M'CORMACK GAVE SEVEN ENCORES

His Second Concert Was More Successful Than the First.

John McCormack gave his second concert in Massey Hall last night to an audience which outnumbered that of the previous evening and out-did it in enthusiasm. As a result seven encore numbers rewarded the applauders, one more than the night before. Mr. McCormack stated afterwards that he would have sung "The Coulin" had he been able to obtain a copy in the city, but that no music store to which he had applied had it in stock. The group of Irish songs which he did sing served to demonstrate once more that behind him dwells, and thru him seeks expression, such a distinctively Irish genius as might have assisted in the nascent days of the race in moulding the national character thru musical agencies. It is not that Mr. McCormack is merely an Irish balladist. The extraordinary beauty of the rendering of Liza Lehmann's "Ah, Moon of My Delight," with the artistic distinction given to the recitative. the throb of warning in the phrase or bitter fruit." illustrating this, or the more popularly effective and **ato-love emotion, the fire of a heart in extraory. "Ah, moon of my night that knows no wane." No singer of any mange of voice, male or female, can excel such artistry. But when he turns to the Irish lyrical composition. It is said that he learned yesterday the communicates to the reveleding that the communicates to the rendering that an additional charge of burglarizabetial chrism and grace that is poured that an additional charge of burglarizabetial chrism and grace that is poured to the for Ireland alone. This is not to say that Irish art excels other art, but that McCormack in his Irish art excels other performers in their art because they do not embody the musical genius of their own race, and if they did the message would go wide on align ears. message would go wide on alien ears.
But McCormack's genius gives him a juniversal sympathy, a gift to be consecrated, and he was able thus to swaken the singing silences in hearkenform sould when he voiced the infinite ing souls when he voiced the infinite rearning of the song—"Will you come homeward from the hills of dream-land, Home in the dark and turning might to day?" In the melting simplicity of "In Fanaid's Grove" he gave perfect expression to Irish art in its most sacred pity, the pity of the irretrievable. These things are beyond applause and beyond words. He sang in five languages last night, but his reatest singing is in the universal anguage of humanity.

GUELPH, April 18 .- (Special) -The GUELPH, April 18.—(Special)—The Frazzari murder case went to the jury at 2.22 this afternoon, after addresses by counsel and an impartial summing up by Judge Meredith. It only took the jury a short time to decide that Giuseppe Pototelli was not guilty. The jury filed to their seats at 3.17 p.m., not quite an hour from the time they went out. John Carroll expresses they went out. John Carroll, ex-reeve of Erin, had been chosen foreman. A few minutes later the judge took his seat on the bench, after which the jury was polled by the registrar and all answered to their names.
"Gentlemen, have you agreed on your verdict? Do you find the prisoner at the bar guilty or not guilty?" he asked. "Not guilty," replied the foreman.

The jury was immediately discharged by the judge, who thanked them for being so patient during the trial. The prisoner was released from the dock and had passed outside, but was called back to be officially discharged by the judge.

Every Man Who Has Ever Smoked a ... MARLBOROUGH

Cigar has sure enough enlisted as a regular in the MARLBOROUGH army. It makes no difference what pet brand you've had the habit of smoking, MARLBOROUGH puts the Indian sign on them all. Nothing but plant-ripened clear Havana tobacco, that is laid up to mature and mellow in the natural old-fashioned Cuban way, goes into a MARLBOROUGH cigar. Just let that simmer into your cranium. It's your cue. Get one of these wonderfully good smokes. Make fire, and you've certainly got yours. MARL-BOROUGH tells its own story in simple words: "It's the goods." Now, think how downright delicious it must be to see men who have smoked a pet brand for years and years going to it, and bringing into line men who have been in the habit of paying as high as two-for-a-quarter for their smokes. They couldn't find a kick. It's the favorite everywhere, in the offices and the homes, in the clubs and on the streets. My, how men go to it night and day because it's so sweet, fresh and fragrant! It's ace high with me, with you, and with every other man who knows the pleasure and joy of a really good cigar.

MARLBOROUGH answers every hankering because it gives a luscious, full, rich flavor and a natural tropic taste. MARLBOROUGH cigar, 5c each, box of 50 $2.50, per 100 $5.00.

Here's Your Kind of a Pipe

The good, old-fashioned, straight, flat-shape pipe. Length of briar, six inches, and one-inch genuine amber mouthpiece. Full length over all, seven inches. Some cool smoke, eh? These pipes were made by the largest makers of high-grade briars in the world. These are what they dub "drops." We call them "seconds." Every pipe has some slight imperfection, or maybe are off color amber, but nothing that will impair their sweet smoking qualities in the least. They are of exactly the same quality as dealers get one dollar and fifty cents each for every day, and so far as satisfaction is concerned are equally as good. We have purchased all the makers have accumulated during the year at exactly one-quarter their regular price; and pass them on to you at a
