

H. & F.

Christmas Cards & Booklets

SEASON 1889.

READ AND BE CONVINCED.

That HILDESHEIMER & FAULKNER'S (of London, Eng.) Publications are the finest of their class in the world, and that they were justly entitled to the GOLD MEDAL awarded them. Such is the opinion of the entire English Press, therefore we strongly advise dealers not to order any Booklets or Christmas and New Year Cards until they have seen our finished Samples of these Publications. We have decided not to show unfinished samples this year.

Extracts from Opinions of the English Press upon Hildesheimer & Faulkner's Christmas Cards and Booklets.

"The firm have year after year maintained their position at the head of this branch of fine art publication in the face of keen and able competition; but this season they have fairly surpassed all previous efforts. Novelty, originality and marvellous artistic excellence are the leading features of the collection." [Glasgow Weekly Mail.

"Daintily artistic. Messrs. Hildesheimer & Faulkner have never turned out a better assortment of Christmas publications." [Liverpool Mercury.

"Charming, original and tasteful designs." [Punch.

"We marvel at the remarkable originality of thought, and fertility of resource in artistic design, which are so strongly in evidence in the productions of this firm." [Torquay Times.

"The designs and general workmanship are exquisite, the colouring lovely and the words so charming that we must congratulate them upon the evident success their efforts have obtained in securing such a magnificent assortment of novelties." [Cambridgeshire Express.

"Messrs. Hildesheimer & Faulkner may well be congratulated upon the wealth of pictorial art, literary taste and brilliant invention, they have managed to crowd into the argosy in which they launch forth their wares for the coming festive season." [Liverpool Daily Post.

"Anything more beautiful it would be difficult to imagine." Manchester Examiner and Times.

"Lavishly illustrated, sometimes in color, sometimes in monochrome, but in all cases with high artistic taste and skill." [Glasgow Herald.

"Remarkable for their variety and beauty." Newcastle Daily Chronicle.
