

- (c) a stipulation is included that extradition may not be refused on political grounds provided the offence is a crime against an internationally protected person.

The Treaty establishes the determination of Canada and the Federal Republic of Germany to co-operate in the field of crime prevention. It is in line with the Canadian policy to update existing arrangements and to conclude new extradition treaties with other countries.