prophecy of a Russian professor. The students regard the Japanese as unexpected allies in their fight against tyranny. A student in prison emptied an oil lamp over his body and set fire to it only in order to protest against absolutism.

There is a revolt from the Church as well as from the State. In 1860 there were thirty millions of often fanatical Nonconformists. Three chapters are devoted to a visit to Tolstoi, who said: "Everything is done to suppress religion. Our upper classes have completely lost religious consciousness." He, too, thought the only hope of the nation was defeat by the Japanese. The revelations of this book seem almost incredible, but several of the chapters have been published in the Berlin Nation and the Frankfort Zeitung, and they cast a lurid light upon the Russian problem of to-day.

"Only Letters." By Francis I. Maule. Philadelphia : Geo. W. Jacobs & Co. Toronto : William Briggs. Pp. 325. Price, $1.10, post free.

These are among the most vivacious letters of travel we have ever read. They have all the fun of Mark Twain without his exaggeration, and give a vivid picture of unfamiliar scenes. Mark is all right, if you can only tell the fact Here it is all fact from the fiction. and no fiction, but brimful of sparkling Of special interest at this junchumor. ture will be the graphic letters from Finland, St. Petersburg, and Moscow, which fill many pages, and give a vivid presentation of out-of-the-way places. We can bear witness to the photographic fidelity of the pictures of Egypt, and the Levant, and the classic memories of the Italian Peninsula. There is about them nothing stilted or pedantic, just the familiar letters home, full of fun and frolic, of a home-loving tourist abroad.

"The Right Life and How to Live It." By Henry A. Stimson. New York: A. S. Barnes & Co. Toronto: William Briggs. Pp. xvii-255. Price, $1.20 net.

We read much of the strenuous life, the simple life, the beautiful life, but most important of all is the right life, on which all the others are based. Conduct and character are all there really is of life. The author of this book writes in a breezy, vigorous way on the facts of life, the individual. the family, the nation, the universe, of its laws, progress, habit, and character, of its moral equipment, duty, intellectual powers, the feelings, the domain of conscience, moral obligation, individual, social, and religious, and, finally, the rules of the game, the care of the body, of the true self, of sport. of the home, the state. This book is one which we have pleasure in strongly commending.

"John Knox." By A. Taylor Innes. Edinburgh : Oliphant, Anderson & Ferrier. Toronto : William Briggs. Pp. 158. Price, 35c.

The four-hundredeth anniversary of the birth of John Knox makes specially timely this study of the life of the great Reformer. The more we read of his character and achievements the more we are convinced of the truth of Froude's assertion that he was the greatest man of his age, and the greatest man that Scotland ever produced. The only thing cheap about this book is its price.

"The Changeless Christ, and Other Sermons." By Rev. Robert Forbes, D.D. Cincinnati : Jennings & Graham. Toronto : William Briggs. Pp. 116.

The Western Book Concern is doing a good thing by this series of Methodist Pulpit sermons. Sermonic literature was once a drug on the market, and much of it deserved to be, but preaching adapted to the needs of humanity will always find hearers and readers. These chapters distil the very dew of Hermon. They are instinct with evangelistic feeling and power. They are not only interesting reading, but get a grip upon 'he heart and conscience.

- "The World as Intention." A Contribution to Teleology. By L. P. Gratacap. New York : Eaton & Mains. Toronto : William Briggs. Pp. ix-346. Price, $1.25 net. Reserved for further notice.
- "Introduction to the Study of Christian Ethics." By A. Ernest Balch, M.A. London : Chas. Kelly. Toronto : William Briggs.
 - Reserved for further notice.
- "The Eternal Saviour-Judge." By James Langton Clarke, M.A. New York : E. P. Dutton & Co. 353 pages. Price, $3.00 net.
 - Reserved for further notice.