SACKVILLE N. B., DEC. 8, 1892.

TO SUBSCRIBERS.

A number of years ago from the subscription accounts are now being sent out from this office. Unless settled at once the full arrears charge of $1.50 will be made and all long standing accounts will be placed for collection with costs.

DAIRYMEN'S ASSOCIATION.

It is with pleasure that the Post notes the formation of a Dairymen's Association in Sackville. A full report of the inaugural meeting appears in our regular news columns today. Upon many occasions this association has expressed its belief that in order to accommodate themselves to the changed and changing conditions of modern agriculture, our farmers would have to use to the best advantage those favors which nature has so lavishly bestowed upon them. An inspection of the natural properties of Canada, or in fact any vast territory, will show that certain sections are better adapted for the production of certain crops than others, and that following the laws of commerce the surplus of one section will be sent to fill the deficit in another. In the far west we have that vast area over which roams the yearling cattle, herds of horses and beef cattle. At present the farmers of Ontario are met in their own markets with competition from this source. Coming eastward we have the broad acres which constitute the wheat belt of North America, whose products are found in nearly every farmer's house in New Brunswick, Ontario and Annapolis Valley, farmers sell their products at this side of the province for winter supply of fruit, Ontario and Quebec supplies us with our hams, bacon, lard and a large quantity of butter. It may be almost incredible, but it is true that through a small situated at Moncton and factory in Sackville thousands of dollars are each year sent by the farmers as well as others of Westernland, Cumberland and other countries, to the farmers of Ontario for oats and barley which are brought here whole and and ground and sold for local consumption. It may be quite true that our farmers cannot compete with Ontario in her market in the barley and oat trade, but we see no reason why they cannot supply our own market and keep this vast volume of money for circulation at home.

With all due respect to the noble profession of agriculture in this section we have it to say that it is enough to cause heart ache in the breast of any wellwisher of Westernland to visit the railway station any morning, or see the vast freight bills and see the vast socialization is, however, it is but a step towards a remedy to the existing state of affairs. It should be the duty of the society to do something more than hold meetings. To-day the active question is "Can butter or cheese factories or both be made to pay both farmers and manufacturers we have a proof that on no occasion is it satisfactory to soothe "the dull cold ear of death." It is usual when a great man dies, as well as when a good man passes away, for the papers of all creeds and opinions to join hands and vie with each other in saying that such and such a dear departed. Some great men are truly good and what is spoken of their merits after death, is flavored with truth, but in the case of Mr. Gould was said of his virtues has been said from complimentary and far from untrue. As no every man can be said to be superior to the Ontario product, both in quantity, quality and in cost of production. Let us hear this subject discussed. If necessary get a practical butter maker who is engaged in a private or cooperative factory in Ontario to give us his experience and if it is favorable take advantage of it. There is a feeling that government lectures are not reliable and that the section is best adapted for dairying let us by all means make a specialty of it. When once dairy herds are established on Westernland farms it means the supplying of our home market with butter, cheese, hog products and the consequent increase in the fertility of the soil will enable the home market to be supplied by the home growers.

A HOPEFUL CHANGE.

After years of costly experience the government has decided to put an end to the nonsensical system of double management of the Intercolony Railway, and hereafter Mr. Pottinger will be general manager of the road, with headquarters at Moncton. This is a change for the better which the friends of the road have been for years in hope would occur. Ever since the system of dual management was inaugurated and the Chief Superintendent was compelled to refer to Ottawa on questions of the smallest import, dissatisfaction has been expressed by those who had considerable business with the line. It is fervently hoped that now, since the great cause for delay and dissatisfaction has been removed that not only will the relations between the road and its patrons be marked with more harmony, but also that the yearly deficit will be lessened. We have very good reason to believe that both ends will be accomplished. Mr. Pottinger has shown himself, during the long years he has spent in the railway service to be a thorough railway man, and given a free hand and a resolute determination to turn the Intercolony Railway into a paying concern. The political influence, he will, we feel confident, work a decided change for the better. Mr. Collingwood Schiebler has been appointed to the position of deputy minister, vacated by the resignation of Mr. Trudeau.

—Jay Gould died of hemorrhage at New York on Monday.

LOCAL POLITICS.

It is very generally reported throughout the county that the government party are desirous of securing the election of Hon. A. D. Richard, Solicitor General, to the House, through the resignation of Messrs. Kilam or W. Woodbury Wells. The latter gentleman has intimated his willingness to give way to Mr. Richard and the only obstacle to the realization of their desires is the uncertainty which would follow the opening of the county at this time. Several of the friends of Mr. Richard have approached Mr. Melanson in the hope that he could be induced to allow the Solicitor General to go in by acclamation in case the county was opened. Mr. Melanson has already stated that he was in the hands of his friends and no compromise of this sort will be made by him before coming to the polls. As to the availability of the county, while a large number of the Acadians entertain a high opinion of Mr. Richard in his personal capacity, yet the result of the polling in October shows that they do not regard him as their representative. As an Acadia representative Mr. Melanson has done himself credit in the past and we have no fear that he will remain inactive and allow Mr. Richard to place himself as the leader of the people of his race unless it is the wish of his friends in convention.

