Athens v. Elgin.

One of the best base-ball games ever played in Athens was witnessed on the grounds here on Saturday last, when the home club met and defeated a team from Elgin (Crosby, Lyndhurst, Morton, Jones' Falls or Delta). It was a great game. Un Lyndhurst, Morton, Jones' Falls or Dolta). It was a great game. Undoubtedly the visitors had made up a strong team, and they entered the village and the ball grounds with the air of invincibles, but their pride of prowess received a check which should exercise a wholesome influence over their deportment in future. The home team was composed mainly of prowess received a check which should exercise a wholesome influence over their deportment in future. The home team was composed mainly of high school students, and their stalwart adversaries smiled a Goliath-like smile when they saw the youthful Elliott in the pitcher's box. To their surprise and that of the spectators, Elliott pitched through the nine tinnings in splendid form, and Alex. Green captured all balls that passed the home plate with admirable skill.
