Nerve Trouble is

"GET A BOX OF MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS."

He says: "I have been ailing for about a year from deranged nerves, and very often weak spells would come over me and be so bad that I sometimes thought I would be unable to survive them. I have been treated by doctors and have taken numerous preparations but none of them helped me in the least. I finally got a box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. Before taking them I did not feel able to do any work, but now I can work as well as ever, thanks to one box of your pills. They have made a new man of me, and my advice to any person troubled as I was, is to get a box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills."

CROUP.

The peculiar cough which indicates croup, is usually well known to the mothers of croupy children. No time should be lost in the treatment of it, and for this purpose no medicine has been so successful as Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. For sale by all druggists.

Why, Indeed?

When the English tongue we speak Why is "break" not rhymed with "freak"? Will you tell me why it's true We say "new," but likewise "few," And the maker of a verse Cannot cap his "horse" with "worse"? "Beard" sounds not the same as "heard," "Cord" is different from "word," "Cow" is cow, but "low" is "how," "Shoe" is never rhymed with "foe," Think of "goose" and "dose" and "lose," Think of "comb" and yet of "chose," "Doll" and "roll" and "home" and "some," And since "pay" is rhymed with "say," Why not "paid" with "said," I pray? We have "blood" and "food" and "good," "Mould" is not pronounced like "could," Wherefore "done," but "gon" and "lone," Is there any reason known? And, in short, it seems to me Sound and letters disagree.

DISLOCATED HER SHOULDER.

Mrs. Johanna Soderholm, of Ferguson Falls, Minn., fell and dislocated shoulder. She had a surgeon get it back in place as soon as possible, but it was quite sore and pained her very much. Her son mentioned that he had seen Chamberlain's Pain Balm advertised for sprains and soreness, and she asked him to buy her a bottle of it, which he did. It quickly relieved her and enabled her to sleep, which she had not done for several days. For sale by all druggists.

Gutenberg was inventing his little presses. "Stay," cried the frightened populace, "think of all the poets who will want to rush into print!" "That is provided for," he answered. "I have already set up a Declined with Thanks" form.

Heaving a sigh of relief they allowed him to proceed.—New York Sun.

RACKING PAIN IN THE JOINTS.

Also every form of rheumatism, neuralgia and sciatica are best cured by Nerviline, the quickest relief for muscular pain yet discovered. It's because it strikes in and penetrates to the core of the pain that it gives such unbounded satisfaction. "I caught cold in my shoulders while driving and suffered great pain," writes G. E. Dempsey, of Berlin. "I used Nerviline freely and was quite well. I have found Nerviline an excellent remedy for rheumatism and neuralgia as well as for cold on the chest. I recommend Nerviline highly and wouldn't be without it." Price 25c.

GAZE ON MONEY

Throngs Peek at Uncle Sam's
Purse in Washington
Every Day

Sight of Treasury Wealth is all That is Permitted—No Sampling is Allowed

"Handling Uncle Sam's cash is in itself no easy task, but handling the vast number of people who desire to view that portion of it stored in the treasury vaults in Washington is not by any means the least of the troubles of the treasurer," said Elias H. Roberts, treasurer of the United States today.

No one can visit the underground storage vaults without a permit from Mr. Roberts, and the treasurer holds that every citizen holds an interest in the money and if he gets any satisfaction in looking at it or examining the vaults in which it is kept he is entitled to that satisfaction. Consequently none is turned from his office without the necessary permit, unless there is some special reason for withholding it.

The vaults, given by the Americans to the world, are a sight to behold. They are in seeing vast stores of money makes the treasury one of the best showhouses in Washington. Were an admission charged to the silver vaults the revenue of the government would be appreciably increased.

COME FROM EVERYWHERE.

Sightseers come from all over the world. One day when the vaults were particularly gloomy and disagreeable outside, so that there was not much doing in the tourist line, Treasurer Roberts took the trouble to keep track of his callers. Exactly 700 persons entered the vaults, and nearly 40 different nationalities. The foreigners came from Great Britain, France, India, China, Germany, Africa and Australia.

