The third month under the bond contract with the Morgan Belinent syndicate has passed and up to this time all of the terms of the contract have been complied with to the satisfaction of the Treasury officials. In February last, at the time of the contract, the Treasury goldr eserve amounted to $42,783,060. The net gain in three months, principally from the syndicate deposits, has been over $50,000,000, thus increasing the reserve to about $93,000,000. year.

Strong of the reserve to about $93,000,000.

The Treasury officials say that not the least important feature of their contract of the reserve the Treasury, so far as it was able, from gold withdrawals for export. At this time with sterling averagement to protime, with sterling exchange at its present high rate, this is no light obligation, and it is more than probable that the syndicate has been compelled to make heavy purchases of gold in the west, possibly at a slight premium, in order to carry out its contra cientific American,
