Little Things.

'A good-bye kiss is a little thing,
With your hand on the door to go,
But it takes the venom out of the sting
Of a thoughtless word or a cruel fling
That you made an hour ago.

A kiss of greeting is sweet and rare
After the toil of the day;
And it smoothes the furrows out of the care
And lines on the forehead you once called fair
In the years that have flown away.

'Tis a little thing to say, 'You are kind,'
'I love you, my dear,' each night,
But it sends a thrill through the heart, I find;
For love is tender, as love is blind,
As we climb life's rugged height.

We starve each other for love's caress
We take, but we do not give;
It seems so easy some soul to bless,
But we dole love grudgingly, less and less,
Till life is long to live.

Life Savers of the Goodwin Sands.

Just off Dean, a town on the Kentish coasts of England, lie the Goodwin Sands—treacherous and far-reaching shoals, which have proved the grave-yard of many a noble vessel. Writing in Harper's Magazine, Walter Wood tells the story of a number of these wrecks and the gallant rescues that have been accomplished. He says:

'Life-savers of the sands were zealously at work long before the modern life-boat was invented. In the blackness of a winter's night in 1676 the 'Morning Star,' from the Canaries, mistook her way. She 'haled far easterly and fell upon the middle part of the Goodwin Sands.' On the following morning she was suddenly swallowed up, but before she sank, a Deal boat saved five of the men, and the rest, seven or eight, were rescued by a Ramsgate boat. Scarcely had the 'Morning Star' been ravened by the hungry sands before another ship from the Canaries grounded on the Goodwins in the middle of a black February night. Again the boatmen saved the crew before the vessel sank.

A FLEET GOES ASHORE.

'There have been memorable disasters in recent years, even since steam became almost universal for marine propulsion; but the most noted calamities relate to the days of sail. Of all that have been on record none is more terrible than that of the annihilation of an entire fleet of warships in the storm which devastated England in 1703. Thirteen warships, anchored in the Downs, were swept from their moorings. Some were driven ashore; five, including four sail of the line, were hurled toward the Goodwins and dashed to pieces. Nearly 1,100 officers and men perished; yet a handful were saved and brought to shore by men of Deal and and Ramsgate and the little havens of the coast.

LIGHTSHIPS AND LIFEBOATS.

'Until 1795 there was no lightship on or near the Goodwins; then one of these noble beacons was placed on the North Sand. The famous Gull Lightship was put in position in 1809, followed, but not till 1832, by the South Sand Lightship. Forty-two years passed; before, in 1874, the East Goodwin Lightship was placed on her station, and completed the quartet which guard the sailor from the sands. It was not until 1865 that a lifeboat was stationed at Deal, so that, until quite recent times, the Old World boatmen, the hardy adventurers who feared no foe in shape of ship or man, did this dangerous work in the celebrated luggers.

'The big Deal luggers are about 40 feet long, with a beam of a dozen feet or more, giving them astonishing stability, and a forecastle, while the smaller luggers, known as 'cats,' are fitted with moveable caboose amidships. A fully equipped lugger will cost twenty-five hundred dollars, the expense of maintenance and repair being correspondingly heavy.

AN ENTHUSIASTIC LIFE SAVER.

'Let the alarm be given that a vessel is in distress or fellow-creatures are in danger, and nothing will keep the Deal boatmen back, if it is humanly possible to get afloat. More than half a century ago, in the days before life-boats, a certain fine young boatman was ready for his wedding. The church bells were ringing wildly in the stormy air, when there was heard the cry that a ship was on the Goodwins. On the beach was a big lugger called the 'Mariner,' and into her the boatmen crowded, among them the bridegroom. To him the music of the chimes was not so potent or alluring as the call to arms. The Viking blood was aroused within him, and he left his bride and joined the crew. Through the dangerous seas the lugger fought her way to the wreck, which was already going to pieces. The crew was huddled in the main rigging. It was touch and go with death. There was no chance of anchoring the 'Mariner,' and all that could be done was to shout to the men to cast themselves into the seething waters. They obeyed the stern command, and one by one they were snatched into the lugger and carried back triumphantly to the Deal. Then the twenty-tons' weight of timber was hauled up the rough shingle of the beech by hundreds of enthusiastic people, and the bridegroom, hurrying off to the church, took his sweetheart as his wife. They lived to celebrate their golden wedding.

'MAN THE LIFEBOAT.'

'The Goodwins are scanned ceaselessly day and night, for even in the finest weather the alarm may be given that a vessel is ashore, while in storm and fog a call is almost certain. The sullen boom of a lightship's gun is heard, the flash of a rising rocket is seen, and instantly rings the cry of 'Man the lifeboat!' The Ramsgate tug thrashes out to sea, towing the lifeboat toward the sands while the luggers of Deal are launched and the men sail off in the hope of 'shovelling,' which is salvage.

