GEORGE ROBERTSON AND THE BEGGER

Mr. George Robertson, who has just left the stormy sea of political life for a snug anchorage in the Government Savings Bank in St. John, was a prominent man in public affairs for many years. He was defeated as a candidate for parliament, was for four years Mayor of St. John, and was elected two or three times to the legislature, boards of trade, exhibitions, public meetings of all kinds, were familiar with his pleasing face and resonant voice. He was a successful man of business before he got into politics. About thirty-five years ago when he was keeping a retail grocery in King street, a poorly clad old woman entered his shop and asked him to give her a little tea. "Are you Scotch?" asked the grocer. "No, sir, I'm Scotch," she whined. "Of course not, my Scotch woman," said Mr. Robertson, and he handed her a package of the herb that cheers, but not inebriates. Why did you ask her if she was Scotch?" questioned a bystander when the woman had departed hastily. "Because, if she had been Scotch, I there and given her in charge as a beggar fraud. We have a committee that looks after all the Scotch poor and sees that they don't want for the necessities of life."—Chatham World, Nov. 21.

THE NEW TAX LAW

To the Mayor and Aldermen of the City of St. John: Your Worship and Gentlemen,—The feeling against the present assessment law was so strong in 1905 that a special commission was appointed to prepare a new system of taxation. This commission, about a year ago, placed a new system before you, the common council. Copies of this proposed law were handed to every alderman, and the council, the board of trade, Committee of the board spent many evenings last winter criticizing the system, making many amendments, all of which were printed and sent to you, the common council. In March last this new system with its amendments was briefly discussed at one of your meetings. Aldermen Christie, Pickett, Baxter, Bullock and Willet voting in favor of the new system. Most of the aldermen who voted against it did not state their objections. This new system, as amended, is endorsed by the board of trade, by numerous unions, such as the painters, carpenters, millmen's, etc. (Thus trade and labor unite in support of the new system as proposed by the commission.)

Therefore, I ask you not to put off the consideration of this system until December 5 or 15, as such delay will be sure to push it over the holidays. No subject, not even the dredging, is quite as important as is this new tax system. Each alderman should consider it now, and those voting against it must tell us why they so vote. The present unjust act must be swept away, and we ask that there be no more delay. The consumption of small incomes and small rentals will cause a loss of $30,000. This amount will be made up by certain increases. The Street Railway Co. and last year $9,600. Under the new act this company would no doubt pay $15,000; other companies and owners of lots would contribute much more than that to do now. The new system will not be perfect, but it is far ahead of the present law, which law to assessors would dare to carry out to the letter.

I trust that the aldermen, Messrs. Baxter, Bullock, Christie, Pickett and Willet, who voted on the act last March, will see that this new system becomes law this winter.

I am, gentlemen, very truly yours, W. FRANK HATHEWAY, November 23, 1907.

UNTIMELY REMARKS FROM MR. LITGOW

President J. C. Litgow of the M. P. A. A. A., in an interview, said with reference to tonight's meeting: "I don't want to coax them to come. I am simply going to tell them in plain English that the best interests of amateur sport require that they back up the M. P. A. A. A. If they feel like doing it, all right; if not, I'm not going to coax them. They are their own way and I will issue a bulletin suspending the whole lot. I don't want you to take that as a threat; you know that I can do it." The expression of such sentiments from the M. P. A. A. A.'s head will not tend to promote harmony. Surely they are ill-advised and untimely. Clubs here won't be driven into any proposition, suspension or no suspension.

THE GORDON CASE

The Major Gordon case was resumed in the police court yesterday afternoon, when several witnesses were examined and adjournment was made until 11 o'clock this forenoon.

After Sergt. Ross, Thomas Thompson and Thomas Blair had been examined in behalf of the prosecution, Manuel Connors and W. E. Scully were called for the defence and their evidence showed that when Sergt. Ross arrested the defendant he took him by both shoulders and held his back against the edge of a sharp timber. Connors took Ross by the shoulders and other witnesses testified they saw the trouble. At Major Gordon's request, Connors took the revolver from his hand and passed it over to Mr. Scully, who placed it on the ground.

SCOTT ACT IN HAMPTON

Lakeside Road, Hampton Village, N. B., November 22, 1907. Editor Times: Sir—Glad to notice a correspondent from these parts in your issue of 16th, drawing attention to Scott Act matters up here. In the railway town they are doing great work. Why can't we have the lid tight on here as in Moncton. If the lid can be put tight down in a town of 10,000 people. Why can't it be in villages of 1,000? You remarked "Where is the inspector?" Echo answers "where?" NORMA.
