

First Expedition, 261-275 ; Expedition, 276-317; Third Expedition, 318-321. Ross' Second Expedition, 322-363. Present position of the question regarding a Northwest Passage, 364. Return of the Expedition Back, 365.

W.

Worme, the, 83. Encounter, 299, 374.
Whale, the island of, 142.
Whale Channel, 267, 364.
Whale, George, voyage by, in search of a North-west Passage, conspiracy of the crew, 223.
Whale, a great, description of, 225.
Whale, the, description of, 74-80.
Whale, the, of, 80. His immense size, 435.
Whale, the, objects of, 411.
Whale, practised on the coasts of Greenland, 412. Spitzbergen long Island, the, of the fishery, 413. First voyages to the Arctic Sea, disputes between the different nations, 414. Dutch fishery, British fishery, 417; encouraged by government, ib.; boundaries, and ultimate success of, 423. Mode of conducting the fishery, 423; equipment, ib.; voyages, 424; attack and capture of whales, 426; operation of flensing, 427. Dangers of the whale-fishery, 429. Shipwrecks and accidents, 430-439. Recent changes in the fishery, 439. Insurrections, 440. Capital invested in the trade, 442; its profits, 444. Ports whence it is carried, 446. Disasters and shipwrecks, of 1830, 448-454; adventures of the shipwrecked crews on the ice, 455; extrication of the wrecked vessels, 457; loss sustained, 458. Tables and summary of the British fishery, 1830-1834, abstract of the whale-fishery from 1815 to 1834, 461. Recent state of the fishery of 1835, 462.
Whale, the, by, Sir Hugh, voyage of, in search of a North-east Passage, 130. Its disastrous issue, 130.

Z.

Zenobia, and Quirini, expeditions of, 117.

Edinburgh.