Matters are so arranged that the visit will impress itself upon the minds of the sightseers. The cashiers and clerks, who, after Mr. Roberts has passed on the permit, see that the stranger registers his name in a little book kept for the purpose. This is for the purpose of assisting the government a little later on in case a silver or gold certificate is missing. They first go to the vault in which the money is kept which is used in the current business of the treasury. After the necessary signing and countersigning of the permit they are admitted to the vault in charge hands around a small frame which incloses two well-worn $5,000 bills and one of $5,000.

SHOWN $5,000 BILLS.

"There!" he says triumphantly, "You've had $5,000 in your hand." Bigger things come later on in the trip where they are permitted to handle millions in gold bonds in the national bank vaults, or to look at the doors behind which are stored tons of precious gold and silver which have been stamped into coin. Because of the electrical appliances they cannot see the magnified doors, the guide impresses the visitor with the reality of the heavily armed guards, who are constantly kept at the treasury to protect the money.

"If we were as money mad as some foreigners would make us out," observed Treasurer Roberts, "visitors at the department would not be so kind to themselves as well as they do. Many thousands of persons have gone through the vaults during my term of office, but, as far as I know, not one has made an attempt to get hold of any of the money. Of course, we keep close watch on them, but if the American people were insane on the question of money this would be a good place to note interesting symptoms. We like money, but we are not so crazy about it as our foreign friends profess to believe. It is the presence of alleged madness does not seem to aggravate the disease."—Washington Star.

THE UNIVERSAL SAVIORS.

The Kaiser rose. A silence fell on all the assembled British. Of soldiers, guards and sailor men Who paused to hear the toast. Each hero placed his empty stein Where it could soon be filled, And waited for the royal words. With rapture all were filled: "And the noble Kaiser, my Royal Guards," "You saved the day at Agincourt, And humbled Galle pride. The vanquished British strewn the field.

With dead and dying men, England's noble Germans came, And victory perched again on their brows. Any you, my savior brave and true, Who sail the stormy main, What did you do at Trafalgar To win undying fame.

When Nelson flung the foolish jest, England expects this day That every man shall do his best To drive the French away. 'Twas German ships that, closing in, Battered the wooden walls And towed the Victory from the fight.

From their cannon balls, And saved the British there. The witless Lucan said: "Go charge the blithering Russian guns, Boys of the Light Brigade, Who rode among the bloody space With sabres flashing bare?"

Why, you, my noble Dutch dragoons— You saved the British there. Their cousins, too, across the sea, Have blest our mailed hand; That victory in Manila Bay Was won by our command.

When Dewey faced the Spanish fleet With trembling and dismay, Trembling German ships and German guns.

That really saved the day? The Kaiser paused. His words had sunk Deep in each Teuton mind: With lifted steins they drank the toast.

"The saviors of mankind."

Remember This Story.

A parrot and a dog were left in a room together. The parrot, out of mischief, said to the dog, "Sick him!" The dog, seeing nothing else, went for the parrot and tore out about half his tail feathers before he escaped to his perch. The parrot, after looking himself over and reflecting a little, said, "Poli, you talk too much."

Good form appears to be the accumulated weariness of centuries expressed in a general air of boredom.

A puny child is always an anxiety to the parents. There seems generally no reason why the little one should be weak when it is so well fed. But the fact is that the stomach never how much food the child takes if the stomach cannot extract the nourishment from it. No benefit can be derived from just eating. That is the condition of many a sickly child. The stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition are not doing their work, and the body is really starving. It is little use to give fish foods, like cod liver oil or emulsions, in such a case, because these also have to be digested; they may lighten the stomach's labor but they don't strengthen it. Strength is what the stomach needs. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery strengthens the stomach, nourishes the nerves and increases the action of the blood-making glands. It is superior to every other preparation for children's use, on account of its body building qualities, and also because it is pleasant to the taste and contains no alcohol, whiskey or other intoxicant. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are a valuable aid when the bowels are irregular. They are small, children take them readily, and they are gentle.
