In the Dining-Room.

SATURDAY, Oct. 2.

BREAKFAST.—Nagara grapes. Tilson's Pan-Dried Oats and cream. Broiled calves' liver. Baked potatoes. Apple Johnny cake. Scrambled eggs.

LUNCHEON.—Minced cream clams. Hot buttered soda crackers. Peaches with sugar and cream. Cornstarch cake.

DINNER.—Green-corn soup. Roast lamb—mint sauce. Potatoes à la neige. Eggplant. Creamed carrots. Cream pie. Coffee.

Cut out these recipes and paste them in a scrap-book.

Minced Cream Clams.—Cook over water two tablespoons of flour, with two of butter; when they bubble add slowly 25 hard clams, chopped fine, and one-half cup of clam juice, a dash of red pepper; simmer for ten or fifteen minutes; then add one gill of cream; boil up and serve.

Hot Buttered Crackers.—Spread square soda crackers with butter, place in a pan and put in a brisk oven until brown. Serve with the clams.

Cornstarch Cake.—Whites of three eggs, one cup of sugar, one-half cup of butter, one-half cup of sweet milk, one cup of cornstarch, one cup of flour, two teaspoons of baking powder; flavor with almond.

Green-Corn Soup.—Scrape enough green-corn pulp to make one pint. Boil the corn 20 minutes in water enough to cover them; there should be a pint when strained. Put it on to heat, and when boiling add the corn pulp and cook fifteen minutes; add one teaspoonful of butter, one tablespoonful of salt, one-half tablespoonful of pepper, and one pint of rich milk or cream. Boil five minutes and serve at once.

THE POSTOFFICE PEN.

There's an office-vulgar invention That occasions much discussion While playing its important part in busy haunts of men; And you surely must have tried it Grumbled at and vilified it 'Tis the really quite exasperating post-office pen.

It is easily ink-corroded, And with dust and dirt is loaded. But at times 'twill write quite smoothly for half a minute; then It will take a sudden notion To indulge in an explosion And scatter ink about it, will the post-office pen.

Scores of men have wildly jabbed it In the bottle, then have stabbed it Through the blotter and have let it fall point down, time and again; Ladies angry words have spoken Just because they found it broken, When they wished to do some writing with the postoffice pen.

Worth $10 a Bottle.

Auspicious Liberal Celebration Last Night.

Crowded Gathering at the Opening of No. 6 Ward Club Rooms.

The club rooms of No. 6 Ward Liberal Club were formally opened for the season last night by a reception, tendered to the many friends of the club. The place was crowded to the doors, and all present enjoyed themselves immensely. Col. F. B. Leys presided, and after a few well chosen remarks, expressive of the pleasure he felt at being president of such a fine organization, he called on Mr. John Macpherson, the vice-president, who delivered an address of welcome on behalf of the Liberals of South London. Mr. Macpherson outlined the principles of the club, and the purposes for which it was formed. He wished the club prosperity because its purpose was not to raise animosity, but to promote progress and kindly feeling. The organization had exercised a goodly influence in the past, and notwithstanding the adverse criticisms of the opponents of Liberalism, who had dubbed it "Tammany Hall," it had prospered and grown, like any other good thing. Mr. Macpherson complimented the club upon their handsome rooms (which were profusely decorated with flags), and took his seat amid applause.

Dr. C. I. Campbell, who was warmly received, congratulated the club upon their fine quarters. It was a matter for congratulation that a Liberal government was in power. Through the Liberals and their instrumentality, Canada had become the brightest gem in the British crown, on which the eyes of the world were fixed with envy. The Liberals had inaugurated in this country an era of prosperity hitherto unknown in the annals of the history of the Dominion. Premier Laurier, the magnetic Liberal leader, when in Britain had been sought by all the great men of the day, because they knew he was a Canadian, and leader of the great party that had labored long under difficulties, yet had done so much for the country, and which was destined to bind the mother country closer, and hold Canada up to be envied by the world.

Mr. A. Campbell, Lobo, better known by the Lobo Liberator, as "Lord Campbell," congratulated the club on their beautiful rooms. He wished the club every success, but assured them that success in anything was only attained by persistent effort. He was glad to see their candidate elected by a large majority at the last provincial election, and hoped they would do good work in the coming fight.