THE WRECK OF THE 'INDIAN CHIEF.'

One glorious achievement stands prominently out among the modern doings of life-savers of the Goodwins, and that is in connection with the loss of the Indian Chief, a twelve-hundred ton ship, which, in bitter January weather in 1881, struck the Long Sand, at the north end of the Goodwins. That was in the darkness of the early morning; but so thick and furious was the weather that it was not till 5 o'clock in the afternoon that the Bradford lifeboat was towed out of Ramsgate Harbor by the Vulcan. Eighteen miles separated the wreck from the harbor, and it took seven hours to cover the distance. The 'Vulcan' was buried by heavy seas, and the lifeboat was repeatedly deluged with salt spray that froze as it flew over the crouching crew. Twice the gallant craft was swamped; twice she righted herself, and wallowed in the wake of the fighting steamboat. The men were lashed to their seats, or they would have been torn away by the rush of waves. It was black darkness when the wreck was reached, and it was impossible to get near her.

A PITIFUL SIGHT.

'Throughout that bitter night the Bradford and the tug stood by; when grey morning broke, the 'Indian Chief' was seen—or, rather, what the sands had left of her. The ship had been hurled and hammered for twenty-four hours, and only a mast rose upward to the wild sky to show her presence. That melancholy relic was three miles away, and the lifeboat, having slipped her tow rope, surged down to the Long Sand under her storm foresail, anchored to windward of the tragic relic of the 'Indian Chief.' Then, and not till then, the pity of the wreck was known, for on the mast, which was the mizzen, 11 oilskinned men were lashed together—all who were left out of a crew of twenty nine. One by one they dropped into the lee rigging, whence they were taken into the lifeboat. The captain was frozen dead, and the mate, who had lost his reason, died as the lifeboat, glassed with ice, was pulled back to Ramsgate Harbor by the tug. For twenty-six hours the lifeboat had remained at sea in the bitterest weather on record.

HUMBLE HEROES.

'Hard things have been said about the life-savers of the Goodwins; but no one who has dwelt by the sea and known first-hand the lives of fishermen and hovellers will fail to temper justice with mercy in dealing with their ways.

'I remember talking with a lifeboatman who had just returned from a wrecked sketch. I saw the rescue from the shore on which the little ship had rounded. The seas were sweeping over her, and astern, at the wheel, the master, frozen dead, was covered with an icy shroud. The survivors were brought ashore through a fierce run of tide and

When You Feel Cross

And are worried and irritated you can get the liver right by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Life is too short to be cross and grouchy. You not only make yourself miserable, but also those about you. Don't blame others. Blame yourself for not keeping the liver right.

There is nothing in the world which will more promptly afford you relief than Dr. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills. This statement is true. A trial will convince you.

Mr. Theo. Bedard, Lac aux Sables, Portneuf County, Que., writes,—"I have found Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills the best treatment obtainable for indigestion and impure blood. They cured me of indigestion, from which I suffered for four years.

"This certificate is given without solicitation, so that others may not waste their money buying medicines of no value when they can get Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, which I am convinced are the best."

Spring Impurities in the Blood.

A TONIC MEDICINE IS NECESSARY AT THIS SEASON.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are an all the year round tonic, blood builder and nerve restorer. But they are especially valuable in the spring when the system is loaded with impurities as a result of the indoor life of the winter months. There is no other season when one feels so weak and tired—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills envelope the appetite, tone the stomach and aid weak digestion, give strength. It is in the spring that poisons in the blood find an outlet in disfiguring pimples, eruptions and boils—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills speedily clear the skin because they go to the root of the trouble in the blood. In the spring anaemia, rheumatism, indigestion, neuralgia, erysipelas and many other troubles are most persistent because of poor, weak blood, and it is at this time when all nature takes on new life that the blood most seriously needs attention. Some people dose themselves with purgatives at this season, but these only further weaken themselves. A purgative merely gallops through the system, emptying the bowels but it does not cure anything. On the other hand Dr. Williams' Pink Pills actually make new blood which reaches every nerve and organ in the body, bringing new strength, new health and vigor to weak, easily tired men, women and children. Try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills this spring—they will not disappoint you.

Sold by all medicine dealers or sent by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Think This Over

THIS OFFER SHOULD GAIN THE CONFIDENCE OF THE MOST SKEPTICAL.

We pay for all the medicine used during the trial, if our remedy fails to completely relieve you of constipation. We take all the risk. You are not obligated to us in any way whatever, if you accept our offer. That's a mighty broad statement, but we mean every word of it. Could anything be more fair for you?

A most scientific, common-sense treatment is Rexall Orderlies, which are eaten like candy. Their active principle is a recent scientific discovery that is odorless, colorless, and tasteless; very pronounced, gentle and pleasant in action, and particularly agreeable in every way. This ingredient does not cause diarrhoea, nausea, flatulence, griping or other inconvenience. Rexall Orderlies are particularly good for delicate and aged persons and children.

