

MURDER VERDICT IN TRIFTS INQUEST

The final session of the coroner's inquest into the death of Frederick H. Trifts, on Thursday, July 6, met last night in the court rooms, with Coroner H. A. Porter, presiding. Policeman McFarland testified that he had been notified of the murder at 6:40 o'clock in the morning. He went to the car and turned off the engine and lights. Constable Robert Crawford gave him some broken pieces of glass, but no papers, he said.

Detective Biddiscombe told of being called at seven o'clock and going to the scene with Detective-Sergeant Power. He described the condition of the car and the steps taken by the detectives to trace the origin of the phone call which had taken the murdered man to the scene. He found two bottles and a handkerchief near the scene of the crime, he said, one week later. He also told of the day on the car and the broken light in the dome.

William Trifts, son of the dead man, said it was not their habit to answer telephone calls unless the caller was a customer.

Detective Saunders told of a car with three occupants passing him at 12:45 o'clock near King Square, and someone calling, "Hello, Jack." He was not sure it was Trifts.

The coroner, in his charge, reviewed the evidence and said he thought the jury could exclude all ideas of suicide from their debate. In regard to the matter of an empty bottle being capable of inflicting the wounds, he produced a can which he had filled with ashes and hammered with a bottle showing very apparent marks of the damage inflicted. The machine should have been roped off as soon as found, he said, and no interference should have been allowed.

The jury brought in the following verdict after forty-five minutes' deliberation:

1. That Frederick H. Trifts came to his death in Douglas avenue, in the city of St. John, on Thursday, the sixth day of July, A. D. 1922, in the early hours of the morning by being wilfully murdered.
2. That said death was caused by fracture of the skull, said fracture being caused by several violent blows struck on the back of the head by a blunt instrument by a person or persons unknown. We also believe that the deceased was committed in the car in which he died.
