Dear Cynthia Grey.—My, isn't this nice, cold, wintry weather we are having these days? It is almost enough to make us stay indoors and toast our toes over the register if we happen to be fortunate enough to have any heat in our register.

Some time ago I saw in your Page some hints for polishing or staining floors. I cut them out, but they have been mislaid somewhere. I hope you still have them on hand, so that you can print them again. I have some bedroom floors which have never been painted that I want to fix up this spring, so that they will do with a few small rugs on them. Do you think floor stain stands the wear very well? Perhaps if you have nothing on hand some of the readers might help out, please. Just one thing more: In replying to necessary for the groom to say? Just one thing more: In replying to necessary for the groom to say? Just a few hints, please. Wishing you and the readers all good things for 1918, I will close by signing my name.

Ans.—Are you sure you saw the article on this Page. "Sur?" I've looked vain, However, these ideas may be used to them, I shall be very glad to print, ful, and if any reader desires to add the information.

2. He may thank all sincerely for the kind wishes expressed, speaking on behalf of himself and the bride. May further, on behalf of both, extend the cordial home of welcoming those present in the new home. For himself, he may pay tribute to his bride, stating that with such a "life partner" he is sure they will be enabled to overcome obstacles and win life's battles together, with many happy hours by the way. Usually the less "flowery" such replies are, the more sincere they sound, and hence more desirable. "Inquirer" to "Interested." Dear Miss Grey .- I am sending the nclosed letter for "Interested," who left inclosed letter for "Interested," who left her address for you to forward it. I wrote the author of the article and sent it to the magazine in which the article appeared. Then I wrote the "School of Massage" and had this reply Friday. I was quite disappointed, as the article lead me to believe that the demand for graduates could not be met. I hope "Interested" is not disappointed also.

Ans.—I have "Interested's" address and the inclosures you send are mailed to her. Sorry your hopes re going overseas are not realized in the way.

For "M. A.'s" Bunions. Dear Miss Grey,-Well, I don't know now to start. Before I said those first three words I had so much to talk about. This is my first letter to you and if I don't get busy and say something I'm afraid it will be my last.

In opening up the paper I first look for the "district casualties," then the woman's page.

Miss Grey, if "Mary Ann" will get five cents' worth of salicylic acid and mix part of it with a little fresh lard and bind it on her bunions as often as she can, she will soon get rid of the soreness and swelling. This is also good for corns, and if used often the corns lift right out. Wood alcohol is good for frost bites or chilblains; just rub it on the acected parts.

I have a nephew now somewhere in England. I am sending him a box and letter. This will be my first to him, as I had to write to Ottawa to get his address. I forgot his exact age, but it is not more than if or 18. If only his poor mother was alive. I will send you his address and if any of the kindhearted readers would care to write him I am sure he would be glad, for I know his letters and boxes are very few. I will sign "SORROW."

Ans.—"Mary Ann" and doubtless other bunion sufferers as well, will welcome "Sorrow's" remedy. I have the address of the overseas nephew handy for the first inquirer.

Dear Miss Grey,-1. Is it harmful for 'person to pinch out blackheads? 2. What day did October 2, 1840, come on? Also April 23, 1840;
3. What do the names Ivan, Marie,