If you suffer from chronic or habitual constipation, or the associate or dependent chronic ailments, we urge you to try Rexall Orderlies at our risk. Remember, you can get them in Wolfville only at our store. 12 tablets, 10 cents; 36 tablets, 25 cents; 80 tablets, 50 cents. Sold only at our store—The Rexall Store. A. V. Rand.

The American Situation.

The United States is going headlong into something. The political, economic and social conditions are unprecedented. The discouraging thing is that most of the people think that a certain type of president (and each has his type) will cure the threatened cataclysm, and they are working or are being called to work in that direction. The drums are about to be thumped for the once-in-four-year rally as they were never thumped before. The cure is evidently in the noise of the drums.

Oh, you people, now long-suffering from this much overworked concussion of taut parchments! Noise will not save you. Nor will the wind of pellbinder all asweat. One thing that may save you is a parliament with plenary power to deal with your problems—unlimited by the constitution, by court judgments, or the deliverances of men now dead 120 years! Cease your waste of energy over discussing state and federal powers. Make yourself into a nation with one parliament, on English lines, and delegate power to local legislatures to handle local questions. Then let your national assembly make one law on each big question for the people. Get back to a free, unlimited parliament like they have in England. You make the mistake of your life, as a people, when you forget that your political instincts were ineffaceably English!—EX.

When you have rheumatism in your foot or instep apply Chamberlain's Liniment and you will get quick relief. It costs but a quarter. Why suffer? For sale by all dealers.

Economy in Meat.

The cook who broils the tough end of a porterhouse steak, roasts the ribs in a roast, throws away the bones and juices left on the platter by the carver and discards as unfit for use the meat from which the soup stock is made is guilty of a wicked waste.

The end of a porterhouse steak is unfit to serve when boiled. It should be cut off. This, together with the bone and juice left on the platter, a bay leaf, three or four cloves, an onion, a carrot and some parsley, will make several cups of bouillon. The ribs should be cut off a roast when preparing it for the oven. These, with the leftover gravy, may be used in a similiar way for stock.

In making stock, the long, slow process of gentle boiling extracts the flavor from the meat and coagulates the albumen. Only a little of the albumen is extracted. Therefore the meat loses but little of its nourishing properties. There are numerous ways in which such meat can be made appetizing. Combined with rice and tomatoes a delicious luncheon dish may be made. Butter a baking dish and line with hot boiled rice. Fill the center with bits of meat well seasoned with salt, pepper and onion juice. Cover with rice. Bake 20 minutes in the oven. Turn out on a platter and pour over it a well seasoned tomato sauce. It is a toothsome morsel.

A certain haunted house down in Georgia was held in terror by all the negroes in the vicinity, except Sam, who bravely declared that for $2 he would sleep there all night. A purse was raised, and Sam was told to carry out his end of the bargain and to call in the morning for his money. When the morning came no trace could be found of Sam; the house contained nothing but evidences of a hurried departure. A search party was organized, but without result.

Finally, four days later, Sam, covered with mud, came slowly walking down the road.

'Hi, dere, nigger!' yelled a bystander. 'Where's you been de las' fo' days?'

To which Sam curtly responded: 'Ah's been comin' back!'

A Fireman's Peril.

HOW ZAM-BUK DELIVERED HIM.

At 215 Fraser Ave., Edmonton, Alta., lives W. P. Mahy, a former member of the local fire brigade, who has wonderful cause to be thankful for the curative powers of Zam Buk. He says: 'A serious skin disease broke out on my face, and spread until I was in a terrible state. The spots and little ulcers were frightfully irritating, and yet when scratched or rubbed they bled and smarted. Shaving caused me agony and sometimes I would have to go two weeks without a shave. I tried home-made remedies, herb salves, and various other preparations, but the sores got no better. When Zam-Buk was mentioned I had little faith that it would be able to do me any good. My case seemed such an obstinate one. I gave it a fair trial, however, and the first box made such a wonderful change for the better that it gave me encouragement to continue. I did so, and to cut a long story short, Zam-Buk, in the end, quite cured me. My face is now clear of all the traces of the terrible disease, which troubled me for so long.'

Thousands of sufferers from eczema, blood poison, ulcers, chronic sores, piles, ringworm, cold sores, cuts, burns and skin injuries, have been relieved and cured, as was Mr. Mahy, by Zam-Buk. As a balm for all skin injuries and diseases it is without equal. All druggists and stores at 50c box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price. Refuse harmful substitutes.

For Diseases of the Skin.

Nearly all diseases of the skin such as eczema, tetter, salt rheum and barbers' itch, are characterized by an intense itching and smarting, which often makes life a burden and disturbs sleep and rest. Quick relief may be had by applying Chamberlain's Salve. It allays the itching and smarting almost instantly. Many cases have been cured by its use. For sale by all dealers.
