Prize Winners As Far As Judged Last Night-Good Attendance.

but one mastiff and one St. Bernard in the show, but both are good specimens. For some reason the St. Bernards, which m former years were well represented, seem to have dropped from favor, or those owning them are not showing. There are more Great Danes, among them being a beauty, Major, owned by Mrs. Robin Dunsmuir. Major, although little more than a year old, is a splendid-looking animal. There are but two greyhounds, and the same number of Chesapeake Bays, while the best pointers are from across the line. The English setter men, though, if they cannot be satisfied they must be hard to please. There are 40 of these dogs benched, and a fine lot they are, coming from every city of the Coast, some of them valued at thousands of collars. But with all the competition the Victoria dogs took the majority of the prizes, this city now having some of the best dogs of this breed on the continent. Among the visitors are Doc Hick, the great field trial dogs, owned by John Considine of Seattle, valued at $5,000, and B. M. Palmer's Rodfield Lad. The former is only on exhibition, but Mr. Considine has two entries for the field trial. Some disappointment was expressed at the decision of Charles Minor not to enter Roy, Gladys and Zola Montez in the show, as 'competition with the former would have given the owners an idea of the standing of their dors among the American cracks with which he has competed. Two of Zola Montez's upper were winners in the puppy bitches class.

One of the most attractive classes is the bull dog, all the entries in which are from Seattle and Portland, including the famous champion Ivan Rustic, owned by L. A. Klein, of San Francisco, and the winner of over 400 prizes in England and America. Waiting to See If Powers Raise Further Objections. Waiting to See If Powers Raise Further Objections.

Pekin, April 3.—The signing of the Russo-Chinese Manchurian contract only awaits the receipt of the information is to whether objection to it will be raised by other powers. The treaty has been modified. As previously stated the evacuation of the Manchurian provinces by Russia is to be carried out in three successive periods of six months from the signing of the contract. Various vague conditions such as: "If the state of the country permits," are excluded from the contract, and it is stipulated that the contract be ratified within three months from the day it is signed. China is permitted to maintain whatever force she thinks necessary in Manchuria after the evacuation of that territody. In addition to the preceding covenants Russia agrees if Tien Tsin is restored to the Chinese within the first six months to exacuate Niu-Chwang at the time of this restoration. China agrees that no portion of the Niu-Chwang, Shan Kwang railway be allowed to fall into the hands of other powers after Russia restores the road to China. China agrees to also reimburse Russia in the amount spent in completing the railway, and in policing the line during the Russian occupation.

HAVILA ARRIVES A Flurry in Reinsurance on the Overdue Red Rock.

Red Rock.

The bark Havila, which left on October 17 with 61,369 cases of salmon, arrived at Liverpool on Tuesday. She is the third vessel of the fleet to reach port. Many enquiries were received yesterday by Robert Ward & Co., regarding the overdue salmon ship Red Rock, which left here on November 24 with 80,000 cases of salmon for England. Telegrams were received from Seattle and San Francisco, asking if reinsurance could be placed on the vessel, the rate on which is now quoted at 15 per cent. The fact that the Red Rock left shortly before the big storm in which the Condor and Matteawan were lost, and that one of her buoys and some cases of salmon, with marks similar to shipments made on her have been found, has caused much worry for the vessel. She is a large ship, and a slow sailer. On a former voyage from New Caledonia to Liverpool she was so long overdue that she was posted as missing, but she arrived safely.

The show opened yesterday morning, and for several hours the officials were busy placing the exhibits, but before noon order had been brought out of chaos, and the quieter dogs were making themselves at home in their new kennels, while the noisy ones, chiefly the terriers, were making their presence known by their barking. From Toronto Star. In a letter to relatives in Orillia, written on the veldt twelve miles north of Ermelo, Lieut. Douglas Christie tells of Ermelo, Lieut. Douglas Christie tells of an exciting experience, which he had while taking part in an attack on a Boer laager in January. He says:
"You will have seen in the papers what good work the columns under Bruce Hamilton did lately. Every capture meent a long night march. For the last two months we have averaged two or these intermediate week. two or three night marches a week.

"The last march I was very unlucky.
Just at daybreak, when we started to gallop, my pony put its foot in a hole, and I came an awful cropper; knocked me silly for a few moments. I broke and I came an awful cropper; knocked me silly for a few moments. I broke my water-bottle and lost my pipe and pouch. By the time I got going again I had lost the rest of the regiment, and so went off on my own hook with some 8th Mounted Infantry. I saw a Boer making off with a pack pony, so I made full sail at him, and he left the pony, which I collared as my spoil. I then spotted another pony, thinking it was a better one, dismounted, tied it to my own horse, and changed the pack saddle (with two big packs in it) from the first to the second coptured pony.

"I had just fixed things when the Boers began to snipe. I was by myself, by now. This frightened the pon'es, and off they went as hard as they could go. There was I left, all by myself, on foot. But I managed to get back all right, though minus my own horse, as well as the two ponies and the packs."

When he told Mr. McPhillips in the theatre that he would resign if the contract contained a clause making the construction of the line contingent upon a Dominion subsidy, there was not such clause in the contract. In the amendar contract there was such a provision and properly so, he believed, for if the company bound themselves to the province to build the railway without such a clause in the contract, the Dominion would naturally decline to consider their application for a subsidy.
