Keen Interest in Proposed
Concerts—Many Offer to Assist.

Every step possible is being taken to make the four outdoor concerts in aid of the Hilton Belvea Benefit Fund a success. There is less than a week to go and the committees are working fast. Hon. Dr. W. E. Foster has consented to act in any capacity to help. It has been impossible yet to get in touch with Premier Veniot. R. E. Armstrong will act as treasurer and will publish a complete financial statement twenty-five volunteers from the Rotary Club and an equal number from the Gyro Club have promised to do anything in their power.

The following well-known local artists already have agreed to appear at these concerts. Mrs. L. M. Curran, DeWitt Cairns, E. H. Bowman, A. C. Smith, Jr., Dr. Percy Bonnell, W. T. Layton, Miss Blenda Thomson, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Guy, Mrs. Louis Lelachur, E. C. Glavin, Dr. L. W. Baker, Messrs. Holder, Smith and Mahoney, Bayard Currie and T. C. Cochrane have volunteered their services as accompanists for the concerts. Other local artists have been invited, and so soon as their acceptances come to hand, the committee will announce them.

Handed Over to the Nova Scotia Commission.

(By Canadian Press.)
Yarmouth, N. S., May 2.—Instructions were received today from Ottawa from the Minister of Customs, confirming the action of the local customs officers in seizing the schooner Buena for infringement of the Customs Act. The Buena in charge of Captain John Sims came here last December with cargo of liquor from Nassau for St. Pierre and was arrested. The liquor was stored in a bonded warehouse here and the schooner will likely be sold and the liquor, if it measures up to the standard of that handled by the vendor commission, will be sold to that body, it is understood.

"THE MAN FROM GLENGARRY"
Ralph Connor's Story of the Rivermen's Feud

To sit and see the thrilling scenes of the big log jams; the difficult feats of log riding by the river men; the fight between the Man from Glengarry and Lenox, the bully of the river, and the hair-raising rescue from the very jaws of death of a courageous girl, who, in an effort to save her lover fell into the river, at the mercy of the wild rushing logs on their way to the raging falls below, it is to realize that here is a production really worth-while.

WAR-BLINDED SOLDIERS BEGAN GREAT NATIONAL WORK

Work of National Institute for Blind a Credit to Canada and a Glory to Its Soldier Founders—Yesterday Observed in Toronto as Tag Day on Behalf of the Work of the National Institute for the Blind.

(Toronto Globe.)
Have you ever, in a time of great anxiety, sleeping or waking, had to spin ropes of sand? Or been compelled to clamber up a steep mountainside in wildest flight from a danger that meant death, and as you scrambled headlong the loose soil and shale gave way under your feet and made upward progress impossible and destruction from behind inevitable? These and other things are the daily story of Canada.

And so this story runs, of details, if these were wanted, but imagination cannot see the blank, and imagination cannot overpaint the picture of helplessness and hopelessness and thankfulness that the story makes. From east to west the work is being done by workers whose hearts as well as heads are in their blessed task. Distance, language, social distinctions matter nothing. Under that sacred banner of Hope—man's most precious possession—the work goes on and will go on. The Canadian Institute for the Blind is national in the best and proudest sense.

Field workers and home teachers are ambassadors of hope. Sentiment and science, sympathy and resourcefulness are their tools, and compassion is the ground note of their labors. They are as intent upon the prevention of blindness as upon the alleviation of the needs of the sightless. The first few hours of an infant's life very often decide whether light or darkness shall be its lifelong state.

Great Work in Toronto.
The observation and treatment of children not yet blind, but whose vision is failing, are most important features of the work. In Toronto today there are over four hundred children whose sight is only one-third of normal in their good eye. Many are blind in one eye and only ten per cent. efficient in the other. These little ones are going to school and playing ground with their sighted companions. Some are awkward, nervous, "stupid" at their lessons, getting into accidents at every turn, and in a measure risking their little lives every hour of the day. And all the time the dread curtain of lifelong night is slowly falling down upon their vision. Soon it will be dark—"until the day break."

Here, then, is great work, wonderful work, and the Institute is doing it and will not rest until there are sight-saving classes in every centre throughout the Dominion. Last year in this city every school was surveyed and the children's eyes examined. In future it is hoped that Canada's blind citizens will be those only whom no amount of prevention could save. The old bad days of indifference are gone.

In Toronto today there are a score and a half of children under treatment. The average of improvement three was found to be quite blind. She was playing amongst her half dozen brothers and sisters, and only the bumps and burns and scratches on her little body showed how really helpless she was. An elder brother was half blind, and both cases were taken charge of. Today the little ones are in a fair way to normal vision.

Kindly Care For Blind.
Until little more than five years ago there was no definite knowledge available concerning our Canadian blind. Here and there throughout the Dominion there were scattered under kindly care a few hundred of those afflicted. Halifax and Montreal and Ontario were each doing something to bring help and hope to such sightless cases as came under notice. But it is estimated that there were more than six thousand blind citizens, men, women and children, scattered throughout Canada. Where they were none could say with certainty. How they lived only those immediately associated with them could say. Prisoners of hope—too often hopeless they might have been called. To each was known the darkness of perpetual night in a world where the sun was shining, but in each heart there was a failure to realize what could be done and how to get about doing it. Nor were their friends in any better case. They could look on and shower the wealth of their love upon their afflicted ones, but beyond that the task seemed endless, hopeless, and despairing.

Canada's Noble Army.
Then came the war. A hundred and thirty-five of our Canadian boys lost their sight in the battlefields of Europe. The indifference of generations was blotted out in a few months, and for the past five years the record of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind is one continuous story of service that is enabling to read and savor over. To seek out the blind, young and old. Those who for long years had been struggling along in darkness, and those little ones upon whom the darkness was gradually falling, slowly, but inevitably, from Halifax to Vancouver the work has been going on, is still going on, will never stop, please God! The first step is registration in a world where the cases have already been registered. This means also classification, and of course immediate service in whatever form that is needed. Ontario's own arrangements are such that not a single case of blindness or near blindness or threatening blindness need lack attention. And the story of this registration is a tragic romance. Here away out in Saskatchewan is an elderly woman who has been blind for a score of years. She did not know that there were thousands like here. There was no sense of companionship in her affliction. In another western case a little girl of Ottawa, May 2.—On reports from the Department of Colonization, Mines and Fisheries of Quebec, to the effect that great black-backed gulls are seriously destructive to young of the Elder Duck, a species valuable as food and for its down, in the county of Saguenay, and this information having been confirmed by the federal game officers, it has been ordered that any British subject domiciled in the county of Saguenay, may kill great black-backed gulls by shooting, within the County of Saguenay, from one hour before sunrise to one hour after sunset, from June 15 to October 31, both dates inclusive, provided that the birds be killed not be sold or offered for sale or shipped or transported from one person to another, except that they may be shipped or transported as a gift to persons authorized to take or possess such birds for scientific purposes.