THE THOMPSON CABINET.

On Monday Sir John Thompson finished the work of choosing his cabinet ministers. There are some changes both in the personnel of the cabinet as well as in the active machinery of the government. In the past the work of collecting the tariff and inland revenues and transacting the general customs business of the country devolved upon the Minister of Customs. This portion has been abolished as such, and in its stead a department of Trade and Commerce created. The minister who presides over this department will have as aides two deputy ministers styled controller of Customs and collector of Inland Revenue. The cabinet as at present constituted is as follows:

Sir John S. D. Thompson, premier and minister of justice.
Hon. Mackenzie Bowell, trade and commerce.
Hon. Geo. E. Foster, finance.
Sir A. P. Caron, postmaster general.
Hon. John Costigan, secretary of state.
Hon. C. H. Tupper, marine and fisheries.
Hon. John Haggart, railways and canals.
Hon. J. A. Oulmet, public works.
Hon. J. C. P. Poirer, militia.
Hon. Thomas M. Doherty, interior.
Hon. A. R. Angers, agriculture.
W. B. Ives, president of the privy council.
Hon. John Abbott and Hon. Messrs. Smith and Caplan, cabinet ministers revenue.
J. J. Curran, Q. C., solicitor general.

A RICH MAN.

In the death of Jay Gould the New York and manufacturers we have a proof that on no occasion is it satisfactory to soothe "the dull cold ear of death." It is usual when a great man dies, as well as when a good man passes away, for the papers of all creeds and opinions to join hands and vie with each other in saying that such and such a dear departed. Some great men are truly good and what is spoken of their merits after death, is flavored with truth, but in the case of Mr. Gould was said of his virtues has been said from complimentary and far from untrue. As no every man can be said to be superior to the Ontario product, both in quantity, quality and in cost of production. Let us hear this subject discussed. If necessary get a practical butter maker who is engaged in a private or cooperative factory in Ontario to give us his experience and if it is favorable take advantage of it. When once dairy herds are established on Westernland farms it means the supplying of our home market with butter, cheese, hog products and the consequent increase in the fertility of the soil will enable the home market to be supplied by the home growers.

The exact wealth of Jay Gould can be but estimated. The brokers of New York place it at one hundred millions but the inventory placed it as below. His annual income was four millions:

20,000,000 Western Union at $5
$20,000,000 Manhattan at $25
$20,000,000 Montreal Pacific at $5
$20,000,000 International at $5
$20,000,000 (estimated) miscellaneous
stocks at $5
3,000,000 bonds
Personal property
Total $92,100,000

THE KENT ELECTION.

The election of a member to represent Kent was held at St. George's on Tuesday, and resulted in the return of George V. McInerney independent conservative. The vote was as follows: McInerney, 1082; Leblanc, 1133; Johnson, cons. 601.

Mr. McInerney has been defeated in federal and local contests six times. He is about 35 years of age, a son of Hon. Mr. McInerney, and is one of the ablest men in his section of the province. Mr. Phinney M. P. P. supported him through the canvass.

THE LAST ACT IN BUCK'S CAREER.

A MYSTERY SOLVED.

The Post was compelled to go to press last week upon receipt of the despatch announcing that the drop had fallen and that Buck, or Robert Olsen had paid the penalty of his murder of Joseph Steadman. For sixteen minutes after the body was jerked into the air, the heart beats were perceptible, growing fainter and fainter however, until they finally ceased. It is positive that the victim felt no pain after the rope struck him. Death was instantaneous and comparatively painless. The body was allowed to hang for 30 minutes before it was lowered and the usual formal inquest held. When the black cap was removed the face bore not a trace of the awful fate of the man. It was pale, but no paler than before the execution when the blood of life was in its veins. The eyes were closed. The lips set as if composed for the sweetest sleep and beyond the mark of the fatal knot just back of the left ear the body bore no sign of the cause of death. Over a dozen medical men viewed the body but disassembled as to the exact cause of death. Some said strangulation, others dislocation, others that the neck was broken. Radcliffe, the executioner said the neck was undoubtedly broken, and that death was painless.

Coroner Geo. W. Chandler, empaneled the following jury: Alex. D. Wilk (foreman), M. B. Palmer, W. D. Wilk, H. J. McCreath, S. L. Chapman, F. J. King and Robert Dobson, and an inquest was then held over the remains. The witnesses examined were: J. F. Tait and Dr. Allen, and the following verdict given:

We find that the said Robert Olsen, alias "Buck," died by execution and hanging in the Dorchester jail yard, on the 1st of December, 1892.