Mr. Duncan Graham, Lobo, followed in a neat speech, expressing the pleasure he felt. He spoke encouragingly of the work of the club, and hoped it would prosper and grow in its righteous political influence. Aid. Parnell was received with much applause. He complimented the club, and said that if it were not for that organization the results in that ward would be very doubtful. About four years ago, enthusiastic Conservatives had told him that No. 6 ward would be a Conservative ward in two years. That was a great mistake, for it was getting further away from it every day. The work of the club had been such that they could place any particular man for election in the ward at any particular time, and elect him by a large majority. For himself, he had been well treated by his fellow-citizens. He had never gone to the people of the ward for election, with the exception of once, when he had not been returned by a handsome majority. It is no wonder this organization succeeds when it had so many influential members as he saw before him. In conclusion, Aid. Parnell said that he believed the city, as well as the province, had good government. During the past three years London had experienced rapid strides of progress, both commercially and municipally, such as it had never before enjoyed.

Other speakers were Ald. Rumball, Ald. Bennett, Ald. Gerry, Ald. Sievely, and Mr. Alf Wilkins. During the evening, H. Rathven McDonald rendered a solo and recitation. Aid. Parnell also recited. Both were enthusiastically applauded.

Refreshments were served about 10:30, after which the gathering dispersed by singing the National Anthem.

Among those present were: H. C. McBride, J. J. Spettigue, Peter Mackenzie, U. A. Buchner, J. Harvey, W. J. Harvey, J. Griffin, Gilmore, Arch. McNeil, John McPherson, J. T. Westland, W. H. Weston, David Patrick, Robert North, Thos. Krott, James McCormick, Gilean McLean, James Lear (Westminster), John Wood, John Wilkins, W. J. Thompson, Adam Sutherland, Wm. Kennedy, Charles Hartford, Thomas Geary, W. Wilkes, G. T. Mitchell, E. J. Southcott, James Walsh (Dundalk), J. Grigs, A. Scott, Fred Parnell, Fred Benton, R. Munroe, G. T. Treblelock, Thos. W. Watson, Isaac Wildern, George Fawcett, Frank Robinson, James Shaw, Ezra Newans, Geo. B. Deacon, Dan. McLeod, Dan. McNamara, James Welch, W. L. Tanner, H. Werner, Osman Sherlock, C. O'Gorman, Thomas Breinton, Wm. Hunter, W. A. Westcott, Wm. Martin, J. W. Jones, Albert Baker, E. D. Parke (secretary), R. Southcott, C. H. Fawcett, Harry E. Thomsen, Wm. A. Westland and many others.

Labors on the New Sewers Object to Waiting.

Some of the Contractors It Is Said Fail to Keep Their Agreement.

A meeting of the special sewer committee was held last night with the members of the board of works and Dr. C. I. Campbell present.

Messrs. Frank Plant and J. Donnelly, delegates from the Trades and Labor Council, addressed the committee in the interest of the laborers on the new sewer construction. Mr. Plant called attention to the reported violation on the part of some of the sewer contractors of their agreement with the city. He understood that the local contractors paid their men weekly, but that the others did not. It was one of the bylaws of the bricklayers' union, and they demanded that it be carried out. The laborers, however, wished to avoid any trouble, although many of them could hardly live two weeks without wages, and the speaker requested the committee to endeavor to have the matter amicably settled between the contractors and the men. Mr. Plant also said a violation was being made by Oakley & Holmes, in the employment of outside labor, and by Contractor Grant, in not supplying the men with tools.

Mr. Donnelly endorsed Mr. Plant's statement. The engineer said the men working for Oakley & Holmes were all local but one, who was going to move here. No complaints had been reached him about either foreign labor or failure to supply tools, and the agreement made no provision for the weekly payment of wages. However, he will look into the matter and report.

Messrs. Beckett & Wade wrote stating that they wished to start work at once on both of sections "G" and "H" of the new sewers, taking advantage of the fine weather. This would necessitate the appointment of another inspector.

Ald. O'Meara raised the objection that unless the time specified for the completion of the work was shortened it rapidly might have to pay the salaries of two inspectors for the full. Mr. Beckett then agreed to finish the work

As long in advance of the expiration of the seven months allowed him. By working on the two sections at the same time, Mr. Beckett expects the whole work will be finished by Christmas. The request was granted. The council was recommended to allow a change in the title specified for "G" and "H," which calls for three-inch sockets, so that American tile, which is claimed to be superior to the Canadian, but having only two and a half inch sockets, may be used. A lengthy report by the engineer on the use of concrete tile was laid over until tonight.

A HEN STORY.
A most wonderful phenomenon has recently occurred at Boston, Lincolnshire, England. A poultry-keeper placed a hen on fifteen double-yolked eggs and 23 chickens were the result.
