almost every year faint earthquakes are recorded on Ranier, and steam still issues from the crater, which is half a mile across. This steam is so intense that great caverns have been melted in the snow that fills the crater.

These caves, sheltered from the winds and warmed by the escaping steam, have often proved of advantage to persons scaling the peak. Stephens and Van Thump, the first white men to conquer Mount Ranier, more than half a century ago, undoubtedly owed their lives to these steam caves. It would have been impossible for them to have retraced their steps in the darkness, and they could not have lived through a night on the summit without blankets or other protection.

"So This is London" To-Night

"So This is London" proved to be an enormous success in the Hudson Theatre for more than a year, and in the Prince of Wales Theatre in London for over a year because it appeals to everyone's sense of humor. The three scenes of the play are all laid in London at the Ritz, Sir Percy Beauchamp's living room and Lady Duckworth's drawing room. British stolidity and conversation are contrasted with American vivacity, enterprise and slang. At the end there is a union of the second generation of the two leading characters, and the combinations of their parents for the future of the wholesale shoe business. "So This is London" is rich and abundant in whimsical humor and charm that makes genuine and hearty contentment. It is a comedy designed to make the two great English-speaking countries understand each other better for having had a good laugh at each others expense. "So This is London" will be the bill for the first half of the week, Thursday, Friday and Saturday "Wild Oats Lane," a dramatization of "The Gambling Chaplain," Matinees Wednesday and Saturday. Seats now on sale at F. V. Chesman's, Water Street.

if it had not been for the timely discovery of the warm caverns. The steam on top of Mount Ranier is so hot that it will transform a pan of snow to boiling water in ten minutes. Eggs can be cooked if placed in the hot pumice of the crater.

'Judgment of the Storm'

FAMOUS STORY WHICH WAS PUBLISHED IN THIRTY MAGAZINES AT THE MAJESTIC.

We do not pretend to be able to describe "Judgment of the Storm," and there is no other photoplay to which it can be compared. We can only tell you that it is one of the most gripping and thrilling films ever presented in this city and that you should see it while it is at the Majestic Theatre.

The best snow storm scenes since "Way Down East" are pictured here and if you think you have viewed bitzards, well, "you ain't seen nothin' yet!" Heart interest has been built into this feature from beginning to end. The action flows smoothly at all times, and there are some scenes that will hold you in a vice-like grip, for instance the situation in which the boy meeting his mother for the first time in three years, believing her to have been abandoned, finds her really to be the owner of a gambling den in which there has just occurred a murder and a suicide.

There are any number of similar big scenes. As for the cast it is a wonderful one. Lloyd Hughes is an ideal selection for the role of John Trevor and gives a fine characterization. Myrtle Steadman is most appealing as John's mother, Lucille Rickson, the little girl of yesterday, is now a real looking lady and will win admirers through her work in this picture. George Hackathorne and Claire MacDowell also contribute effective roles.

THEME.—A gripping drama dealing with mother love and how a son is put to the acid test when he discovers that his mother is a gambler and responsible for the death of his sweetheart's brother. How he offers himself in place of the man who is killed in his mother's gambling den and proves his real worth when he risks his life. Don't miss it.

L.S.P.U. Committee

HOLD SUCCESSFUL DINNER.

Upwards of sixty covers were laid at Donovan's public hostelry on Saturday night when the Committee who had charge of the Longshoremen's Labour Day Celebration were given a dinner.

The speeches of the proposers and responders to the various toasts were well reasoned and practical, and showed that in future Labour intends to use its strength for the purpose of bringing about better housing conditions in the city, the lowering of taxation on the necessities of life, and the enforcing of the City's right to its share of general and special road grants. Some of the speakers urged that necessities not luxuries were what the people want; better homes were more essential than motor roads. During the night, songs and recitations were rendered by the members. The following is the toast list:

The King—Prop, the Chair. God Save the King.

Our Country—Prop, James Holden; resp. Raymond Jardine.

L.S.P.U. Labour Day Excursion Committee—Prop, Thos. White; resp., J. Cook.

Our Guests—Prop, Edward Spry; resp. Hon. M. P. Gibbs.
