CANOEOING TO BE POPULAR THIS SUMMER

Indications Point to Greater Use of Our Splendid Rivers, Especially Canoeing.

Nothing is so characteristic of the adventurous Canadian life as the canoe. Before the arrival of the great French explorer Jacques Cartier, there were living in this magnificent region the Hurons and the Iroquois, whose transportation was almost entirely by canoe. In these days, canoeing is mostly for pleasure, but the same good qualities are expected of your canoe, plus more attractive lines, safety and finish. It is needless to say that if you are a real paddler you will appreciate the "Huron" canoe, made by the last descendants of the many Indian tribes of the American continent who are still existing in the Province of Quebec at Indian Lorette, and whose principal occupation is the making of the "genuine" "Huron" canoe, to which were added all modern improvements. This canoe is made of selected cedar cut in the nearby forests and covered with the best canvas, and is entirely hand made by twelve Hurons of the Indian Reserve. It is just the canoe for pleasure and sporting purposes. The 15 ft. canoe is most suitable for our local waters and

The First Class Huron Canoe, (the best quality they make), can be bought for $69.75 in this size. Other grades and sizes in proportion. Fred E. Kerrett, of J. M. Minard's Liniment Used by Physicians. HUNGARIANS ERECT MONUMENT TO AMERICAN RED CROSS CHIEF

Budapest, May 13—(Associated Press)—The first European statue to a living American has been erected by Hungary in honor of James A. Feltow, American Red Cross commissioner here. It is situated in the municipal park, near the Washington memorial. In his address at the unveiling ceremonies Count Apponyi declared that "the Americans are the only real pacifists in the world who are showing a spirit of reconciliation in their generous charity toward the vanquished." Thousands of children in gala dress paraded in front of the statue and heaped flowers around it.
