WIFE SLAYER LOSES SPEECH, THEN GOES OUT OF HIS MIND

Detroit, Feb. 13.—Robert Costello, who was stricken dumb when he slew his wife on last Friday night, has become a raving maniac and is lashed to his bed in the Receiving Hospital. The confessed wife slayer, who was forced to write his confession because he had lost the power of speech, was taken to the Morgue Sunday to see the body of his wife, Eva Henderson Costello. As he looked upon the body, his power of speech returned. "Evelyn," he gasped, "Evelyn, what have I done?" He was led back to police headquarters, but the vision of his wife, of the assault in which he slashed her throat, kept coming back before him. He lost control of himself and was rushed to the hospital.

Costello, formerly a street car conductor, became enraged at stories of his wife's indiscretion. He slew her as she was entering the home of another man.

QUARANTINED.

RECENT WEDDINGS

Sharon Church, Stellarton (N. S.), was the scene of a pretty wedding on January 7, when Helen Edwina Stirlings, daughter of the late Rev. Archibald Gunn, a former minister of Greenock Church, St. Andrews-by-the-Sea (N. B.), and of Mrs. Gunn, Westville (N. S.), was united in marriage to Rev. Edward Morris, rector of Christ Church, Stellarton (N. S.), now of Trinity Church, Halifax. Rev. C. C. Macintosh, pastor of Sharon Church, performed the ceremony. The bride, who was the organist of Sharon Church, will be much missed in musical as well as social circles.
