No, I shouldn't have said wartime letters, for some of them are lovely, and so cheerful. "Aunt Nannie's" are a good example, but nearly all the letters lately are awfully scratchy, don't you think? Now poor "Musical" wrote a letter on how she managed, and got an awful roasting for it that I didn't think she deserved, and "Lonely Mother" got another from "Genuine Canuck," that must have cheered her up a lot. I suppose she thinks as much of her boy as those who gave an only son. Now come on Cynthians and let's be our old cheerful "Tommies." Who'll be glad with KANDY KID?