Shortly afterward a number of the medical men held a private examination of the body, and extracted the bullet which has been in Buck's leg since the fatal night. The bullet had become encysted in fat and had apparently moved upwards from its first position. It proved to be from a .38 calibre revolver and was therefore fired by "him." This is the fourth shot, the bullet of which could not be found. It is now clear why Buck so strenuously objected to having a rumour spread that he would imperil his friend's chances with the jury and he certainly knew that his friend had fired the shot. The fidelity and consistency of these medical men in the darkest hours of their lives appear to have been greater than the same passion as it is usually manifested among men in high and more noble walks of life. Upon the arms were a number of figures tattooed in India ink, in red and blue. Picked into the flesh of the right forearm, an eagle holding an oval shield also in red and blue; on the left arm, a framework composed of six United States flags, three some time, since this form of decoration is confined principally to the sea-faring classes. So far as is yet known Buck never disclosed his identity. Mr. Grant has counsel claim to have been given by his real name by the man, but Buck was such a noted big liar that no confidence is to be placed in his statements. A few hours before he was to be hanged he said the story of his life as given in the Plaindealer was a tissue of lies. If he is not the notorious Buck, we shall then his real name will be revealed only by accident.

The following is the certificate of the jail surgeon, sheriff, jailor and deputies: I, J. Francis Teed, surgeon of the common jail of Westmorland, do hereby certify that I, this day, examined the body of Robert Olsen, commonly called "Buck," on whom judgment of death was this day pronounced in the said prison, and that on such examination I found that said Robert Olsen, commonly called "Buck" was dead.

Dated this first day of December, A. D. 1892.

J. FRANCIS TEED.

ADDITIONAL CERTIFICATE.

We, the undersigned, hereby declare that judgment of death was this day executed on Robert Olsen, commonly called "Buck," in the common jail for the county of Westmorland, and in our presence.

Dated this last day of December, A. D. 1892.

A. McQUEEN, Sheriff.

E. V. TAIT, Jailor.

R. F. KEITH.

S. EDGAR WILSON, Deputy Sheriff.

The execution of Buck has brought to public notice a host of people with ideas upon the subject of capital punishment. A few newspapers and a great many writers have registered their opinions against this mode of punishment, branding it as inhuman and beneath the present generation of mankind. While an execution is something which contains all the elements of a painful and horrible spectacle, it is well not to lose sight of the object of capital punishment. It is not solely that the felon may meet with his just deserts, but he is compelled to suffer death; not alone to avenge the wrong done his victim is his life destroyed, but that others know of the terrible penalty which the law decrees shall follow the commission of the gravest crimes, shall live in more thorough respect for the law and in fear of the consequences of the violation. In this case the greatest concern has been expressed for the personal comfort of Buck. Has there been a word said about the wife and orphaned children of the victim. Judging from the fact that a public subscription was started for their support one may suppose that they are in destitute or straitened circumstances, and compelled to face the battle of life without the strong arm of the husband and father to guide and protect them. Those who worked for the commutation of the sentence and signed the petition failed to "take this view of the case and help for Buck alone. There are many who fail to see why a murderer should be given any better treatment than he gave his victim and the civilized world is so long to those in authority believe that a murderer shall pay for the life he destroyed with his own.

The Kickapoo Indian Medicine Co. Party No. 36 has conducted its business in a most liberal and straightforward manner and met the approval of our entire community, and their farewell entertainment which takes place this coming Monday night cannot but draw the entire population of Sackville and strangers for miles around.—A.

Maritime Matters.

Incorporation is being agitated for Wolfville. The population is about 1400.

—Hon. Richard Bellamy died at New York City on Tuesday. He left property worth about $10,000.

The department of marine and fisheries has decided to send an exhibit of New Brunswick fish to the World's Fair. These to be forwarded from St. John will be one barrel of eels, one barrel of best Quoddy herring, a box of finnan haddies, a box of bladders, and an assortment of boned cod.

—W. H. Love of St. John has entered for exhibition at the World's Fair a collection of buttons for British officers' clothing. They number 684, are all different, and are artistically arranged on a shield. It has taken him nine years to make the collection, necessitating correspondence with officers in all parts of the world.

—The men who had been searching for the bodies of the three Campbell men who were drowned by upsetting canoe in the Bay of Fundy, have given up the hunt and returned. They saw nothing of the bodies. Neither of the drowned men understood the manner of their death.

—A steamer for the Dominion Government is to be built at New Glasgow, N. S., this winter by I. Matheson & Co. The steel plates for the purpose are to be imported from Britain, and the rivets, about thirty tons, can be got in Halifax and St. John. The steamer will probably cost $80,000, and is intended for ferry service on the Northumberland Straits.—Monetary Times.

—Owing to the almost entire failure of the fisheries along the shore between Chatham and Miramichi, it is said that a great deal of destitution will exist this winter. The whole district is occupied by people dependent upon the fisheries. Hence the existing and prospective destitution. Already the advance guard of the distressed ones who come to Halifax for the winter, have arrived.—Herald.

—The first mail from China to England to pass over the great transcontinental route of the Canadian Pacific Railway will be carried on the I. C. R. on Wednesday. This mail was brought from Hong Kong, Yokohama and other ports of call by the C. P. Railway and will therefore fire "him." This is the fourth shot, the bullet of which could not be found. It is now clear why Buck so strenuously objected to having a rumour spread that he would imperil his friend's chances with the jury and he certainly knew that his friend had fired the shot.
